PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

Based upon Sturgis Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure

Introduction:

The basic reason for having any standard procedure is to dispose of the business before the assembly as quickly, efficiently, and justly as possible. The most important principles underlying parliamentary procedure are the following:

1. Parliamentary rules exist to facilitate the transaction of business and to promote cooperation and harmony.
2. The vote of the majority decides.
3. All members have equal rights which must be protected.
4. All members have equal rights, privileges, and obligations.
5. Full and free discussion of every proposition presented for decision is an established right.
6. The simplest and most direct procedure for accomplishing a purpose should be followed.
7. Motions have a definite and logical order of precedence.
8. Every member has the right to know at all times what question is before the assembly and what its effect will be.
9. Only one question can be considered at a time.
10. Those to whom power is delegated must be chosen by democratic processes.

Definitions:

1. Motion--A proposal submitted to an assembly for its consideration and introduced by the words, "I move that..."
 - a. Main motion--a motion presenting a subject to an assembly for discussion and decision.
 - b. Subsidiary motion--a motion which may be applied to a main motion in order to modify, delay or dispose of the main motion.
 - c. Privileged motion--a motion affecting the comfort or convenience of the assembly or one of its members, and having the highest order of precedence.
 - d. Incidental motion--a motion relating to questions which arise incidentally out of the business, or order or manner of considering the business of an assembly.
2. Pending--A question is said to be a Pending Question when it is before the assembly and has not yet been voted upon. The Immediately Pending Question is the last question proposed when several questions are on the floor, and it is the first question that the assembly must decide.
3. Previous Questions--A motion made to close debate upon a matter of business and to have a vote taken at once upon the immediately pending questions. It requires a two-thirds vote and the correct form is, "Mr. Chairman, I call the Previous question."
4. Put the Question--The Chair asks for a vote on the question seeing that there is no more relevant discussion on the question.

Methods of Conducting Business by Sturgis and other parliamentary codes--

The most common means of introducing business to the gathered assembly is the motion. In the case of receiving committee reports, etc. it is not required to make a formal motion.

In order to make a motion, the speaker must be recognized by the chair. An example of the procedure of making a motion follows:

Parliamentary Procedure Seminar

The Purpose of this meeting is threefold: 1. With it we intend to inform all those interested in the fundamentals of parliamentary law and its application in day to day meetings. 2. It is concerned with enabling those in authority on this campus to evaluate their code of procedure and find its short comings. 3. The mock meeting will help those who are in doubt as to the correct forms to use and when an item is in order. There will be no intentional infringement on the laws of procedure in this meeting. The topics for discussion, it is hoped, will lend themselves to discussion, not only from a parliamentary point of view, but also from the view of interest.

There are four main parts to this docket that will be of importance today. The green sheets deal with the presentation and the mock meeting. The white sheets are a summary of Sturgis, and a very general outline of forms to use. The yellow sheet is a chart that will be very valuable in this meeting, as well as in day to day use. The pink and blue sheets deal with the mock meeting and are correct forms of written items to be considered.

The Parliamentarian and any other officers of C.S.A. will be glad to discuss Sturgis Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure and the possibility of future meetings like this with you. This is not meant to be substituted for a more formal knowledge of Sturgis through reading or through a class in parliamentary procedure. Please help this meeting, by your questions and discussion to be a helpful meeting for you.

- a. To Lay on the Table:
Form: "I move that the question be laid on the table."
Object: To lay aside pending question
- b. Move the Previous Question
Form: "I move the previous question"
Object: To bring the pending question to a vote.
Effect: The close of debate; immediate vote.
- c. All other subsidiary motions take this form or an adaptation of it.

III. Privileged Motions (privileged only if another motion is pending)

- a. To adjourn
Form: "I move that we adjourn."
Object: To close meeting immediately.
- b. Other privileged motions are stated in a similar form.

IV. Incidental Motions

- a. Point of Order
Form: "I rise to a point of order."
Object: Directed to the chair, to ascertain if a break in procedure has been made.
- b. Appeal
Form: "I appeal the decision of the chair" or "I appeal from the decision of the chair."
- c. Other incidental motions should use form accepted by chairman and parliamentary.

ALL STATEMENTS DIRECTED TO THE CHAIR SHOULD, IN MOST INSTANCES, BE PRECEDED BY THE WORDS, "MR. CHAIRMAN, MR. PRESIDENT, OR MADAME CHAIRMAN !

Mr. A: (rising and addressing the Chair): "Mr. Chairman."

Chairman: "Mr. A."

Mr. A: "I move that this club undertake a campaign to raise funds for the purchase of the property adjoining our clubhouse."

Mr. B: (without rising): "I second the motion."

Chairman: "It has been moved and seconded that this organization undertake a campaign to raise funds for the purchase of the property which adjoins our clubhouse. Is there any discussion?"

Discussion of the motion is then in order.

All motions should be addressed to the chair in similar fashion. Many motions do not need seconds and are not debatable. These motions along with all other motions are listed in order of precedence on the yellow sheet accompanying this leaflet.

Secondary motions to the main motion may be proposed and discussed. If a question incidental to the business arises, it becomes immediately pending question and must be disposed of before returning to the main motion.

Voting takes place when all debate has ceased. The chair asks, "Are you ready for the question?" If it is clear that no one objects, he then puts the question. Voting may take place in one of eight ways. The most important of these are: voice vote, rising vote, count vote (show of hands), roll call, ballot, and unanimous consent.

This is just a small part of the many rules that must be followed in order to conduct an effective and orderly assembly. However, the codes of parliamentary law are flexible and may be changed slightly to eliminate unwanted formalities in certain assemblies.

I refer anyone interested in the organization and procedure of assemblies to Sturgis Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure. This will help you to understand many of the things which I have not included here and some of the things that I have only lightly touched on. I hope that this paper will help you in your meetings, to understand and simplify procedures and the handling of business. I would appreciate any questions on this or on Sturgis and its relationship to running your club, I.C.C. or other meetings.

Russ Gleason
A.S.B. Parliamentarian

CONTRIBUTING EFFECTIVELY TO A MEETING

The success of the democratic group depends on you as much as it does the leader. To do your part, you should participate intelligently. The following suggestions may help you to be more effective.

1. Speak your mind freely -- The discussion meeting is yours. It is a chance for you to say what you think. Say it! Here, everyone's ideas are worth just as much as the others fellow's. Remember that nobody else has your background and experience.
2. Listen critically and thoughtfully to others -- Try hard to understand the other man's point of view--see what experience and thinking it rests on. Don't always accept ideas immediately, for they might not have sound bases. Remember, however, that there are always several points of view.
3. Don't monopolize the discussion -- Try to LIMIT YOUR COMMENTS TO A MINUTE OR SO AT A TIME. Make your point in as few words as possible and then pass the ball to someone else. Remember it doesn't matter who carries the ball, as long as it is carried in a forward direction.
4. Don't let the discussion get away from you -- If you don't understand where it is going, say so! Ask for examples, illustrations, until you do understand.
5. Indulge in friendly disagreement -- When you find that you're on the other side of the fence from the discussion, say so and tell why. But do so in a friendly manner. Sound conclusions are the goal, and good-humor discussion leads part way there.
6. Come to the meeting with questions in mind -- Frequently your points are accepted more freely if you phrase them in the form of a question.
7. Be action-minded -- Attempt to relate the discussion to possible action which might be taken; however, don't be impatient. Before suggesting possible action be sure the group is ready for such decision-making.
8. Understand the outlines of student government principles -- Read the Student Activities Guide completely, and re-read when necessary. The guide will help you to know how activities may be accomplished with the greatest efficiency.

CALIFORNIA FEDERATION OF COLLEGES

REPORT

My first encounter with the California Federation of Colleges this semester was somewhat puzzling in that the same group of hardworking people I met last semester struck me as very passive and lazy at this first meeting.

I went to the meeting with high spirits and expected to find all the member colleges there and I also expected them to have many new ideas and plans for the coming semester. What I found was very disheartening. The chairman, Dave Harrington, had a lot of great ideas, but he didn't know how to make them workable. He was open for suggestions but he got off the track when Rich began asking him questions about the organizational aspects of C.F.C.

Dave Harrington was, indeed, a very poor choice for the chairmanship of C.F.C. At the last meeting of the spring semester, when we elected Dave as chairman, he asked for summer delegates from each college so that we could hold summer meetings. I waited all summer for one of these meetings but I didn't hear from them again until they called the first meeting a few weeks ago. This one particular point started me to wondering whether or not C.F.C. would go down the tube under the leadership of Dave Harrington.

The few colleges that were represented at the first meeting (Santa Rosa, Merritt, Marin, and Laney) did seem to have good ideas for consideration this semester, but those ideas and the ideas of the chair didn't seem to be able to work together under the framework of C.F.C.

When I heard that Dave had resigned and that Phil Bechtel had been appointed temporary chairman, I became more optimistic for the future of C.F.C. Under Phil last semester, C.F.C. really moved. They held regular meetings and had a written agenda and information sheets for every meeting. In other words, every meeting was planned out in advance and every subject on the agenda was covered in depth, and when we were finished with an item on the agenda everyone knew what was coming off.

I couldn't give you a report on the second meeting because I didn't attend it, but on the whole, with a new chairman, I think that C.F.C. will again become a very workable organization and I hope that you decide to join C.F.C.

REPORT ON CALIFORNIA FEDERATION OF COLLEGES (C.F.C.)

I have tried to evaluate the worth of the California Federation of Colleges, fairly and without bias. My approach was somewhat clinical and therefore I feel that my conclusions bear validity. In all cases my decisions have been made free from emotional consideration.

In revealing the purpose for the existence of C.F.C., that of providing a meaningful base for the exchange of ideas, cooperative effort, and mutual economic, educational, and political benefit, a need is met that is now lacking for members of the Associated Student Body here at Santa Rosa Junior College. Our membership in the California Junior College Student General Assembly (C.J.C.S.G.A.) does not afford us the opportunities for these privileges and responsibilities except in an indirect way: The purpose of CJCSGA being mainly the development of student leadership and commerce of general information. Its political activities are limited to a filtering up process thru its parent organization composed of faculty.

Concerning the operation of the C.F.C., meetings are held with more frequency than any other college association. C.F.C. meets monthly, thereby allowing for more immediate remedial action for campus problems and fuller benefits from economic and educational implementation, whereas CJCSGA meets only once per semester, thus being an ineffective instrument for college dialogue. Although CFC is small, it should grow rapidly.

The current internal make-up of C.F.C. seems to call for some meaningful overhauling. Certain areas of its constitution are vague and need strength. I feel that this is not unusual for a relatively young organization, or unamendable.

Therefore, I recommend, as a member of the C.F.C. investigation team, that C.S.A. approve the payment of our semester dues to the California Federation of Colleges.

CALIFORNIA FEDERATION OF COLLEGES

REPORT

At the first meeting of CFC at Marin, I was very disappointed with what took place. But through much discussion in the committee, we decided to attend another meeting to see if CFC was in fact, an organization and not just a small group of college students getting together just to air their views on many different and alienated fields including items pertaining to State legislation.

At the recent CFC meeting that the committee went to, I was not impressed. One big falisay was that if tye delegates passed any business at CFC, it would not be binding on their member colleges until they respected college student government.

As the meeting progressed, the Chairman resigned his post. Before doing so, he tried to push through an election for a permanent chairman to take his place. Thanks to our Presidents objections, CFC elected a temporary chairman. After the temporary chairman was elected, the meeting progressed (and I use that term loosely).

There was absolutely no order whatsoever at that CFC meeting. Everything brought up was a hodge-podge of ideas and resolutions. Some delegates, including the temporary chairman, seemed to like the use of profain four letter words to add impact to their oratories.

After reading over CFC's constitution, I have come to the conclusion that it is a farse with very many loopholes.

At one part of the meeting a point was brought up as to why CFC has not expanded to get more colleges to subscribe over the past two years. Their reply was that they did not have a strong foundation either economically or otherwise. But later in the meeting, with this weak foundation still in mind, CFC tried to accomplish business such as sending representatives to San Francisco to a meeting on tuition with the idea that CFC was strong enough to vote a worthwhile opinion.

One thing that showed itself strongly was that CFC is still strongly politically oriented.

It was the general consensus of the committee that if we send delegates to CFC, we would gain enough power to rewrite their constitution and change the general attitude of CFC to not become politically oriented but more economically oriented. I personally believe that we will not have this power because of strong blocks from certain member colleges who want to keep CFC the way it has been in the past.

Respectfully submitted,

Ted Drew
Executive Vice-President

CALIFORNIA FEDERATION of COLLEGES
REPORT

On attending California Federation of Colleges it is in my opinion that they need organization, but they do have the ability to become a well organized body and a benefit to Santa Rosa Junior College. I made this statement in the light of this year since I have had no previous relations with C.F.C.

C.F.C. is now in the process of getting organized with the intention of devoting their time to a 40-40-20 system. This means 40% of their time devoted to economical gains to the schools in C.F.C. For an example, a top name band who charges $2,000.00 for a performance will be hired to perform for all six (6) schools (in succession) in C.F.C. for $10,000.00. This will be an economic gain to us here at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The next 40% of time is devoted to helping each other to attain their needs in their own college communities. For an example, to do a case study on giving college credit (units) to student leaders (C.S.A.)

The last 20% of time is devoted to political gains. For an example, it was brought up at the last meeting to write a resolution to have a general meeting of the Area Presidents to pick the topics of CJCSCGA instead of the President of CJCSCGA picking the topics for the agenda.

C.F.C. meets monthly to discuss problems of the various college communities, plus other benefits previously discussed. At the present time there are six (6) colleges attending C.F.C. These colleges are: Solano, Contra Costa, Laney, Merritt, Marin and Santa Rosa. It is the feeling of the other five (5) colleges that C.F.C. is an asset to their college.

Lets back up a little and discuss what makes a good organization.. Of course, a good chairman is essential, but without a body the chair does not function correctly. What makes a body? A body consists of members that voice their opinions on matters instead of taking notes and sitting still during discussions. What does this have to do with C.F.C.? It is in my opinion, after viewing the last meeting, that the people did just what makes an organization function properly; by voicing their opinions, including Santa Rosa Junior College.

It is in my opinion that if the College Student Assembly is behind their delegates to C.F.C. and cooperate with them, that the California Federation of Colleges could be an asset to Santa Rosa Junior College.

MENDOCINO AVENUE
SANTA ROSA, CALIFORNIA

January 12, 1968

Mr. Brook Tauzer
Dean of Instruction
Santa Rosa Junior College
Santa Rosa, California

Dear Mr. Tauzer:

This letter is a result of a motion passed in the College Student Assembly on January 8, 1968. College Hour has been under study by a Student Committee and after careful consideration, it seems that different college hours than are now programmed would be desirable in the Fall Semester of 1968, and the Spring Semester of 1969. The official recommendation of the motion passed at the College Student Assembly reads as follows:

"The college hours be changed from Tuesday and Thursday, 12:00 to 1:00, to Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 12:00 to 1:00."

We realize that before this recommendation can become reality, this matter must be considered by you, and a faculty committee of some sort. We urge the careful and speedy consideration of the recommendation. Those students involved in the study of this matter have indicated their willingness to appear before you, as well as any subsequent committee by which this matter would be considered, to voice opinions in favor of this proposed change.

Your personal consideration and attention to this matter is heartily recommended and would be appreciated.

We ask to be kept abreast of the progress of this study at every phase.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Cheek
ASB President
