Dear Sirs,

More and more wheelchair athletics are becoming an integral part of every schools physical education program. However, funding for these wheelchair athletics is gained mainly by donations and appropriations from boards such as yours. The 1977 California Wheelchair Athletic Games are coming up, and we have six athletes whom we would like to send. The dates for this competition are May 19-22 in San Diego, California.

These six athletes have been under intensive training for six months, working toward the goal of competing in the games this year. Confined to wheelchairs and hampered by artificial legs from competing against "normal" people, these students have struggled to achieve success in their own way. We know that with your help and support that this struggle will be rewarded.

We at Adaptive Physical Education would like to request in behalf of our athletes that we be put on the upcoming agenda. Attached is a breakdown of expenses. I would be glad to appear before you at your request to discuss any further questions that you may have.

Sincerely,

Johnny Hassenzahn

Mr. Jerry Babinau, President
Associated Student Body
Santa Rosa Junior College
Santa Rosa, California 95401

Dear Jerry,

The Santa Rosa Junior College Alumni Association has been discussing, for the past few months, an idea for bringing alumni back on campus for good times, as a means of fellowship, and for gaining additional membership. The more we discussed this, the more enthused we have become and we now envision it not as an "Alumni Day", but perhaps a "College Day" (or some other name) in which many areas/programs on our campus would gain.

Our thoughts now extend to making this program a community affair and a tentative date of May 6, 1978 has been set aside for working purposes. We can see this type of "Day" as being unlimited in scope -- whatever a Steering Committee would see fit to do with it. It can be a money maker for all concerned; however, it will mean work on the part of all concerned.

It could be a day to:

- a. Bring the high school students on campus in order to see our campus in action and to get the necessary information regarding enrollment, financial aide, housing, etc.;
- b. A fund raiser for the individual clubs, ASB and Alumni; and,
- c. An activity in which our whole community can attend and see the various programs we have to offer and visit our various facilities, in addition to having a good time.

In order to put together this type program, which we will list below, we are going to need the support of the students, faculty and alumni. It will mean work on the part of all concerned. If you accept our idea we would suggest that we move ahead and appoint a Steering Committee composed of 2-3 students, 2-3 alumni and 2-3 faculty. They, in turn, will appoint the necessary sub-committees and work could start on this project immediately.

In addition, guidelines will have to be set-up and coordination determined with respect to the college, its administration and staff and facilities.

Mr. Jerry Babinau, President

April 12, 1977

Page 2

Initial funding will be needed for:

- a. Publicity;
- b. Postage (unless the college will absorb); and,
- c. Insurance for the day (over and above what the college presently has.

A budget would have to be determined on this and funds set aside by the ASB and Alumni to cover these costs.

Other costs, which could come from the general receipts are:

- a. Security;
- b. Baby sitting; and,
- c. Food for the bar-b-q.

Various activities which we have talked about, and I'm sure your group could find others which might be included and some of ours which might be excluded are:

1. Open house (all buildings and program areas);
2. Athletic events (as many as possible scheduled for the day);
3. Country fair (with clubs putting together booths and retaining all funds collected);
4. Arts and crafts sale (open only to junior college students and/or clubs);
5. Super Star events (with teams from day faculty, evening faculty, alumni, classified employees, students);
6. Musical and/or theatre arts programs;
7. Bar-b-q.

As this would be an all day affair we think that concession booths should be open all day. We can either undertake this ourselves or have someone like Chauncey Wolcott handle (as he does for football games) and take a percentage (to be divided between ASB and Alumni).

The success of this "Day" depends on the cooperation we receive from the other segments of the campus -- mainly, the students. Realistically the students and Alumni will be responsible for doing all the advance work. We need your help!!! We think you'll enjoy the end result and will have fun in putting it together. The spirit of SRJC is rising and we feel this "Day" will enhance it more and bring together the student body, faculty and alumni who have been asking for something like their old "Homecoming".

Mr. Jerry Babinau, President

BOARD SUMMARY

Office of Public Information (707) 527-4266

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING OF MARCH 28, 1977

ADMINISTRATIVE REORGANIZATION. . . Adopted a new administrative reorganization plan which retains the position of Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Services and changes the position of Associate Dean of Administrative Services to an Assistant Dean of Administrative Services. The new administrative reorganization pattern will be the same as in the Board of Trustees' Subcommittee Report except for the inclusion of the Assistant Dean in Student Personnel, the alteration of the Administrative Services Dean from an Associate to an Assistant Dean level, and several changes in the duties of the Vice President. Trustees also required that Student Personnel Services return to the Board in one year with a reorganization and restructuring plan for that office.

In other comments, Trustees indicated the Associate level for the Administrative Services position was not warranted at this time based on the responsibilities of the position. Trustees also stated they would watch the implementation of the plan to see that the Adult and Continuing Education program was not adversely affected. Changes in the Vice President's job description were based on a letter from the English Department Chairperson, Ed Buckley.

Trustees emphasized that the plan was "not written in stone" and that re-evaluation and adjustments would take place as needed.

DEAN OF BUSINESS SERVICES. . . Hired William R. Wilber currently Comptroller of College of the Redwoods to become the new SRJC Dean of Business Services. Wilber will replace retiring Dean, Bob Maggiora. Wilber was the unanimous recommendation of the selection committee, Dr. Mikalson, and the Board of Trustees.

PURCHASE OF PUMP. . . Approved immediate purchase of a pump pursuant to section 15956 of the Education Code which allows estimates instead of quotes in Board declared emergencies. The new pump, which will cost about $12,200, will be used to activate the 44 year old well on campus for irrigation of the campus playing fields and other landscaping.

Att: Mr. Eugene Canevari

Gentlemen:

Just a note of thanks to you for the trouble you went to in providing me with a copy of "pocket" J.C. Handbook. It is truly a "god-send" to many of us on campus. Many times I have noticed students referring to it in the cafeteria, library, bookstore, at classes and on campus as well as referring to it while waiting for, or riding a bus.

I cannot but wonder if you, and "the powers that be", realize how helpful and time-saving this handbook is; also, it is convenient -- it fits into most pockets.

During my years as an undergraduate, as well as a graduate student, neither university provided anything as useful as this handbook. I can strongly urge that it should become a J.C. tradition -- even if we should have to pay a small fee for it. (at this time I hope it is secure in my bank folder)

Again, my thanks to you for your courtesy.

Each year we at the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank face the task of providing enough blood for the patients of the Redwood Empire. As the population of our area continues to grow we too must continue to recruit new volunteer donors to meet our ever expanding blood needs.

One of the most successful and unique recruitment programs in our area is sponsored by the Student Activities Office at the Santa Rosa Junior College, under the able direction of Eugene Canevari and David Harrington. Last year alone over 200 students participated in our 2 mobile visits to the SRJC campus. Much of the credit for this tremendous success is due Assistant Activities Director David Harrington. David's enthusiastic support of the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank is a beautiful example of community spirit shown not only by the Student Activities Office, but by all the SRJC students.

On behalf of the staff, and the Board of Directors of the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank, I wish to thank the Student Activities Office for their continued support of the blood program which is so vital to our entire community.

Sincerely,

Read your meters and save money

To save power during the dry months ahead, PG&E suggests customers learn to read their gas and electric meters.

By reading the meters each month customers can accurately keep track of their energy use and compare it to previous months. Having consumption figures available can help intensify energy conservation measures, PG&E says.

With hydroelectric resources severely reduced by the drought, the power company says conservation will be especially important this summer.

Here's how to read your meters:

dial in the direction indicated by the arrows shown in the chart.

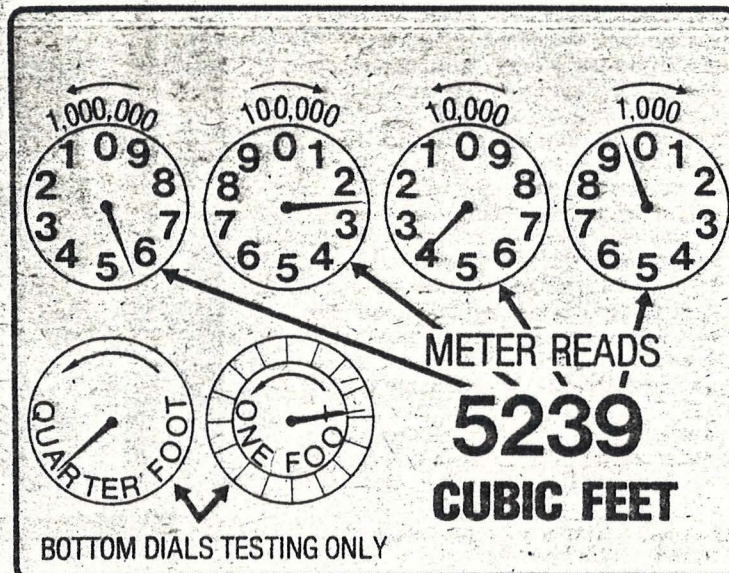

—When the hand on any dial is between two numbers, write down the smaller number.

—If a hand is directly on a number, determine if the hand on the next dial to the right is on or past zero, or has not yet reached zero. In the chart, the third dial of the "Gas Meter Reading" is directly on the four. But since the hand on the dial to the right has not yet reached zero, the reading is recorded as 5-2-3-9. If the pointer on the last dial were between zero and one, the reading would be 5-2-4-0.

ROBERT CALL

SRJC board chief re-elected

Robert Call was re-elected to a second term as president of Santa Rosa Junior College's board of trustees Monday night.

Call was continued in office during the board's annual reorganization. Tradition involves a trustee serving two years as president.

Trustee Albert Maggini was elected vice president and trustee Walter Haehl Jr. was elected board clerk.

The meeting started with the swearing in of new trustees Lianne Reynolds, Petaluma trustee area, and Lawrence Bertolini, a Santa Rosa area trustee. They were elected March 8 to seats vacated by John Lounibos and William "Ben" Race.

In the reorganization, Mrs. Reynolds was appointed to represent the college on the Sonoma County Committee on School District Organization.

College President Roy Mikalson was named board secretary.

Trustees decided their meetings will continue to be at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of each month.

Mrs. Reynolds, first woman to be elected trustee; Bertolini and re-elected trustee John Jacobs, Sebastopol trustee area, were commended on their elections and welcomed to the board.

Other action:

LIGHTING — The board approved a plan to upgrade lighting in parking lots and elsewhere on campus in a program estimated at $8,900. Once completed, campus lighting again will be evaluated for further improvements. The repair and upgrading program is in reaction to complaints — mostly by women concerning the dangers of attack.

WHEELCHAIRS — The board tabled a request for funds to help send a wheelchair team of athletes to state championships in San Diego in May. The board said the team is not a recognized college unit and there is no adopted handicapped or wheelchair athletic program. Trustees worried over insurance, legal and liability concerns. A report was ordered.

SUBCOMMITTEE — President Call named trustees Maggini, Haehl and Bertolini as a board subcommittee on salaries to discuss ideas with staff representatives.

SALE — The board sale of two data processing financial packages to other colleges at $3,000 each since the college's programming is recognized as a leader in the state.

WELLS — The board learned a campus well is operating with all athletic fields now being watered in that matter. Construction is about half completed for connecting all campus lawn sprinklers to the well. Meanwhile, the campus has reduced city water consumption from 60,000 gallons daily two months ago to about 45,000 to 50,000 gallons daily at this time with the reduction expected to continue.

HISTORY — Former college President Randolph Newman will be asked to update campus history based on his years as president.

HEARING — A state hearing will be held April 28-29 on campus concerning unit determination for representation of certain classified employees in collective bargaining. California School Employees Association (CSEA) and Sonoma County Organization of Public Employees (SCOPE) seek to represent the employees.

NAMED — Joan Borecky was appointed activities coordinator for health occupations for 1977-78 as a successor to Joe Hagerty who is resigning.

ATTENDANCE — All trustees were present.

Tauzer named vice president

Brook Tauzer, who joined Santa Rosa Junior College as a history instructor in 1955, will be the college's first vice president.

Tauzer, 51, headed a list of college employees involved in changed roles as the board of trustees adopted a detailed administrative reorganization Monday.

The changes, brought about by increased time and responsibility demands on campus officials, are effective July 1.

Tauzer's title actually will be vice president for academic affairs. He will rank second to college President Roy Mikalson in directing SRJC. His salary will be $38,000.

His position is upgraded from dean of instruction, a post he's held since 1961. As vice president, he will continue to head some instruction roles while picking up top level administrative duties in all areas of campus operations.

Following his start as a history instructor in 1955, Tauzer advanced to administrative assistant for instructional services in 1957 and to his dean of instruction role in 1961. He has bachelor's and master's degrees from Stanford.

Other promotions and job changes at the administrative level include:

ERNIE MARTINEZ — Elevated from director of special educational services to assistant dean of liberal arts.

JOE JOHNSON — Promoted from assistant to President Mikalson to assistant dean for administrative services.

DUANE BLACKWILL — Currently serving as director of SRJC's Petaluma Center and a counselor to director of Petaluma Center, an added full-time administrative position.

CHARLES BELDEN — Advanced from assistant to associate dean of occupational education.

JACK ROONEY — Advanced one level, a salary increase, and remaining as assistant dean for admissions and records.

ALLENE HANKLA — Promoted from administrative assistant for adult and continuing education to assistant dean for adult and continuing education.

Tauzer and Martinez are involved in the key overhaul in campus administration.

With Tauzer carrying about half of his duties as dean of instruction into his vice president's role, Martinez will continue much of his special education duties into his assistant dean's role.

Martinez joined the college in 1972 as director of extended opportunity programs and services.

JC wheelchair cage team seeks support

Santa Rosa Junior College trustees have asked for a study of legalities, liability and insurance before deciding whether to support a group of wheelchair athletes in a meet in San Diego.

The San Diego contest involves the 1977 California Wheelchair Athletic Games with athletes from throughout the state in competition.

Trustees were asked for $860.12 to cover transportation, membership fees, lodging, meals and special equipment including readying two wheelchairs for events.

From the outset of the discussion, trustees were in support of the students going to the wheelchair championships. However, they were detoured from a yes or no decision due to insufficient information.

College President Roy Mikalson and other officials told the board and some wheelchair representatives in the audience the question is one of recognized programs.

Mikalson said that although the wheelchair athletes are both full and part-time SRJC students and have always been part of the college's adaptive physical education program, they are not a recognized team in or part of the college's competitive athletic program.

Last year, two wheelchair students took part in the state meet, then held in San Jose. Supported by $500 from the Associated Students, the two won five gold medals. One went on to national competition, capturing a gold and silver medals.

This year's meet in San Diego could draw six to nine wheelchair student-athletes from SRJC. The competition is scheduled for May 19-22 as an open meet.

Mikalson said the questions involve insurance coverage, college liability and whether the college would be plunged into legal problems by supporting the trip and competition.

He maintained that involvement in physical education is different from athletic competition. As for the college not having a recognized wheelchair or other handicapped athletic program in terms of competition, Mikalson said such a request hadn't been made.

"The question is approving a trip for something we haven't approved of as a college team in the first place," Mikalson said.

John Hassenzuhl, in a wheelchair himself and an adaptive physical education instructor, told trustees the wheelchair athletes are at the "starting point" of forming a competitive league.

A letter is in the hands of Camino Norte Conference officials asking for recognition of the athletes as a team.

Dean of Students Garth Dougan agreed with Mikalson in the difficulty of college support for a group not recognized as a competitive unit of SRJC. He told Hassenzuhl the request for trip money was premature. Recognition should be achieved first.

Philip Morgan, full-time student and wheelchair athlete, told the board it had an opportunity to set a precedent while helping the students.

Calling the board's reluctance to approve the trip money or to take the lead in recognizing the athletes as a college team "frustrating," Morgan said it's that kind of treatment that makes him want to go to another town.

Mary Zatman, a two-year volunteer with the adaptive physical education program, said the group has a proven national champion. "I don't think your football team or other sports teams can say that," she chided the board.

Mrs. Zatman said the faculty and students are proud of the nationally-ranked student athlete. "As a champion, he has to represent somebody."

Trustees, although sympathetic to the request for funds and the wheelchair competition, said they didn't see how they could provide funds for a program not recognized as part of the college.

They did suggest funding the event as a field trip with some officials in support. Mikalson, though, said the legalities and liability question were serious considerations.

Trustees tabled the money request until a report is prepared on college liability and other factors.

VALENTINE

Dear Morty,

I have the funks, Mort, and do you know why? Well, let me tell ya Mort.

Last week our dumb student legislators here at college canned the cheerleaders. Can you beleive that? And despite a poll put out which showed hardly anybody wanted to see the girls dumped, they just went ahead and did it. That's un-American ain't it?

I mean, no more cheerleaders forchrisake; what do they think this is, Servia or something? It makes you wonder if ol' Mom would be safe around here, or if you'll be able to dig up an apple pie next term, if ya know what I mean.

Not like those old high school days, huh Mort? Boy, those were the great days! Remember how we always had to push your old 51 Chevy to get that tank going. And then we'd cruise down to the gym on Friday night for the basketball game.

It always seemed to be snowing or raining 'cause when we got into the gym the place reeked of old sweat-socks and soggy wool. Remember? And old P'ville was always in the process of trying to break some 10-game losing streak, so we sure as hell weren't going there to watch an evenings exhibition of basketball prowess. No way, huh Mort? ha-ha.

The attraction was always Nancy, Lynn, Bunny, and Barbi; the cheerleaders. Right? A finer collection of fannies was not to be seen in the conference. So our alma mater went down for the 11th straight time, so what? Basketball was not the most important thing in the world huh, Mort?

Basketball is such a drag anyway. It's just a bunch of tall sweaty goofs taking turns throwing air balls, and the team with the most losses. The pros drive me crazy. They play three full quarters of basketball and the score is 27-24. Then in the last quarter they really bust their buns and the final tally is something like 187-154. Whay's that? I mean, why don't they just play that final period and be done with it? Plus, no cheerleaders!

But I tell ya Mort, if that old high school gym didn't end up smelling like a freshly opened grave after each game I'd be sitting on that cold wooden bleacher still. What else but pretty girls can get a sports unenthusiast like you or me to sit through such uncomfortable events?

Naw Mort, they don't know how to have fun around here: no proms, no homecoming queens and thee dances are sponsored by the campus cops. Going to this school is like going to a vegetarian barbeque. Char-broiled broccoli anyone? ha-ha! See ya, (but not if I see you first - ha-ha)

LeRoy

It will look great to the students who read this - shows how little attention their student government pays to their wishes - good luck with further surveys.

ASB Special Report

by Pat Hamilton

The Associated Student Body (ASB), SRJC's student government organization, is an integral part of the college. It influences many aspects of campus life by sponsoring student activities and special programs, providing services, appointing students to college policy-making committees, and assisting students with various school related problems that arise.

The purpose of the ASB is to maintain an harmonious atmosphere in which students, student groups, clubs and organizations can operate effectively.

Elected officers of the ASB are the President, Executive Vice President, Vice President, Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, and 10 Representatives-At-Large (5 Freshmen and 5 Sophomores). Appointed officials of the ASB are a Parliamentarian, 11 Commissioners (Finance, Entertainment, Elections, Publicity, Arts and Lectures, Women's Affairs, Athletics, Ethnic Minority Affairs, Committees, Ex-Offenders, Veteran's, and Student Surveys), and a Law Enforcement Representative. Together, the elected and appointed officers compose the College Student Assembly.

Among its other duties, the CSA appoints student representatives to the College-Wide Committees, which are policy-making bodies composed of Administrators, faculty, and students. The committees are: Administrative Procedures, Arts provides certain services and benefits for member students. Benefits included in the $9 membership are reduced rates on day parking stickers, Legal Aid, on-campus accident insurance, eligibility to participate in athletics, reduced rates on admission to most SRJC athletic, cultural and social events, discounts at 177 stores throughout the junior college district, and eligibility for Poppy Creek School Day Care Center, Student Project and Film Grants and Book Loans.

While many of the services provided by the ASB are for members only, certain of the activities and special programs the organization funds, wholly or in part, benefit non-member students as well. Noon hour entertainment, free local telephone calls, financial assistance to the Women's Center and to campus publications are some examples (see ASB Financial Report on page 3).

The ASB is housed in the Student Activities Office in Pioneer Hall. Office hours are Monday - Friday from 9 to 5 (544-0822).

Editorial

The Associated Student Body (ASB) is presently attempting to convince evening students to join. Evening student involvement in student government at SRJC would be a positive step. But at this point there is very little incentive for Adult and Continuing Education students to purchase the $9 ASB card. They would not, for the same price, receive the same-or equal-rights and benefits as do day students.

The Student Activities/ASB office is open from 9 - 5. Unless an evening student is free during the day, and can be on campus, the majority of services provided, such as legal aid, free telephone use, and easy access to ASB officers and campus personnel, could not be used.

Most of the programs funded in whole or in part by the ASB are available or useful only to day students. Poppy Creek School Day Care Center, reduced rates on day parking stickers, the Women's Center, and noon hour entertainment are a few examples.

The possibility of actual involvement in the ASB on the part of Adult and Continuing Education students is limited to the point of virtual non-existence by the Constitution of the Associated Students. ARTICLE III, SECTION 2 states, "All officers shall be regularly enrolled daytime students with a minimum of 11 units. All Commissioners shall also be regularly enrolled daytime students...."

Some evening students may feel the ASB card is worth $9 for discounts on purchases or simply for the right to vote in ASB elections, perhaps with an eye to electing officers willing to work toward making equal rights and services available to Adult and Continuing Education students. In my opinion, relatively few evening students would fall in either category.

If the ASB is serious in its expressed desire to include evening students, it should make a concerted effort to give equal rights and services to night students. A good first step would be to extend office hours until 7 p.m. (if not later) and to make sure all services now available through that office during the day are available in the evening also.

Second, services and benefits available to day students should be duplicated or matched for Adult and Continuing Education enrollees.

Jerry's Commentary

The recent issue of district Administration Reorganization has resulted in unprecedented student and district employee involvement in matters related to SRJC.

I was impressed and gratified by the turnout of students and staff at the Board of Trustees meeting of March 21. I would like to thank the students and the staff, who put their jobs on the line to appear, for speaking out on the proposal.

Since the Board meeting I have received numerous compliments, in person and by phone, from staff, faculty, Administration, Trustees, and community on the presentations made by SRJC students.

I hope to see continuation of this support and interest of all those concerned. One of the main goals of the ASB has been to foster such student involvement in the affairs of SRJC. What ASB does today will make a difference to the future of this campus. A good example is district reorganization.

We are working to represent all students, not just ASB members. A note left in the suggestion box (located in the cafeteria) or a telephone call will receive response from our staff. We care what you have to say.

This is still a community college, not a profit making industry. I realize education has become big business, but let's try to keep a little bit of the human touch.

- Jerry Babineau

Third, the Constitution of the Associated Students should be amended so evening students may legally, and practically, hold office in the ASB.

If the offering of rights, services, and benefits to evening students for an extended period of time does not result in adequate evening student ASB membership to justify the expense and effort, then these services could be cut back. But, for now, it is unrealistic to ask evening students to pay for services, rights, and benefits they may-or may not-receive....eventually.

- Pat Hamilton

Dear Flabby Slanders

Dear Flab,

My mate has interpreted my attendance at night classes as a sign of boredom with her. My problem, Flab, lies in her efforts to "re-kindle" my interest. For instance, every night last week she seduced me on satin sheets, especially purchased for the occasion.

In the first place, I can not afford her efforts; secondly, my physical stamina is dwindling; and last and most irritating, sleeping on those damned satin sheets is like trying to sleep on top of an igloo-only twice as slippery and nearly as cold. Flab, I don't want to hurt her feelings, but I must have relief soon. What can I do?

Flat, Frazzled, Frost-Bitten and Frustrated

Dear "4-F":

Invest in a bouquet of roses, a bottle of Geritol, and a pair of thermal underwear. The flowers will combat her insecurity, Geritol will rejuvenate you, and the thermals will keep you warm until you convince her! You should be back to non-skid slumber soon. Good luck!

Intuitively Yours,
Flabby

Dear Flab:

Can an up-to-this-time evening student find happiness by transferring to the day school?

Searching Soul

Dear Search;

Not unless you still use Clearasil.

Adolescently Yours,
Flab

Assistant Dean of Student Activities,
Gene Canevari

Gene Canevari: A Dedicated Man

by Bill Kirst

Gene Canevari is a dedicated man. Student Activities Director for 11 years, he defines his job as "undefinable". But he explains his work is "to assist students in activities in almost anything they want to do outside the classroom...it starts with student government, advising the Student Assembly."

"We" is a word used extensively when Canevari talks of the student government. An alumnus of Santa Rosa Junior College, he was involved in student government in his own undergraduate days.

Canevari's dedication and loyalty to the students of SRJC are evident when he speaks of some of the programs that have been funded, or partially funded, by the Associated Student Body (ASB), such as the Women's Center, Child Day Care Center, and the Wheelers. Having been an advisor to 22 student governments during his tenure, he proudly states, "I've only had one [student government] where I didn't have a really good working relationship."

There is no doubt Canevari is serious when he says, "It's really important to me that the students who are in government are at least willing to listen; that's really all I ask, because the heart of this job is working with students." He continues, "The rewards in the job really come from the people I work with...in working with students and seeing things happen and seeing people grow."

The director is as aware of night students as he is of the day student,

Voice From the Night Haunts ASB

by Pat Hamilton

This semester, Jim Huff was appointed the first night school representative to the Associated Student Body (ASB). His job is to assist students with school related problems, answer questions, and find out what evening students have to say about SRJC.

Evening student involvement in student government would be a good thing, Huff believes. He would like to see night students participate as part of the ASB, not as a separate student government agency, because "students are students, no matter when they attend classes."

Huff believes the current drive by having been one himself for awhile. He sees the evening enrollee as needing "to have all the rights and privileges." When asked about night students buying ASB card, he said, "A number of the things we do, and a number of the places we spend our money, are centered on the daytime programs."

"It's not that the evening college people could not participate in those things, it's just that if you're an evening college student, it seems to me the reason you are is because you are doing something during the day, mainly working." But he feels that if enough demand were generated by the evening students an attempt would be made to absorb their demands into the current ASB structure.

The Assistant Dean, Student Activities, which is Canevari's new title, recognizes the "night people's" particular situation and is willing to work with them and lend his expertise when needed.

Evening Students: Take Your Choice!

by Jean Durham

As a student service, The Night Owl decided to run a "Services Available" column. Our publication is primarily for the pleasure and enlightenment of the nocturnal student.

Often, night students make noises about being treated as second class citizens. We wish to rectify that notion with this column. Strictly at random, we called the following seven services which are available to students on the SRJC campus:

SERVICE	DAYS & HOURS	EVE HOURS
Career Center	M - F 10:00 - 4:00	Wed. 6 - 8
Community Services	M - F 8:00 - 5:30
Financial Aids	M - F 8:00 - 5:00
Health Occupations	M - F 8:00 - 5:00

Placement--Student Jobs	M - F 8:00 - 5:00
People Helping People	M - Th 8:30 - 5:00 Friday 8:30 - 3:00

Jim Huff, ASB Night School Rep

the ASB to sell cards at $9 apiece to evening students is unrealistic. "They want night students to become active in ASB and buy membership cards, but it isn't a practical thing to ask because they [night students] don't get the same benefits as day students." Of the offerings by both the district and the ASB, he says, "Those services are part of the package. They should be available to everyone."

So far this semester, Huff has had very little response from the evening students he is trying to represent. He feels the main reason he has been contacted by so few of them is no one knows who he is or that there is a night student representative.

Huff keeps "office hours" in the Bear's Den every Monday and Tuesday evening from 6 - 7 pm. He is also available by appointment (call 887-1022 or 823-6404).

ASB Card: To Waive or Wave?

by Carole Nelson

Being a night owl, little did I know of the shattering daytime experience awaiting me. As a favor to a vacationing friend, I consented this semester to register her for day classes at SRJC.

On the "big day" I patiently waited in the bright sunlight to enter the coop. I assumed with a name like the coop, it would be a friendly flocking place. Once inside, however, I detected confusion and frustration.

Through the throng of nervous bodies I waddled from point to point, following the instructions my friend had given me.

Approaching what I thought was "almost the end," I stood before the tallying table and wearily watched the seated man start to tabulate the fee. Stopping, he asked, "Do you want an ASB card?"

"What is that?" I questioned. My comrade had not informed me about an ASB card.

"The Associated Student Body," he said reverently.

"Well, what is that?" I innocently inquired as the line behind me started to fill.

The young man looked at me as if I was a turkey. "The Associated Student Body," he intoned, "is the official student organization of SRJC. For $9 you can join."

"Nine dollars," I warbled. "I'm doing this for a friend and...."

"Look," he said impatiently, "if you don't want the card, you have to go over to the waiver table. Now, next, please."

I felt my feathers rustling. "Wait, what's the waiver table?"

The young man glared nervously and hastily pointed to an area across the room. I started again to ask him about this alien table, but he ignored my pleas and beckoned the next person forward.

I bit my beak and strutted toward a table where several people were seated. "Is this the waiver table?" I sharply demanded.

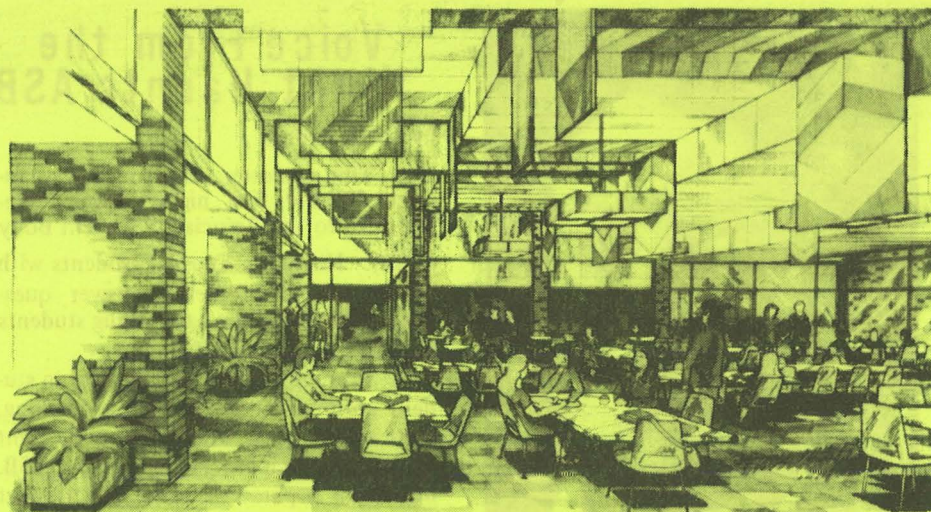

"Yes," a youthful woman answered sweetly. "May I help you?"

I explained my dilemma. She batted her eyelashes and asked me to have a chair.

"I really don't care to sit, thank you. I just want to get my friend registered and get out of here."

"Is the problem the $9?" the cute coed asked. "If it is we can arrange a student loan. The ASB has so many benefits I'm sure..."

"Please," I implored, "this isn't for me, and I don't know if my friend wants to fork out $9 for benefits. What

A perspective of how the Coop would look if remodeled, by the Architects 'Fruiht & Tomasi

Coop Regroup ?

by Peter Fisk

Remodeling plans for the Doyle Student Center Will be presented to the SRJC Board of Trustees by architects Fruiht & Tomasi at a special meeting on April 25. What this means is...perhaps our bleak, bland, and boring feedlot will be transformed into a symphony for sight----to the tune of approximately $850,000.

The plans include increasing the overall dining space while creating more cubbyholes like the Bear's Den, making the dining area more accessible from different directions, including more doorways on the front (south) side, and a doorway and patio on the library (north) side; decorative, sound absorbing panels suspended from the ceiling; increasing kitchen space; new furniture throughout; a student lounge and game room; and do I do if I want neither ASB nor waiver card?"

"You have no choice," she nonchalantly answered, "there's either one or the other."

"What kind of student government is that?" I loudly chirped.

She only shrugged her shoulders and exposed a toothy grin.

"How much is the waiver card?" I said, almost afraid to ask. Then I smugly added, "Can I get a loan for that, too?"

"No," she said arrogantly, "they don't cost anything."

My feathers flew. "Well, give me one of those," I yelled.

She slowly dropped a computer card in front of me and smiled, only this time I didn't get the teeth. My angry body shook as I made my way through the cashier and back out to the sunlight. I took a deep breath, stretched my wings, and flew the Coop.

much more.

Deans Richard Nazarian, Garth Dougan, and Gene Carevari have worked for years assessing needs, sorting out priorities, consulting with architect Tom Fruiht, and the Student Affairs Committee before presenting the plans before the Board for approval.

In an interview before spring break Nazarian (the Naz) showed a great deal of enthusiasm for the project and optimism it will be favorably received by the Board. With great pride he displayed the architect's rendering of how the cafeteria would look upon completion.

"It has been rewarding to help prepare a proposal for an excellent facility, long needed, which is compatible with the beauty of the campus and serves student, staff and community needs," says Nazarian. "Our students have been most helpful with their suggestions for improvement of the Coop."

For years Naz has been avoiding tacky, nickel-and-dime "band-aid approaches to fixing up the Coop," saving the school's money for genuine, functional, significant improvement.

"What is needed is a major overhaul of the facility."

The remodeled Coop as proposed would at last be a comfortable, quiet place for dining, studying, and for entertainment, and its completion (projected 1978) would be in itself cause for celebration.

There's one fox among the chickens in the Coop remodeling plans for which the Naz has no solution: What does one do with hundreds of starving students during the months their cafeteria is torn asunder?

"Feed them in a huge circus tent out on the lawn," one concerned student suggested, "It would tear up the lawn, but it would surely heal if we don't picket."

Date: April 29, 1977

Gene,

On behalf of Adaptive Physical Education Students who have entered the California Regional Wheelchair Games, I would like to request that the Associated Student Body consider approving at least 50%, ($586.15), of the expenses that will be incurred by our students. We in the A.P.E. Program are hopeful that we can raise the remaining funds from the community at large. The Associated Student Body has been helpful to the A.P.E. Program in the past and we are confident that you will approve this request.. Thank you.

SUBJECT: Recommendation regarding election petitions.

If there are not two candidates per office and particularly if there are no candidates for a given office as of the deadline date of 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday, May 4th I recommend that the petition deadline be extended to 3:00 pm on Friday May 6th for those positions.

The CSA could do this on Monday May 2nd with these provisions. This would not be in conflict with any of the codes or the ASB Constitution. The election code states in section 9D "In the event a minimum of two petitions is not filed for one office with the Activities Office by deadline date, the College Student Assembly may, by a majority vote, nominate eligible candidates." My suggestion is merely a permissive use of this clause to do essentially the same thing except by petition.

I hope, however, that we do not have to resort to this tact. Thanks for your consideration of this matter.

'Cheerful' center for students

Doyle Student Center at Santa Rosa Junior College will be renovated into a "cheerful, acoustically-correct, charming, and colorful" location.

The glowing words came during a description of the planned $800,000 remodeling by architect Tom Tomasi of Fruith & Tomasi at SRJC's board of trustees meeting.

Tomasi said the building will be turned into a larger, more open structure with more entrances — including access from the north since in a few years about half the students will be studying in buildings located on the north side of Elliott Avenue.

To tie the building to the rest of the campus theme, Tomasi said, the remodeling will include installation of a new fascia on the building consisting of half-inch-thick mini-brick.

The center opened in 1953. It was enlarged in 1963. The student population has more than tripled in the years since.

Project estimates run about $800,000 with most to be paid by the students in bookstore, cafeteria and other fees.

The project could go to bid in early 1978.

Trustees will consider approving the project at the next meeting, authorizing funding and working drawings by the architect.

Handicapped SRJC athletes won't get funds for junket

Santa Rosa Junior College trustees Wednesday denied a request to fund a San Diego trip for nine wheelchair athletes to compete in championships this month.

Trustees voted 6-1 to turn down the handicapped students request for $1,172.30 for the trip and lodging costs with new trustee Larry Bertolini opposing the denial.

Prior to the vote, trustees, members of the audience and staff held a 90-minute discussion which see-sawed through athletic program recognition problems, legalities, insurance questions and a be-fair-to-everybody approach.

College President Roy Mikalson spearheaded hesitancy on the part of trustees to approve the request on the basis of many entangling concerns.

First and foremost among reasons for the denial is the fact the wheelchair athletes are not a recognized part of SRJC's competitive athletic program despite the fact they are involved in the college's adaptive physical education program.

Following the turn down, trustees were asked to consider a way to recognize the athletes to enable them to take part in off-campus events.

The wheelchair group is in the National Wheelchair Athletic Association (NWAA), causing some trustees to feel that as holders of student body cards they are covered by college insurance and could take part in the San Diego event.

Other trustees felt the athletes could go to San Diego on a field trip and join in the competition, but as individuals or as a team not representing the college.

Due to the complexities raised by Mikalson and Garth Dougan, dean of students, the trustees asked Dougan and John Hassenzahl, head of the adaptive PE program, to look into ways to establish a program for handicapped student competition much like the forensics and agricultural judging teams.

Mikalson said a first step would be to spell out the desired competitive athletic program and the type of athletic events and then seek college recognition.

Finally, Dougan was instructed to discuss the matter with the Sonoma County Counsel's office on legal implications and other concerns involved.

Mikalson and the trustees avored a competitive athletic program for the handicapped, but only if it's developed a step at a time through normal channels.

Jerry Babineau, student body president, proposed asking his student government if it would split the trip cost 50-50 with the trustees. That didn't move the board, although some members said they were in sympathy with the trip request.

Will Johnson, Second District supervisor and a wheelchair-member of the adaptive PE program, asked the board to examine rules and ways to allow competition for students with disabilities.

"I urge you to do all you can to allow the adaptive PE program to continue and, if not providing money for the trip, begin to do whatever you can to provide competition in the future," Johnson said.

Mikalson said, "At this time, we'd be violating the college's internal rules for competition and support if we funded the request."

Trustee Albert Maggini said he would vote to double the campus program for equipment and staff, but not the trip request when there are no rules to follow as with other athletic programs.

Learning there are 402 students on campus with exceptional needs, trustees expressed interest in funding the start of handicapped athletics in an official format.

George Grijalva, head of the People Helping People program on campus, asked the board to recognize the wheelchair athletes, saying a few other colleges are taking that lead.

Bud Haines, representative of disabled students to the College Student Assembly, also asked the board to fund the trip.

Mary Zatman, an aide in the adaptive PE program, again pleaded for the board to see SRJC become a front runner in recognizing handicapped athletes and pursue competitive athletic programs.

Anticipating the board denial to be followed by a request for funds from the student body, Gene Canevari, assistant dean of student activities, said lack of board recognition of the athletes may cloud the student government response.

The matter apparently was left with Dougan to explore with the county attorneys.

Santa Rosa Junior College

Attn: Mr. Canaveri

LETTER ON RESPONSE 4/28/77
WRITTEN 4/28
EM

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to our telephone conversation of April 22, 1977,
I am directing this request to the Student Activity Dept.
for consideration.

On Sunday May 22, 1977 the Santa Rosa Diocese will host the Northern California CYO Track Meet at Bailey Field.

We had proposed to have a concession booth to raise funds to pay for the awards to be given at the track meet. My Group was appointed to run the concession, in discussing this with Bill Bowen, who is a friend he informed me of the arrangement that the College has with Walcott concessions.

Our group is a non profit group and the track meet will be for boys and girls grade three through eight, with children coming form the Marin, Oakland and Stockton Diocese as well as Santa Rosa Diocese, I would imagine that approximately 300 children as well as parents will be in attendance.

By this letter I am requesting that the Student Activity committee consider the possibility of sharing the revenue derived from the concession, I assure you that help you might give will go completely for the benefit of the youth and if you feel you can look with favor on this request
I would submit an itemized accounting of how the funds were used.

Respectfully;

Roy A. Secrist

Spirit squad denied future support

by Kathy Kinion

The College Student Assembly (CSA) decided Monday not to fund next year's spirit squad.

Two weeks before when the motion to provide $2,800 for next year's cheerleaders and songleaders was voted down, the CSA was generally in favor of supporting the squad. But when an actual figure came up, members of the assembly were not in favor of giving that much support.

Student Activities Advisor Gene Canevari raised the question of whether or not to continue supporting the spirit squad financially. Lydia Hall, the student advisor for the 1976-77 spirit squad, approached Canevari with the idea of putting on dances at SRJC to raise additional money for next year's songleaders and cheerleaders.

Disappointed with the spirit squad's performance and efficiency to date, Canevari sought first to establish whether the Associated Student Body (ASB) actually wished to continue paying for the squad's activities. The advisor felt that the ASB had "drifted" into supporting the squad earlier, and had not made any stipulations as to exactly what was expected of the squad.

Previously, the ASB constitution included the cheerleaders and songleaders, and they received three units for participating in the spirit squad. They were elected along with other ASB officers.

Three years ago, the ASB removed the spirit squad from its constitution but the squad still received funding in the budget. Also, there was no longer any specific means of selecting the members of the squad.

"The squad was an embarrassment to us," said David Herrington, assistant student activities advisor.

The Associated Students arranged a spirit squad training session and hired a student advisor to oversee the squad's development. Despite these efforts, said Herrington, "it wasn't as attractive as it could've been."

"Right now we have no definition as to what we want as cheerleaders and songleaders," continued Herrington. "If we do want them, we have to build a mechanism to deal with that."

CSA Surveys Commissioner Teka Burns circulated a questionnaire among CSA members and other SRJC students to establish a student consensus about the spirit squad issue.

A large majority of the students surveyed were in favor of having a spirit squad at SRJC next year. However, the figures were more supportive of having cheerleaders than songleaders.

The survey revealed that students felt funding should come only from the ASB and the district. Some 30 percent of the students felt that less than $500 should be provided to fund the spirit squad.

SRJC cheerleaders follow the basketball action during this seasons action.

Babineau, Demanche eye political sweepstake

by James Davidson

ASB elections are over a month away, but two potential candidates have the presidency on their minds. The political hopefuls are incumbent president, Jerry Babineau who is "sincerely interested in running for a second term" and current vice president Jim DeManche, who decided he would run for president a month ago.

"I want to check the opinions of students," said Babineau before he would verify his candidacy. "If I do decide to run I hope there is one or more people running against me; preferably more than one."

DeManche explained that he wanted the job as president because he was "probably better qualified than anyone else. Although I'm only 20, I think I've done as much in my job (as vice president) as the president has."

The vice president had some criticism of Babineau. "If Jerry decides to run again I personally feel he's making a mistake. My only criticism of Jerry is that I feel he is trying to make a career out of student government instead of realizing it is a learning experience just like any other class or laboratory."

DeManche also disapproved of Babineau's philosophy. "Jerry has said he will use this office as a 'stepping stone'. I don't like this. I think he could do a lot better job representing the students. He should spend more time with the students than with the administration. It wasn't the administration that elected him," said the vice president.

The current president shares the idea of his predecessor Butch Hoover that an officer cannot do enough in just one semester. "At least he should be around if not running. A person needs more time," explained Babineau.

According to Babineau, his major accomplishments in office have been "opening the eyes of the board and administration that students are concerned with reorganization and letting night students know we're concerned about their problems."

Babineau also was active on several committees and feels he has worked towards better community relations for SRJC. Babineau assured that his accomplishments were not just his own effort, but that he was helped by other ASB officers and students.

DeManche cites his major accomplishments in office as helping to revise the parking judiciary committee and "trying to let the Inter Club Council (ICC) run itself by making people learn a little parliamentary procedure. I've tried to protect the ICC from being manipulated by different groups that try to become clubs to use ASB money for their own design."

The vice president feels that he probably does just as much as anyone else in executive cabinet and is involved in two more committees than Babineau. He also was the chairman of the recent SRJC walk-a-thon for the handicapped. "I, along with a fantastic crowd, raised $700. We managed to combine county, city and state officials and school administrators for the first time in the history of SRJC," said DeManche.

Babineau felt that he might have some advantage over DeManche in the upcoming election. "Only because my name is Babineau and I'm at the top of the ballot and because I'll have 'incumbent' next to my name," he said. "Your elected by either popularity or achievement."

Petitions are available for all ASB offices on April 25 and the elections will be held on May 18.

Students use Voice Box

by Jack Hamilton

For the past three semesters, the SRJC student government has been trying to communicate with the student body through the "Student Voice Boxes". The "Student Voice Boxes" or suggestion boxes, are located in the Student Activities Office, the Coop. and COIL.

"I think it's an important means of student communication," said Gene Canevari, assistant dean of student activities.

Freshman representative, Santiago Tarantini, has been in charge of the project this semester. He is working on the project under Canevari's supervision.

The process is simple. The student writes out his complaint and puts it in one of the boxes. The suggestions and complaints are collected every week and gone over by Canevari and Tarantini.

"We've been averaging six responses per week," said Canevari.

The questions which can't be handled by the student government are forwarded to the appropriate department on campus. The questions and responses are typed up and posted in the glass case in the COOP, on Thursdays.

"We mostly get complaints about the cafeteria, parking, and the bands that play on campus," said Canevari.

"We've placed a sign in the COOP that says 'Ask Me, Tell Me,' with a member of student government there to answer questions," Canevari said.

The 'Ask Me, Tell Me' booth has been in operation for about a week. A representative from student government is usually there between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday to answer questions.

"It's been going fairly well. We try and answer questions on topics such as legal aid and student loans. If we can't answer the student's question, we get their name, address, and phone number and get back to them," said Steve Malork, corresponding secretary.

BOARD SUMMARY

Office of Public Information (707) 527-4266

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING OF APRIL 27, 1977

DOYLE SCHOLARSHIPS. . . Approved the presentation of Doyle Scholarships to 717 students for 1977-78 for a total of $174,575. The average award was $244. In addition to the 717 new awards, the Board also approved $59,860 for renewals of scholarships, $15,000 for Doyle Grants and $15,000 for top scholar awards for a total of $264,435.

LIBERAL ARTS BUILDING. . . Approved Change Order #3 for the Liberal Arts Building. The new change order provides for numerous deductions and the reinstatement of the landscaping for the new building.

CATHERINE QUINLAN ESTATE. . . Authorized the SRJC Foundation to maintain custody of the approximately $12,000 in scholarship funds from the Dr. Quinlan Estate, and use the funds in the Foundation's scholarship programs.

OTHER ACTION. . . Approved numerous budget transfers and a 20% increase in instruction for Business Law.

HANDICAPPED ATHLETES TRAVEL. . . Denied the request for $1,172 to send nine wheelchair athletes to the National Wheelchair Athletic Association regionals to be held in San Diego May 19 through 23. Trustees indicated that it was not the District policy to send students to games sponsored by organizations requiring individual membership such as the AAU or NWAA and that since they did not fund the forensics team or journalism students to state and national contests, they could not fund the athletes. In denying the request, the Trustees also indicated to the administration that they would like some system to be established whereby handicapped athletes could participate in some form of inter-collegiate athletics.

DISCUSSION. . . Heard a report on the proposed remodeling of Doyle Student Center. The remodeling project will be financed entirely by student funds and will not be a part of the campus building program, which is state funded and involves classroom and laboratory facilities. The Trustees also heard a report on legal services to the District.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

PERSONNEL. . . Hired Dennis Ryan as an instructor in Aeronautics (full-time); Victoria Reed, Science Lab Technician (full-time replacement, Chemistry); and Martha Torralva, Assist. Science Lab Technician (full-time replacement, Chemistry).

Authorized a salary adjustment for John Reilly while he serves as interim director of Data Processing.

ASB follow-up illness: second term solution

It seems that our beloved ASB president, Jerry Babineau, really likes his job. He likes it so much that he wants to remain in power, so to speak, for a second term. However, his opposition (namely Jim DeManche, current and equally beloved ASB vice-president) would prefer that Babineau did not occupy the throne come Fall '77.

The resounding note here is the idea of a second term in general. And though a Babineau-DeManche weigh-in promises to tip some provocative scales, the contest is still young and needs time to develop.

A second term is not a revolutionary undertaking at SRJC. Occasionally students have held the presidential office for two consecutive terms.

The ASB changes as different students take office. And with this tide of tender young politicians, any drive for needed programs does go out with the old officers in the undertow. There are few, if any, continuing efforts from semester to semester.

If by some miracle an issue does reach the Board of Trustees, they can ignore it until a new student government is elected, and the cause is forgotten.

A second term for any student officer could help curtail this problem. Nine months should be ample time to convince enough significant others of the benefits of a good program.

In our support of a second term for ASB officers, we are not supporting any particular candidate. We are supporting the concept. It is up to the candidate to show us that he-she has started something that is worth finishing.

opinion

ASB officer critical of student govt. structure

Often as I talk with students in my classes and those that I visit on occasion, there is always a topic that arises. A topic that is both esoteric, difficult to comprehend, but necessary to college life.

This topic is that of student government. Does it really work? Or is it the Frankenstein Monster of some student activities advisor's imagination? I don't feel that it's the latter, and I do feel it could be greatly improved in the first part.

Representation and service is what I believe student government to be. However, does student government really represent and serve all the students all the time? I must be truthful in saying that it does not, and for this I apologize. There are methods available however, that if used could drastically improve our participation.

One method would be to force every student to purchase an Associated Student body card. This is drastic and requires state legislation to impose; legislation that is not on the horizon. Another and more logical answer would be to open student government to students. Not just day, but evening college students should be permitted to participate in the governing of student affairs.

I recently introduced an ASB Constitution amendment change. This change, if ratified by the students on May 18th, will make it then constitutional for evening college students to participate in student government. Why should money and time be spent to sell ASB cards to evening college students when constitutionally they can't participate?

Along with equal representation for both day and evening students, a change should be instituted to expand both involvement and participation of each department on campus. In the preparation of the walk-a-thon, I found it extremely difficult to communicate with the Special Education Program. Why? Because there was no student representative. How can ten elected representatives possibly hear and work on the opinions of over 20,000 day and evening students?

The time has come to re-evaluate the structure of student government and to meet with the the present needs of everyone concerned. Each semester we elect new people to old positions; I want to see new people elected to new positions.

by James DeManche

VALENTINE

Dear Morty,

I have the funks, Mort, and do you know why? Well, let me tell ya Mort.

Last week our dumb student legislators here at college canned the cheerleaders. Can you beleive that? And despite a poll put out which showed hardly anybody wanted to see the girls dumped, they just went ahead and did it. That's un-American ain't it?

I mean, no more cheerleaders forchrisake; what do they think this is, Servia or something? It makes you wonder if ol' Mom would be safe around here, or if you'll be able to dig up an apple pie next term, if ya know what I mean.

Not like those old high school days, huh Mort? Boy, those were the great days! Remember how we always had to push your old 51 Chevy to get that tank going. And then we'd cruise down to the gym on Friday night for the basketball game.

It always seemed to be snowing or raining 'cause when we got into the gym the place reeked of old sweat-socks and soggy wool. Remember? And old P'ville was always in the process of trying to break some 10-game losing streak, so we sure as hell weren't going there to watch an evenings exhibition of basketball prowess. No way, huh Mort? ha-ha.

The attraction was always Nancy, Lynn, Bunny, and Barbi; the cheerleaders. Right? A finer collection of fannies was not to be seen in the conference. So our alma mater went down for the 11th straight time, so what? Basketball was not the most important thing in the world huh, Mort?

Basketball is such a drag anyway. It's just a bunch of tall sweaty goofs taking turns throwing air balls, and the team with the most losses. The pros drive me crazy. They play three full quarters of basketball and the score is 27-24. Then in the last quarter they really bust their buns and the final tally is something like 187-154. Whay's that? I mean, why don't they just play that final period and be done with it? Plus, no cheerleaders!

But I tell ya Mort, if that old high school gym didn't end up smelling like a freshly opened grave after each game I'd be sitting on that cold wooden bleacher still. What else but pretty girls can get a sports unenthusiast like you or me to sit through such uncomfortable events?

Naw Mort, they don't know how to have fun around here: no proms, no homecoming queens and thee dances are sponsored by the campus cops. Going to this school is like going to a vegetarian barbeque. Char-broiled broccoli anyone? ha-ha! See ya, (but not if I see you first - ha-ha)

DON'T GET SIDETRACKED, turn-up and give blood at the SRJC Blood Drive. The above pictured Mortimer Whiplash and Darling Nell remotely echo the theme, but should remind one and all of this semi-annual event. Your contributions of the precious fluid will be gladly taken Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the women's gym. The goal of this year's drive is 100 pints for the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank.

New ASB budget: much like the old one

by Chuck Henrikson

The ASB budget committee's proposal for the 1977-78 school year asks for a $400 increase over the current budget.

Each activity receiving funds from the ASB submitted a budget request to the committee for a total of $89,427. The committee plans to hand out $77,000.

Athletic programs will receive $13,000 next year, which is equivalent to this year's allocation.

The ASB asked the athletics department to place more emphasis on women's sports. They complied by drastically cutting the funding for football and basketball. With the exception of women's swimming and basketball which were also cut slightly, women's sports will receive a larger share of the ASB backing.

The athletics department gets the bulk of its funding from the district budget.

The spirit team, which received no funding from ASB this year, asked for $2,250 from the budget committee for next year. This request was denied (as reported in the Oak Leaf, Apr. 14), leaving the spirit team without any ASB money.

Student body cards sales provide 80 to 90 percent of the money in the budget. The remainder comes from football and basketball ticket sales, a percentage of concession profits at sports events, Oak Leaf advertising and miscellaneous sources.

The committee will hold public hearings on Apr. 21 and 28 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at which time individual activities may request reconsideration of their allocations.

Final meeting of the committee is Apr. 28. They will present the budget to the Executive Vabinet on May 4 and to CSA on May 9 with final action by CSA May 16.

Lost items for auction

by Carolyn Hecht

Bras, books and birth control pills are some of the lost items found around campus. These items are brought in to the Campus Police station.

The three main pickup points are the COOP, English portables and the library. All articles are held for 14 days and are categorized by cards. If there is no ID, they will sit in the closet until claimed.

At some time during the semester an auction is held and the collected items are sold for the benefit of the Dean's Loan and Grant Fund. The last auction brought in $53. The previous one netted $70.

The auctions not only recycle useful items and raise money for the school, but they also provide an entertaining and fun activity

"These auctions not only recycle useful items and raise money for the school, but they also provide an entertaining and fun activity," said Eugene Canevari, assistant dean of student activities.

ASB Candidates

FOR FALL 1977

JERRY BABINEAU

During my past year in Student Government, it has been my pleasure to try and act on the questions and demands that have risen during this time, with your vote I can continue to do this.

—PRESIDENT—

In my opinion I feel the major accomplishment of Student Government this semester has been the rapport that has been built up between the administration, the Board of Trustees and student government and I hope to see this relationship continue.

JIM DeMANCHE

LYDIA A. HALL

Vote for me because I'm qualified, responsible, friendly, hard-working and an all around nice guy.

—EXECUTIVE V.P.—

I have two years experience with student government and with next year being a fairly easy year, academically, I feel that I can put an awful lots of time and energy into the office of Executive Vice President.

SANTIAGO TARANTINI

I feel students should work together, "Students Working Together"

DON HOEFS

As a staff reporter for the "Oak Leaf", I am aware of the necessity for all student government officials to get out and talk to people, instead of hiding up in the SAO.

My interests include involvement of handicapped students in student government and the use of clubs as a tool to unite the student body with the student government.

LYNN D. VONDERFECHT

JACK HAMILTON

—VICE PRESIDENT—

DEANNA TAPIAN

One of my goals is to create a better relationship between the students and their representatives in Student Government.

—RECORDING SECRETARY—

I feel a very strong need to work with and for the students to make them aware of what student government has to offer.

COREY L. WRIGHT

DEBBIE LIEVSAY

-CORRESPONDING SECRETARY-

DEBBIE LANPHEAR

My major goal, if elected, would be to truly represent the students as a link between the students and the so-called "organization" with human rights of students, especially Veterans as one of my main concerns---DAVID J. ALBERTI

I don't believe a person should have to belong to any organization or club to have a voice in Student Government---LIONEL (SKIP) BURNS

I have a genuine concern for each student here on campus and I'd like to see them get the representation they deserve by helping to narrow the gap between students and their government---

ESTHER GAREL

What I propose to do is to inform us, as students, about what is happening with student government and ASB monies---ROCKY HIGGINS

I would like to be an open channel between the students and the government---DEBBIE LANPHEAR

It is my hope to be the kind of representative busy students can depend on with the task of keeping you informed about your government.

KATHLEEN "KATHY" VALIM

BE SURE TO VOTE ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

This conference is a result of the combined efforts of many people who willingly gave of their valuable time and energy.

My thanks to members of the Steering Committee who met each week to plan and organize the variety of activities listed here. Thanks also to those instructors who graciously donated classroom space and those students who manned the switchboard.

Finally, my special thanks and appreciation to the many men and women who volunteered to present their special skills and knowledge at the workshops.

It is too soon to say there is such a thing as a men's movement. However, at a time when there is a tendency for special interest groups to form separately, it is particularly gratifying to see so many men and women from different walks of life working together to create a men's conference.

We've only just begun . . .

Board of Supervisors' actions

HANDICAPPED ATHLETES — Referred to the county administrator's office a request by handicapped athletes under Santa Rosa Junior College's adaptive physical education program for funds to send some of the athletes to the California regional games at San Diego State University May 19-22. They need $1,172.

Uncle Gene (& ASB) want you

by Jim Davidson

Active recruiting by Activities Advisor Gene Canevari, members of the College Student Assembly (CSA) and Christians on Campus, made it possible for all positions to be filled on the next ASB ballot in what tagged "a very low-key" campaign.

Faculty members and clubs urged students to run for the 10 offices up for election in a memo from Canevari that requested "help." The positions needed to be filled are president, executive vice president, vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and five sophomore representative seats.

On May 2, Canevari described the candidate count as "running below average." The candidates increased when several members of Christians on Campus took out petitions after they were urged by club leaders to get involved. Other candidates were pushed by current ASB officers to run.

"It's always tougher in the spring," explained Canevari. "So many people leave and other people don't know what they're doing next year. It takes a gentle shove sometimes. When you need people to get involved it takes a lot of personal persuasion to get people to move," said the activities director.

Several reasons were given for the lack of interest in student politics this semester. "The biggest problem," defined ASB President Jerry Babineau who is running for reelection, "is that people are a little leary of all the work that they'll have to do next semester and it takes a lot of work to have an effective student government."

The other candidate for president, ASB vice-president Jim DeManche, blamed the current CSA for the lack of enthusiasm toward the election, "I really think it's because student government this semester hasn't made students as involved as it could have. The fact is that I hear a lot of students say it doesn't affect them, so why get involved?"

DeManche, who was elected to the vice-presidency on the Students for Students slate is considering putting together his own coalition in this election. "Slates encourage people to get involved. That's how I got involved."

The presidential candidates second idea on campaign apathy is lack of cause. "You eliminate a cause and politics can't exist. Maybe that's why no one is running, because there is not cause," said DeManche.

"I think that the newspaper is helping to bury student government because of negative publicity," commented current executive vice-president Mary Ellen Bucci, who is retiring from SRJC student government after four semesters of active service.

Asst. Activities Director Herrington agrees with Demanche about lack of a cause this semester. "We don't have to recruit as hard when there's an issue."

An unsuccessful candidate for last semester's presidency, Paula Peloza is a long time observer of student government. "You get three or four semesters when people campaign heavily. It goes in spurts like that. I wish I could run this semester," she said. This is Peloza's last semester at SRJC.

"It wasn't as publicized," said Santiago Tarantini, who, along with Lydia Hall, is seeking the executive vice presidential post. He agreed with others that there is a lack of issues in this campaign and credits former ASB president Butch Hoover and his wife Diana, who served as recording secretary, for much of the spirit in past campaigns.

Campaign: promises/ promises

"Each student at SRJC should have the right to vote regardless if they're an ASB member or not. I see the $9 fee as a discount for events happening at the junior college. Every student should have the right to vote and it is their choice to do so," said Deanna Tapian.

"I would like to see the SRJC take on a mandatory student fee like San Diego State University has. Alternative energy should be fully investigated in the construction of campus buildings for the future," stated Jerry Babineau.

"I feel very strongly that student employees should be given a pay increase if not the minimum wage. As yet I have not heard any response from the Board of Trustees, but would earnestly back any effort toward higher wages for students," said Jim DeManche.

"I think that more attention should be given to freshmen who are having difficulty in school. It seems to me that a lot of freshmen fail before they give themselves a chance to find out that SRJC can be fun," explained Santiago Tarantini.

"I want to inform freshmen of their opportunities. I'm a freshman. When I was first here, I felt lost and I wanted someone to tell me things," said

Corey Wright.

If these statements sound like the same old campaign promises and issues, it's because they are. The 1976 Fall semester elections included work-study student pay raises, the logo, student involvement, a school psychologist, voting rights for all students and change to the college calendar. None of these were completed this semester.

Of the six candidates re-entering the race this semester, only one, Lydia Hall, the present recording secretary, now running for executive vice-president followed up her campaign promises. Hall refused to make any statements to the Oak Leaf last semester.

Stomach contest update

"I'm thrilled with the cooperation given to stomach liberation by the campus and community," replied Pauncho, of Jim's Stomach fame, when he was told that popular Santa Rosa restaurant the Belvedere had agreed to sponsor the lunch that the stomach contest winner will receive. Photos of stomachs can be submitted until May 12. The stomach judged most unique will win the lunch with Pauncho.

In an effort to inspire more eligible stomachs to enter the contest, a photographer will be in the Oak Leaf office to take pictures of interested stomachs on May 11 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Anyone is eligible to enter except Oak Leaf staff members, judges and their families.

"I'm glad that we're going to the Belvedere. The cuisine is excellent and Jim finds the atmosphere equally pleasing," said Pauncho.

conversation with...

by Kathy Kinion

"The myth of student government is that it 'governs' when in reality it has limited power," said Gene Canevari, student activities advisor.

"People often expect too much of the student government," continued the former SRJC student government member. Canevari said that while it's certainly a form of organized administration, student government must also be understood as "students who are in the process of studying and learning about government."

Canevari pointed out that SRJC's student government can and does accomplish things if, he said, members "have done their homework," and have gone through the proper procedures.

"Often the things that don't work out," said Canevari, "are those that are just done off the wall," without any real preparation.

"The student government has more political clout on this campus than other organizations have," he continued. "Mainly, that's because it's the only organized form of student voice. In that sense it has become the student voice, and that has a certain amount of weight just by itself."

According to Canevari, the student government also has a reasonable amount of financial clout. "They have somewhere in the area of $70,000 to $80,000."

However, Associated Student Body (ASB) funds cannot be spent unless the checks are signed by "various required agencies." Among the signatures required is Canevari's own.

"There's no way that I or anyone else can tell the ASB how to spend its money," remarked Canevari. "Although I suppose we could tell them how not to spend it, simply by not signing the check."

"But," he added, "in 11 years, that has never happened."

Canevari has seen student government change in many ways.

One particular incident stands out in his mind. Two candidates were running for the ASB presidency a year ago when one of the candidates (Michael Platt) accused Canevari of being heavily biased for the other candidate, Mark Stegeman.

The ASB decided to toss the names of the Platt slate off the ballot because of suspected wrong doings in the campaign. Despite the fact Canevari had been mentioned as being biased, he convinced the ASB to change their minds on the matter.

"I felt it was extremely unjust to let this sort of thing happen," Canevari said.

Today another controversy involves the right of the ASB president to run for a second term. Canevari does not oppose a second term, but he noted the two who earned second terms found them too demanding.

"The ASB President is perfectly welcome to run for a second term if he wants. In my 11 years here, two ASB presidents were voted in for a second term. One was later disqualified for poor grades and the other was physically burnt out halfway through the second term and quit," Canevari said.

As SRJC's student activities advisor for the past 11 years, Canevari said that his experiences with the student government "have shown me that when things may not have gone the way that I felt would have been the best way for them to go, they still seem to have worked out all right."

"But expecting perfect results from the student government is like expecting the Oak Leaf never to make mistakes," he added. "Both are set up partly as a means of education for the students involved."

The first major decision handed down by Canevari (with former SRJC President Newman's advice) put the control of student funds into the hands of the student body. Up til this time, the manager of the campus book store handled Associated Student Body matters.

In 1966 he got his present position at SRJC. Instrumental in getting the job for Canevari was Newman. Newman had previously held the advisor post SRJC when Canevari served as a member of the College Student Assembly (CSA).

"My best college experience was my time at SRJC and I consider it my only alma mater," said Canevari.

After a brief trial as an actor in the movie "Storm Center," starring Bette Davis and Brian Keith, Canevari was hired as a English instructor at Rincon Valley Elementary School because he came "very cheap."

Public's right to know – threat by Academic Senate

by J.C. Jupiter

For the second time in as many months, the SRJC Academic Senate (AS) has barred news coverage of its regular business meetings.

At their April 20 meeting the AS, the faculty representative body, denied an Oak Leaf editor and a reporter permission to attend and cover their meetings.

Oak Leaf Associate Editor Nick Valentine asked the AS to review their present policy banning coverage. "We wish you to reconsider your recent denial of Oak Leaf attendance and coverage of your meetings," said Valentine. "We want to cover these meetings and ask again for permission to do so. We feel the Brown Act provisions allow us this right."

The Brown Act is a state law that guarantees public access to meetings of public agencies and their advisory committees.

When it became apparent that the AS constitution was being tested, Courteney Anderson, as president, mentioned that perhaps the county counsel should be consulted. The county counsel is a legal advisor for the school district. Valentine said that the Oak Leaf had already contacted the counsel (over two weeks ago) and was waiting for an opinion.

"In terms of previous motions, we would be in error to let the meetings be covered. The issue has come up before. It would be contrary to our constitution," said Anderson.

"We owe it to The Oak Leaf staff," said senate member Ed Buckley, "for prompt action. Or are we going to just stall them off again and hope they all go on to other schools? Is there any way we could put this at the top of our agenda?"

Anderson replied that before reporters could attend, a constitutional amendment must be made or else the AS would be in violation of its own by-laws.

At that point Buckley said, "That may be, but you miss my point. I want to see the discussion at the top of the agenda." Anderson responded that the AS would first have to return to their electorate (faculty) for a vote to change the constitution.

Senate member Tony D'Abbracci then thanked Valentine for his presentation and remarked that it may have changed his opinion in favor of news coverage.

Valentine then asked directly, "May we cover this meeting?" Anderson replied that they could not. Valentine and the reporter then left the closed meeting.

"Most colleges in the Bay Area allow coverage of AS meetings," Valentine said after the meeting. "In light of these precedents and what I consider AS violations of the Brown act the final decision will be in favor of open meetings at SRJC."

"We feel the AS constitutional change is irrelevant to this issue. They are in obvious violation of the law. We have an obligation to the junior college community to cover all news pertaining to formation of school policies," Valentine noted.

"It seems," said Valentine, "to come down to the Academic Senate either violating their by-laws or violating state law. Anyway we will attend their next meeting!"

Vets' benefits may be cut

by J.C. Jupiter

A new law recently passed by Congress could mean serious financial trouble for students enrolled under the G.I. bill this summer and next fall semester.

According to Mark Chapman, Veteran counselor here, the new stringent regulations are aimed at stopping the overpayment of veteran benefits. But although the new payment policy will help solve some of the overpayment problems, veteran students who are continuously enrolled will suffer some hardships.

"This is the end of pre-payment," said Chapman. "Continuing students will not be eligible for advance pay. Vets enrolling for summer school are going to have a problem this fall," he added.

The Veterans Administration is passing out guidelines for the new policy but at this time most are either confusing or contradictory to existing rules.

The problem, according to Chapman, stems from the fact that vets will soon be paid for the classes actually attended, not for classes registered. This could be a financial burden for summer students whose classes end early August, because payments would not be until November.

"We anticipate losing quite a few vets who'll have to go to work," said Chapman. "I don't think they'll make it through this summer and fall. They'll have to drop out to find work in a job-depressed county. Those who do drop could end up on welfare," he angrily added.

The new VA policy will work this way: On June 1, the vet enrolled in summer school will not get his usual check. Instead, he'll have to wait until July 1 to get paid for June. In August he will receive his July check. But August is also the end of 6 week and 8 week summer classes (end August 4th or 12) so that on September 1 the vet will get paid for only 4 or 12 days of school. Then, because of the new policy which requires the vet to register for fall before he can receive his benefits, he could wind up waiting an additional 60 days for normal processing before he sees any more money from the V.A.

Therefore, the vet could find himself stretching the small check he received in September all the way to November.

Chapman feels that the new policy will do little to help the vet. "I don't think its fair," he said. "These regulatory measures don't work. We're turning into a paper-shuffling operation," he added.

"More stringent regulations mean more problems and more bureaucracy," Chapman said. "We're constantly getting guidelines from three agencies."

There are more than 1500 vets enrolled at SRJC this year. The VA education program was designed to encourage vets to go back to school. When asked how this could be done under the present situation, Chapman said, "I honestly don't know. It's going to be hard because they're going to find out that they're being penalized in terms of benefits. If I say 'come to summer school,' look what happens."

The impact of the new rules have not been felt yet. Few vets at this campus even know that a new benefit policy has been established.

"Most of the comments I've received so far," says Chapman, "are: 'You've got to be kidding!'" away from their food as he baffles them with card tricks. Whenever he goes to a party, Pederson never forgets to bring along a deck of cards, a vanishing and re-appearing cane, and several other mystical trinkets to amaze friends and guests.

Vets are urged to contact their counselors immediately.

Pederson arranges and performs his own stage shows with the help of an assistant. He puts on magic shows for clubs, parties, banquets, and other group functions for a small profit. Though his only advertising is word-of-mouth and personal business cards, Pederson still gets many invitations for his services.

The audience reaction to Pederson's performances is extremely favorable. "My shows are warmly accepted," he smiled.

His talent isn't limited to the Redwood Empire alone. He is one of the few magicians chosen to represent the SRA at renowned bay area nightclubs like Earthquake McGoon's in San Francisco. He has performed on stage in the Magic Cellar at McGoon's many times.

Pederson insists that McGoon's Magic Cellar is "the best place for a family to enjoy magic entertainment."

World-famous magicians do their routines at the nightclub every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

As a member of the SRA, Pederson "learned how to act in front of an audience." Pederson credits most of his success to Jack McMillen, a past president of the SRA and one of the best card magicians in the world.

Another great performer and SRA member who Pederson admires is Nahman Nissen from Petaluma.

"Nahman Nissen is a great stage performer and our club named him the 'Will Rodgers of Magic,'" laughed Pederson.

Pederson admits that magic didn't come easy for him. "It was frustrating at first. Magic takes a lot of finger coordination."

But now, he finds the hardest part of performing isn't doing the tricks correctly, but rather "judging how to please the crowd."

In the future, Pederson plans to "maintain magic as a small-income hobby." However, if he continues his present talented pace, Pederson might have to settle for a career as a fulltime professional magician.

Public's right to know

For the third time, SRJC students have been robbed of their right to know by the Academic Senate. This board, comprised of SRJC instructors, bans all reporters from their meetings and in doing so, they continue to hide from the public.

The Academic Senate claims that allowing reporters to cover their sessions is "contrary to our constitution." But in standing by such a rule, the Academic Senate is ignoring the fact that their ruling document is made illegal by the United States Constitution's first amendment and the Brown Act, which guarantees public access to such meetings.

The elimination of reporters by the SRJC Academic Senate is not a rule shared by many other junior colleges. Of 21 Northern California campuses polled, 18 allowed their Academic Senate meetings to be covered by the press. The remaining three did not.

In denying access to their meeting, the Academic Senate is creating suspicion that questionable deeds are taking place. What does the Academic Senate do that requires every meeting to be closed?

Secrecy in any aspect of government is a menace to democracy. It challenges freedom of opinion by refusing the public complete information. And it threatens all citizens in a self-governing society by excluding them from examining the conduct of public affairs.

Decisions that directly effect SRJC students are made in the forbidden land of the Academic Senate. What is determined there must be made known. It is the responsibility of both the press and the public to see that it is.

The next Academic Senate meeting is scheduled for May 4. This time, Oak Leaf reporters plan to attend and cover that session, in defense of the public's right to know.

Oak Leaf is an award winner

The Oak Leaf won sixth place for general excellence after competing against other California community college newspapers in the Journalism Association of Community Colleges (JACC) 1977 state convention.

The 1976 revision of the JACC contest rules now categorizes SRJC as a "large community college" because it has more than 6,200 day students. For the first time The Oak Leaf moved into competition with larger community college tabloid newspapers. In the 1976 all-state convention it took second place for general excellence.

The general excellence award was given for mailed-in entries from the 1976-77 fall semester editions of the Oak Leaf.

Oak Leaf associate editor Nlick Valentine placed fourth in the mail-in critical review contest with his Jan. 6 review of Gordon Holler's "The Photograph Transformed" collection shown at the SRJC Art Gallery.

SRJC freshman Kathy Kin-ion placed fourth in the state for her on-the-spot news story. In the on-the-spot competitions, student journalists reported on local events planned by the JACC under the pressure of strict time limits, usually one hour, in which to submit their entries.

Other on-the-spot contests entered by Oak Leaf staff members were sports, copy editing and headline writing, front page lay-out, editorial cartoon, feature and freestyle.

Oak Leaf finalists in the mail-in contests were: off-campus news story, Karen Miller; sports and news photos, Chuck Henrikson; newspaper photo story, Steve Hume; sports news stories, Grove Bolles and Steve Malork; on-campus news, Marcene Fehrman; feature story, Jim Davidson; graphic illustration, Nick Valentine.

Members of the Oak Leaf staff attended the JACC state convention in Los Angeles April 22-24. The convention, attended by delegations from 60 community colleges, featured journalism workshops and seminars as well as on-the-spot reporting and photography contests.

The Oak Leaf will enter JACC's Northern California convention competition November 13 in Solano.

Poppy Creek pleads for more

ASB money

by Alicia Viloria

Poppy Creek School, SRJC's off-campus child care center, would like more money from student government.

In their annual budget proposal to the Associated Student Body (ASB) for next year, Poppy Creek asked for $7,000. The ASB now plans to give them $5,500, the same amount they received this year.

However, Gene Canevari, director of student activities, said Monday that Poppy Creek still has a chance to increase that amount. "They made a good case at the last budget hearing, and they'll probably be back at the next one," he said.

Poppy Creek, now in its fourth year of operation, provides child care for 34 children of SRJC students. Participating families must be in financial need. Parents contribute three hours per week to the school and pay a minimal cost based on their family size and income.

Poppy Creek's bookkeeper, Dennis Maxon, explained how the school is funded. About 75 percent of the money comes from state funds. The other 25 percent comes from the SRJC district and the ASB. Their total operating budget this year was $42,279.

"The problem is with the state funds," stressed Maxon. "Even though we're supposed to get a certain amount from them, we don't know when we'll actually see it. It's usually a cash problem," he added. "We know the money's there, but we don't have it when we need it."

Maxon said that this year the state has held back about $1,400. "They don't want to give away until they get 'successful audit reports' from all the programs that they are funding we've already submitted ours, we don't know when we'll get the money."

The bookkeeper explained why their costs are going up. "This year we had a lot of younger children enrolled. Most of them were two and three year olds. We tried to create a toddler program for them in addition to the already established infant and four to five year old programs." The extra staff was a big expense.

Judy Friedman, so-director, said the school's enrollment of 34 is the total number that "space and money will allow."

MINUTES OF THE SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MAY 2 1977

April 27, 1977

The Board of Trustees of the Sonoma County J/C District convened in special session at 7:30 p.m., in Pioneer Hall Assembly Room, with President Call presiding. Members present were Trustees Maggini, Reynolds, Jacobs, Haehl, Button and Bertolini.

DOYLE SCHOLARSHIPS - 1977-78: Mr. Norton Forsyth, Exec. Secretary of the SRJC Foundation, gave a brief history of the Doyle Trust, which generates the funds for the Doyle Scholarships. The Doyle funds are in trust with the Exchange Bank who distributes the dividends on a quarterly basis.

On a motion by Trustee Button, seconded by Trustee Haehl and carried, the recommendations of the Scholarship Committee are approved, awarding 717 scholarships for 1977-78 in the amount of $174,575 (an average award of $244 per student.) In addition, renewals are approved totaling $59,860, $15,000 for grants and $15,000 for top scholar awards, bringing the grand total to $264,435.

2. JOB DESCRIPTIONS - full-time and part-time - deferred.

3. HANDICAPPED ATHLETE TRAVEL REQUEST: Comments were heard by the Board from representatives supporting the handicapped athletic group amended request for $1,172.00 of District funds for participation in the Nat'l. Wheelchair Athletic Assoc. regionals to be held in San Diego on May 19 through 23. The discussion covered the current district policies which do not support individual memberships in organizations, our athletic organization regulations, liability insurance coverage, and financing. Recognition of the athletes as representatives of the college was another issue discussed but not resolved.

Should carefully plan and think through their program WITH A COUNSELOR. Day students on probation, regardless of the total number of units completed MUST SEE A COUNSELOR before being permitted to register for the Fall semester.

SELF-PROGRAMMING..... This is quite risky as evidenced by the numbers of students who petition to graduate, only to find some requirements lacking. Often the deficiency delays receiving their degree or their transfer to four-year institutions.

PLAY IT SAFE ..... Visit the Counseling Office in Bailey Hall and make an appointment with a counselor. If you are assigned to an adviser, you may make an appointment with them through their office which is listed in the Class Schedule.

NO COUNSELOR OR ..... Report to Student Personnel Services in Bailey Hall and ADVISER ASSIGNED? they will be happy to help you.

DON'T PUT THIS OFF! YOU REALLY OWE IT TO YOURSELF TO BE PREPARED FOR THE COMING YEAR!

Have a happy and safe vacation, but don't forget to be counseled before you leave!!

FOR FALL 1977

JERRY BABINEAU

-PRESIDENT-

In my opinion I feel the major accomplishment of Student Government this semester has been the rapport that has been built up between the administration, the Board of Trustees and student government and I hope to see this relationship continue.

During my past year in Student Government, it has been my pleasure to try and act on the questions and demands that have risen during this time, with your vote I can continue to do this.

JIM DeMANCHE

LYDIA A. HALL

-EXECUTIVE V.P.-

I have two years experience with student government and with next year being a fairly easy year, academically, I feel that I can put an awful lots of time and energy into the office of Executive Vice President.

Vote for me because I'm qualified, responsible, friendly, hard-working and an all around nice guy.

I feel students should work together, "Students Working Together"

SANTIAGO TARANTINI

JACK HAMILTON

As a staff reporter for the "Oak Leaf", I am aware of the necessity for all student government officials to get out and talk to people, instead of hiding up in the SAC.

DON HOEFTS

My interests include involvement of handicapped students in student government and the use of clubs as a tool to unite the student body with the student government.

LYNN D. VONDERFECHT

-VICE PRESIDENT-

DEANNA TAPIEN

I feel a very strong need to work with and for the students to make them aware of what student government has to offer.

One of my goals is to create a better relationship between the students and their representatives in Student Government.

-RECORDING SECRETARY-

My major goal, if elected, would be to truly represent the students as a link between the students and the so-called "organization" with human rights of students, especially Veterans as one of my main concerns---DAVID J. ALBERTI

I don't believe a person should have to belong to any organization or club to have a voice in Student Government---LIONEL (SKIP) BURNS

I have a genuine concern for each student here on campus and I'd like to see them get the representation they deserve by helping to narrow the gap between students and their government---

ESTHER GAREL

What I propose to do is to inform us, as students, about what is happening with student government and ASB monies---ROCKY HIGGINS

I would like to be an open channel between the students and the government---DEBBIE LANPHEAR

It is my hope to be the kind of representative busy students can depend on with the task of keeping you informed about your government.

KATHLEEN "KATHY" VALIM

BE SURE TO VOTE ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

The constitutional amendment would be as follows:

James DeManche

Current ASB Vice President Jim DeManche is one of two candidates vying for the office of president.

If elected, there are three programs that DeManche says "I feel would best aid both student government and students for next semester." They are:

1. A review of current student government policy and procedures in order to improve areas, if any that do not meet student need.
2. The promotion of handicapped athletics as a recognized part of the SRJC Athletic Department.
3. The possible creation of more student representatives in the College Student Assembly to better equalize the student to representative ration, and to foster more student input.

The 20 year old administration of justice major has held the offices of sophomore representative, vice president, Circle K Club president and chairman of the Easter Walk-a-thon. He feels that he has "acquired the knowledge and experience to cope with the responsibilities inherent with the office of THE ASB President."

election profiles

17 vie for 10 ASB positions in May 18 election

This semester's Associated Student Body (ASB) election throws 17 hopefuls into the pit to fight for 10 positions on next semester's College Student Assembly (CSA).

The voters may turn thumbs up or down when the battle reaches its climax May 18 from 10 a.m. to 2:15 p.m.

Early balloting takes place on May 12, 13, 16 and 17 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the Student Activities Office.

The issue of night students' eligibility to hold ASB office appears as the only constitutional amendment on the ballot. Currently night students may vote but not hold office.

Jim DeManche, current vice president, goes up against Jerry Babineau, who is attempting to maintain his title as president for a second term.

Lydia Hall and Santiago Tarantini are vying for the executive vice president's chair. Hall currently holds the position of recording secretary and Tarantini is a sophomore representative.

The vice president's race pits Jack Hamilton, Don Hoefs and Lynn D. Vonderfecht in a three-way battle. All three are new to student government.

Deanna Tapan and Corey Wright, both freshman representatives this semester, will try for the job of recording secretary.

Debbie Lievsay and Rodney Gordon Mills have challenged one another for the corresponding secretary's title.

It looks like a game of musical chairs in the sophomore representative contest as six candidates scramble for five positions. The candidates, David Alberti, Lionel (Skip) Burns, Esther Garel, Rocky Higgins, Debbie Lanphear and Kathy Valim are all new to student government.

Executive Vice-President

Lydia Hall

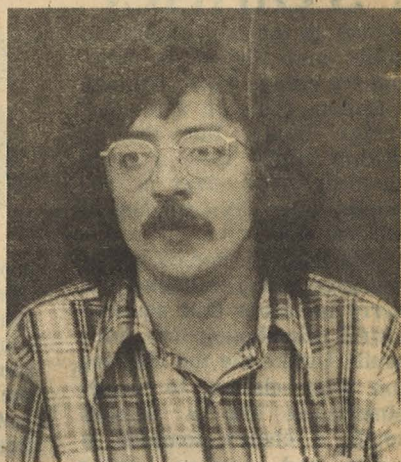

"I have two years experience with student government, and with next year being a fairly easy year academically, I feel that I can put an awful lot of time and energy into the office of Executive vice president," says Lydia Hall.

Hall is currently the ASB recording secretary.

Santiago Tarantini

Current sophomore representative Santiago Tarantini is also in the running for next year's ASB executive vice-president.

"Vote for me because I'm qualified, responsible, friendly, hard-working and an all around nice guy," he says.

Recording Secretary

Deanna Tapian

Hoping to continue her student government activities, freshman representative Deanna Margaret Tapian is running for the office of recording secretary.

Besides serving as freshman representative, the 18 year old general education major is also the secretary of the Circle K Club.

Corey Wright

Freshman representative Corey Lynn Wright is one of two candidates running for next fall's recording secretary.

The 18 year old administration of justice major says "One of my goals is to create a better relationship between the students and their representatives in student government." Wright also sees "the necessity for a better understanding of the student government by the Board of Trustees and the administrators of the college."

The Windsor resident plans to transfer to Sacramento State after completing her studies here.

Sophomore Representatives

David Alberti

"I am extremely interested in the human rights of individuals and the veterans on campus," says sophomore representative candidate David Alberti.

The 22 year old Christian on Campus acted as a student representative during his junior year in high school. He was also a member of the Key Club, National Honor Society and the Varsity Letterman's Club.

Rocky Higgins

Personnel management major Rocky Higgins asks SRJC students: "How many of us, as ASB members, know what student government has done during this spring semester?"

"Do you know where your ASB monies have been going? Do you know what Poppy Creek is about?"

The 23 year old member of Christians on Campus proposes to "inform students about what is happening. "Would you like to know?" he continues.

Lionel Burns

One of six candidates running for sophomore representative is Lionel (Skip) Burns who says "I don't believe a person should have to belong to any organization or club to have a voice in Student Government."

Debbie Lanphear

Business major Debbie Lanphear is one of the six candidates vying for the office of sophomore representative.

The 19 year old Santa Rosan has participated in such organizations as the Pep Club, Future Business Leaders of America, and the Choral Club.

Esther Garell

"I can understand and identify with many of the hassles students go through," says sophomore representative candidate Ester Belle Garell.

"As sophomore rep, I feel that I would give myself wholly to the job, getting out and being in touch with as many students as possible to give them the representation they deserve."

Kathy Valim

Sophomore representative candidate Kathy Valim has been very active in the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA). She has held the offices of FBLA Vic President of the bay area region and of the state of California.

She participated in the student and dance councils in high school where she also handled the yearbook budget.

Be sure to vote!

Vice-President

Jack Hamilton

Vice presidential candidate John (Jack) Hamilton thinks that "the major reason most people are dissatisfied with student government is the lack of entertainment."

The 19 year old journalism major sees "no reason why SRJC students shouldn't enjoy dances, concerts and similar activities" as local "high school students do. "It seems to me," he says, "that this (entertainment) is one of the primary duties of student government."

Don Hoefs

"I find myself to be a very optimistic person," says Vice-Presidential candidate Donald Arlin Hoefs.

"I feel if people want something bad enough, one way or another they will get it." The sociology-physical education major's interest in life is to help people help themselves. I am really into helping children understand what our world is all about," he says.

Lynn Vonderfecht

Lynn D. Vonderfecht is in the running for vice-president of the ASB. Says Vonderfecht, "My interests include handicapped students in student government and the use of clubs as a tool to unite the student body . . ." Vonderfecht is a member of the Christians on Campus club.

Corresponding Secretary

Debbie Lievsay

Corresponding secretary candidate Debbie Lievsay has participated in various organizations in high school including the German and Pep Clubs.

The 18 year old general education major plans to transfer to UCLA after completing her studies here.

Rodney Mills

Running against one other opponent for the office of corresponding secretary is 24 year old Rodney Gordon Mills.

A resident of Geyserville, Mills is majoring in political science and plans to transfer to the University of Oregon after leaving SRJC.

MINUTES OF THE SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

527-4431

March 28, 1977

The Board of Trustees of the Sonoma County J/C District convened in special session at 7:30 p.m., in Pioneer Hall Assembly Room, with President Call presiding. Members present were Trustees Maggini, Race, Lounibos, Jacobs, and Haehl. Trustee Button was absent.

Also present were President Roy Mikalson, B. Tauzer, L. Bertolini, R. Nazarian, G. Canevari, J. Rooney, G. Dougan, L. Reynolds, G. Canevari, E. Pollard, A. Hankla, J. Healy, C. Anderson, J. Johnson, R. Hollingshead, and M. Kilpatric.

DISTRICT ORGANIZATION:

Trustees Maggini, Call and Jacobs, members of the Board Subcommittee on District Organization, reviewed written comments and input received from the public hearing held March 21. In discussion by the full Board emphasis was placed on the proposed restructuring of the Student Personnel Department and the recommended use of credentialed personnel for greater effectiveness, with supplemental support by assistants and para-professionals in the most difficult areas.

The Board consensus was that the fourth Assistant Dean position in Student Personnel not be abolished but be put to greater use by restructuring the department with a time limit established for accomplishing goals and priorities.

In other comments the Trustees indicated the Associate-level dean for the Administrative Services is not warranted at this time based on the responsibilities of the position. However, it was emphasized that re-evaluation and adjustments could take place in the future as needed.

It was also suggested that released time could be condensed into the position of Instructional Development, if it is given future consideration.

On a motion by Trustee Race, seconded by Trustee Lounibos and carried, the Board Subcommittee's recommendations on the administrative structure for District Organization is approved with the following changes:

1. The fourth Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Services position shall remain in the structure. Restructuring of the department shall be accomplished in one year.
2. The Administrative Services dean shall be entitled Assistant Dean of Administrative Services instead of "Associate Dean" with the recommendation that duties and responsibilities be studied in more detail and changes made in the future if deemed necessary.
3. Any structural changes in the Business Services Department could be evaluated after the new Dean of Business Services has had an opportunity to review the operation of the department.

SONOMA COUNTY JUNIOR COLLEGE DISTRICT

- (2) Budgetary Control & Accountability - 2-c: "Develops and regulates a teacher load formula and is responsible for the maintenance of a preset WSCH college average" is omitted.

MINUTES OF THE SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

March 21, 1977

The Board of Trustees of the Sonoma County J/C District convened in special session at 7:30 p.m., in Pioneer Hall Assembly Room, with President Call presiding. Members present were Trustees Maggini, Race, Lounibos, Haehl, Jacobs and Button.

This public hearing was scheduled to provide an opportunity for the college community and public to express views on the proposed plan by the Board Subcommittee on District Organization. The proposed plan entails adjustments by upgrading several administrative positions, consolidates one position, eliminates one position, provides job descriptions and salary adjustments for upgraded positions, and sets forth the organizational outline for the President's Cabinet and College Council.

Procedure for the hearing was set up in advance with scheduled speakers, by pre-arranged order allowed 5 minutes per speaker with time allowed for questions and comments by the Board, and limited time set aside for unscheduled speakers. Written comments were received and copies of the material distributed for review prior to the meeting.

When it became obvious that the Pioneer Hall Assembly Room would not accommodate the large audience, President Call moved the meeting to the Doyle Center Cafeteria.

President Mikalson and Joe Johnson opened the meeting by providing background material on the District Organization plan and a cost analysis.

Speaking for the Associated Students' Executive Cabinet, Jerry Babineau and Cam Parry objected to the elimination of the Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Services, pointing out the need for an accessible administrator for students and suggesting that reorganization costs should include the cost of an additional counselor position - the reassignment for the Assistant Dean of Student Personnel.

Representing the Academic Senate, Courtenay Anderson referred to the objections outlined in the Senate Minutes of March 16, which expressed the need for a statement of purpose, placement of the curriculum, instructional and other committees under the Vice President, and making the Assistant Dean of Liberal Arts and Associate Dean of Occupational Education at the same level. He commended the Board on the inclusion of the College Council as part of governance.

Joan Wion, Past President of the Academic Senate, expressed the need for additional time to study the Subcommittee's proposal and asked for a delay in action so the faculty could further study the proposal.

Reg Elgin spoke on the need to retain the position of Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Services and commented on the numerous positive changes that have taken place in areas under the Assistant Dean's responsibility.

Richard Hollingshead expressed the need for further study of the Business Services division.

Miscellaneous comments were made from the audience, including Tony D'Abbracci speaking for A.F. of T. in opposition of adoption of the plan without further study. President Call adjourned the meeting to Executive Session to hear the views of members of the Student Personnel department, and to review material and set the date and procedures for the next Board Meeting.

PROPOSAL

A growing awareness of prevailing conditions surrounding persons with disabilities has emerged. City schools and businesses have finally begun to make necessary adjustments to meet the needs of the disabled person, however, for many, the process is still too slow.

Today only a few buildings within a city have constructed ramps where previously none existed. Equally, only a small number of public street curbs and restrooms have ever been adjusted for wheel chair use.

Currently known as the "new minority", these people have become crusaders for equal rights and are demanding public attention. Only until recently have their voices been heard.

As a photographic team, we intend to show the present life-style of three disabled persons. We will explore and record various moments during their daily life. Our focus will include individuals at separate stages in life: a youth, a college student, and an elderly person.

We will conduct our work during the summer months and our efforts will culminate in an exhibit during the early fall of this year. As supervisor of our endeavors is John LeBaron, teacher of photography, who has agreed to arrange academic credit for our work.

We have estimated our material costs to be $165.00; a copy of our budget is attached. We hope that through this photo essay we can prove that a picture is indeed worth a thousand words.

My name is Bambi Peterson and I am guilty and tired. Guilty of being ignorant in many ways, but especially in the area of man's inhumanity to man, and tired of being this way.

I've looked away as the girl in the wheelchair comes toward me, just hoping she doesn't stop to ask me a question. I've walked the other way in order to avoid the possible chance that I'd have to help the guy trying to get his wheelchair and himself down the steps. I'm tired of this behavior and what's worse, I'm guilty even of thinking that "these people" were not like me, that their handicaps somehow made them somewhat removed from living a full life the way I could. All the while knowing that, of course, this could never happen to me, ever.

I've never stopped to think (until recently) what it must be like to live in a world where everything is geared for people who stand erect and use their feet for walking.

Yes, I'm guilty and I'm tired. But I plan to do something about these feelings. I am going to photograph a child whose feet are replaced by wheels and who knows that he will always be looking up at the people around him. Through the eye of the camera I hope to teach myself and others about how really alike we all are; that living a rich and fulfilling life is not just limited to those who can climb a flight of stairs without assistance.

As a photographer, seeing, recording events, and capturing the mood of the moment becomes the goal under any condition. Often, I have walked away from a session with more than just a few rolls of exposed film. For me, the experience is as irreplaceable as is each event recorded on every frame.

While working with person with disabilities, I will pursue the experience, record the events, capture the moods, and tell a cohesive story. My portion of the essay will be an essay in itself dealing intimately with the daily life of an elderly person. In order to convey these important moments, an honest and trusting working relationship will be pursued and established. There can be no other substitute.

During my conversations with persons with disabilities, I had a number of questions concerning their lifestyle. I admitted my ignorance and embarrassment and proceeded to ask my questions. They answered by saying that I need not feel too alone in my ignorance, for this condition also exist among persons with disabilities. " We as well as you work from stereotypes too."

As I see it the current condition of person with disabilities is analogous to the Womens Movement. In each stereotype images have become rigid behavior models and beliefs. Changes here, may only come by exploring other possibilities and presenting them as they are; real rather than fantasy. My intent is do just that.

This project, once a flicker of light in the back of my mind, is now materializing into a reality. The idea of working in understanding and cooperation with these people who are so misunderstood and neglected is an extension of a need to help them in their plight. This photographic essay is something I need as well as they. It extends that feeling of "something for me."

I plan to photograph a college student who has allowed me to glimpse into her most private life; her hopes, her courage and her dignity. I plan to recreate her attributes in my most talented way, a photo essay.

I wish to apply myself on this project - to become involved, and feel the joys, desires, and discrimination that each of the three encounters. Not only will this project be beneficial to me, but it will no doubt affect other minds - perhaps opening them up to a consciousness of something that they never before had pondered; to live physically less than a whole, but mentally and spiritually more fulfilled than most. I believe this is in fact how the physically handicapped are in reality. If I can make just one other person aware of these people's plight, then the project will be a success in my eyes.

Having said this, I have only to mention that my two partners and I, working as a team effort to complete this essay, get along with each other and work effectively together.

To Spring Semester Executive Cabinet:

I am requesting an extension on my film grant for this semester.

I will be filming this summer. The reason I am asking for the extension is because <sup>due to</sup> ~~of~~ my heavy academic load (22 units) I have not been able to work with my off campus advisors on my film, nor work on my own.

I decided rather than do a Slip-Shod job this Spring, I would like to allow myself the summer to be thorough and complete.

VALENTINE

When we last left the Academic Senate (May 5) we heard their president, Courtenay Anderson say, "We did reach a decision on the issue (of open meetings)."

The Oak Leaf, after three previous attempts to get into Academic Senate (AS) meetings failed, waited like a traveler without a dime. A hush settled across the campus.

I only hope no one's holding his breath. Nothing's changed. In a May 10 letter to the Oak Leaf, the AS expressed "the Senate's desire to retain its current position with respect to meetings being open only to the electorate of the Senate." The Oak Leaf was placed on the AS distribution list for meeting minutes and agendas. And conversation between AS members and Oak Leaf staffers is encouraged. "Do not pass Go, do not collect $200."

The absurdity of this tempest shows in the May 5 Leaf, in the editorial which reprinted the minutes of a Senate meeting. AS meetings are undoubtedly as dull and unnewsworthy as any on campus. The Oak Leaf tries to attend as many assemblies as it has patience and time for. And invariably the semi-comatose reporter comes back to the office and instructs the editors where they can locate their next such assignment.

Covering AS meetings comes down to a matter of (here it comes folks) principle; of the public's right to know. But I realize this is exciting to no one but me. The Oak Leaf continues to seek angles for opening Senate meetings. The fact that no one cares only makes the battle more pure and inscrutable. There's nothing to be gained but the apex; sort of the journalist's version of mountain climbing.

The Oak Leaf lost that one but all students may be losing another one. Along with the defusing of black studies, another 1960s academic accomplishment may be dumped.

Credit-no credit grading is in trouble. This system is an outgrowth of anti-competitiveness of the 60s. Competition for grades was then and is becoming again the bane of college education.

Credit-no credit unfortunately assumed that all students were conscientious: that knowledge meant more to them than grades. But the system became a cop-out.

Rather than take the ulceric edge off grade worries, it became an almost effortless manner of getting through tough classes.

Many good students still use credit-no credit in its intended manner. If their major is English and they have a science requirement to fulfill they can probably get more out of science if they are not constantly racing with the science majors in that class. The student gets the knowledge out of science without screwing up his grade point average or his stomach.

This option should not be lost. The abuses of credit-no credit need to be controlled. But a return to hard and fast grading will not produce better students: just more creative cheaters.

Must the buck always stop with the CSA?

At SRJC, United States records aren't set everyday. Even with our excellent athletes and huge physical education budget, there haven't been many U.S. standings broken this year. Thanks to adaptive p.e. and their swimmer, Tim Woodville, SRJC has a U.S. record holder to boast of. During the California Wheelchair Games, Woodville set a new top speed in the 50 yard butterfly. He and two other athletes continue on to the National Wheelchair Games. Congratulations!

Despite obvious talents, funding for this trip was a problem. Adaptive p.e. originally went to the Board of Trustees for the money, a logical first step. At the meeting the board expressed their high esteem towards the handicapped students, just as they had when various other student groups approached them earlier this semester. But the board's ruling was a decisive hands down, just as it was in the previous cases.

In a final plea, the athletes asked the board to recognize their group as a campus club. This allows them to request partial funds from the College Student Assembly (CSA). Again, the board refused.

Frantic, the adaptive p.e. went to CSA hoping that the students would overlook the technicality (that the handicapped students were not a recognized campus club) and grant the athletes half of the $1,200 needed. As usual, good ol' CSA picked up the board's tab.

Adaptive p.e. scrounged up the remaining $600 through and an SRJC Wheeler benefit basketball game. It was a close one, but they managed to pull it off.

When it comes to student activities, the board's purse strings are tight this semester. Their reasons are probably sound. But do they realize that the CSA is footing many of these bills? This spring alone, the CSA spent at least $2,000 to send worthy groups on trips because the trustees refused to.

The board's conscience is clear. The students to whom they offered moral but no financial support were all able to attend the events, thanks to the CSA. But passing the buck like this strains the CSA budget.

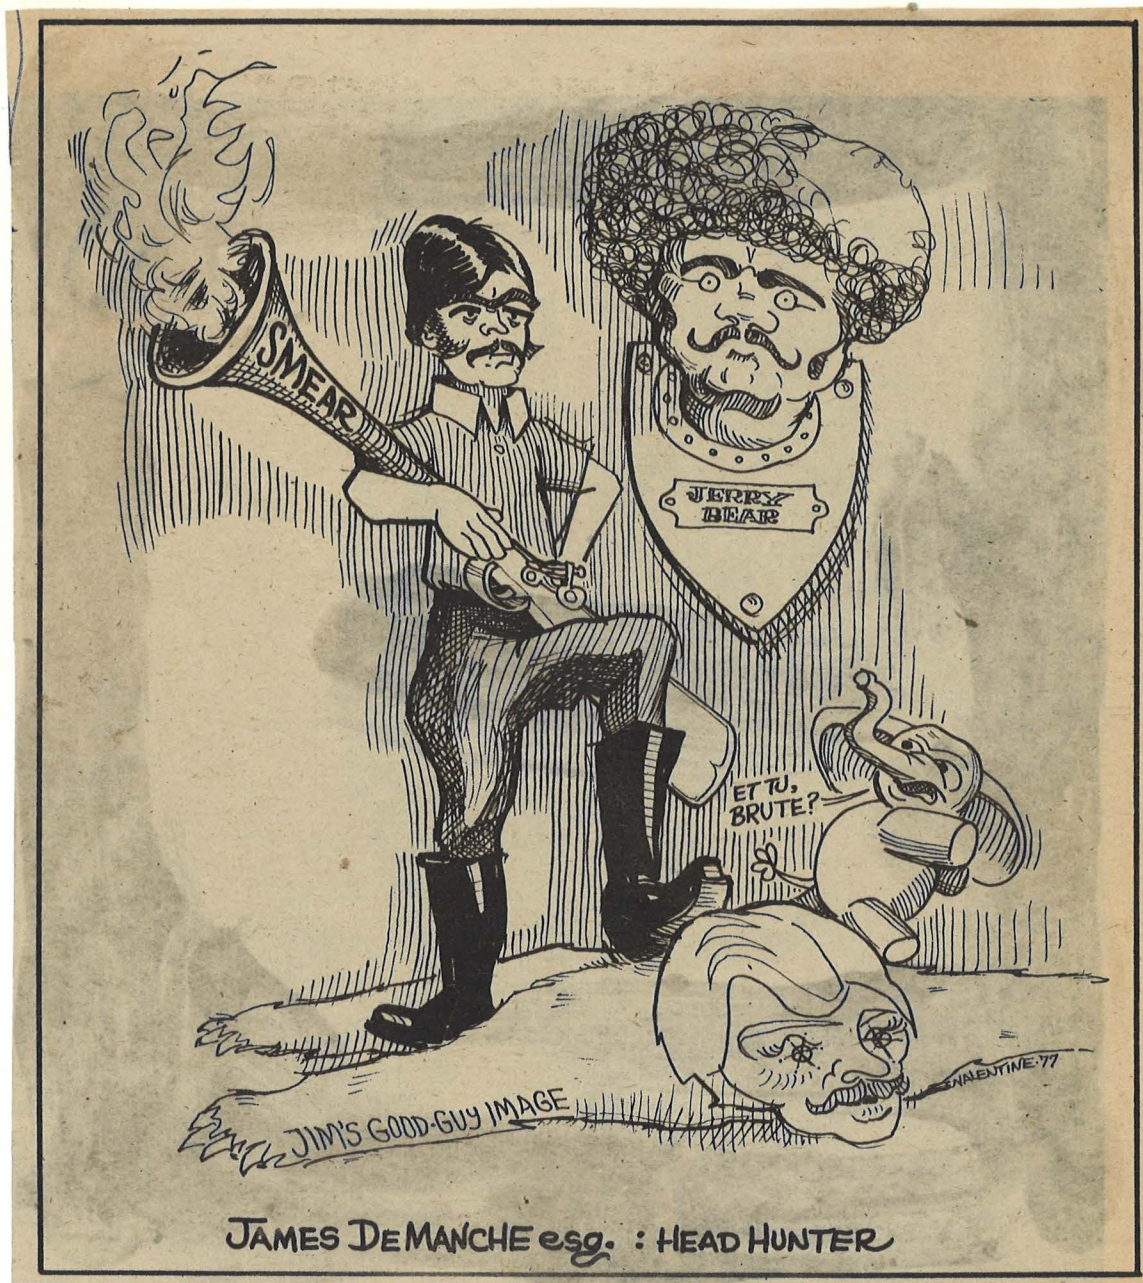

In last week's CSA meeting, the students begrudgingly passed an act that, if approved by the trustees, raises ASB card prices $1. Approval would only mean that students would pay more, CSA would have a little more money, and the board could continue to refuse funds knowing that the students would grant them.

The National Wheelchair Games are in mid-June. Will the three qualifying athletes pay their own way? Could CSA afford to send them? Or will the Board of Trustees finally lend a hand?

More money for ASB cards

by Jim Davidson

Lame duck College Student Assembly (CSA) President Jerry Babineau served as a tie breaker for the first and last time when the vote was 10 to 10 on whether or not to recommend to the board of trustees a raise in student body card fees from nine to $10. With Babineau's yes vote, the motion passed.

The motion, made by corresponding secretary Steve Malork, aroused controversy. Malork's "major concern" was for next semester. 34 to 47 activities got cut or the budgets stayed the same with inflation raising prices. There was $11,000 to $12,000 trimmed for the budget this year."

Executive Vice President Mary Ellen Bucci declared that she would personally recommend to the trustees that they oppose the raised student body card fee. "I really wonder if we're looking at the alternatives or jumping at the first thing we think of," said Bucci.

The veteran student government member wondered if CSA could do a "better selling job" getting people to join the associated students and raising money through selling more cards instead of raising the price.

Bucci also thought that SRJC clubs and organizations could seek other ways to raise money besides going to CSA.

"A lot of programs have other ways to raise money," she explained. Bucci suggested things like car washes and bake sales as fund raisers. "It's one way to get rid of apathy at SRJC," she added.

Sophomore Representative Audrey Blakeley sighed after a long debate. "It would be really bad to raise the card an extra dollar," Blakeley said.

Activities Director Gene Canevari agreed and thought the dollar may be a lot considering the board of trustees recent decision to raise the student use fee from $2 to $3.

Publicity Commissioner Bobbie Tibbets supported the motion. She told CSA that students get tired of being 'nickle and dimed. Psychology is better to hit them and get it over with and hope not to have to raise the ASB card fee for another five years."

Freshman representative Santiago Tarintini cast one abstention to the motion.

The motion will go before the board of trustees on June 13.

Christian's club grows

by Mark Mitchell

What is the Christians on Campus (COC) club here at SRJC about?

The main purpose of the club is to "provide fellowship and Christian education," said President Rich Sundaehl.

It is easy for prospective members to join COC. If a student attends SRJC and is a Christian he's in. There are no membership cards or papers.

"Outside of its religious aspects, COC is like other clubs," said Sundaehl. It gets involved in school activities and holds fund-raising events.

SRJC defends Black Studies program cuts

Despite a part-time instructor's attempts to link reduction in staffing in Black Studies to racial discrimination, Santa Rosa Junior College officials blame the cutback on declining enrollment.

Allen Wilson, the instructor, is protesting what he called a 31 per cent cut in Black Studies.

In a paper circulated last week on campus, Wilson also asked if SRJC has investments in South Africa—related to recent protests on other Bay Area campuses.

Wilson also accused SRJC President Roy Mikalson of racial discrimination against black people, claiming since he was hired in 1971, Mikalson has hired only one other tenured black faculty member.

By alleged investments in South Africa, Wilson charged Mikalson with taking advantage of cheap black labor from South Africa.

About 40 persons attended a meeting Wilson called at SRJC Tuesday.

From the meeting came formation of two committees.

One group will look into SRJC investments, also naming Exchange Bank in its planned investigation.

The other group will petition Mikalson to reinstate Black Studies cuts and will try to determine if Mikalson is working within affirmative action guidelines in hiring practices.

The recent Black Studies staffing cutback involved eliminating one of two full-time positions because of enrollment declines.

In a statement about Wilson's accusations, Mikalson said the college did not replace a Black Studies instructor who resigned in February due to low enrollment.

"Staff reductions through attrition or termination of part-time staff also were made in other departments which had suffered enrollment declines.

Of hiring practices, he said, "Since 1971 when I arrived, we have hired 10 black instructors at SRJC. Four of those instructors were hired for full-time tenured positions; five were hired as part-time instructors and one was hired as a full-time sabbatical leave replacement."

Although his statement did not indicate it, two other full-time black instructors also resigned. None of the black instructors was dismissed.

Of Wilson's comments about SRJC investments, Mikalson said the college does not hold large portfolios, endowments or investments.

"All the college's funds are held by the Sonoma County treasurer, who we understand, invests them in certificates of deposit with local financial institutions.

"Over the years, we have received small quantities of stock as gifts including Pacific Gas & Electric, Dan River, Lucky Stores and the Exchange Bank," he said.

Mikalson said the college plans to offer nine sections of Black Studies in the fall, a reduction of two from the previous year due to the enrollment drop in the day program.

In the evening program, classes are offered strictly on an enrollment basis and are dropped if insufficient signups occur. The number of evening Black Studies courses next fall will not be known until after registration.

FOR FALL 1977

JERRY BABINEAU

In my opinion I feel the major accomplishment of Student Government this semester has been the rapport that has been built up between the administration, the Board of Trustees and student government and I hope to see this relationship continue.

-PRESIDENT-

During my past year in Student Government, it has been my pleasure to try and act on the questions and demands that have risen during this time, with your vote I can continue to do this.

JIM DeMANCHE

My major goal, if elected, would be to truly represent the students as a link between the students and the so-called "organization" with human rights of students, especially Veterans as one of my main concerns---DAVID J. ALBERTI

I don't believe a person should have to belong to any organization or club to have a voice in Student Government---LIONEL (SKIP) BURNS

I have a genuine concern for each student here on campus and I'd like to see them get the representation they deserve by helping to narrow the gap between students and their government---

What I propose to do is to inform us, as students, about what is happening with student government and ASB monies---ROCKY HIGGINS

VOLUNTEER POWER

Please Cut Here for Mailing

VOLUNTEER POWER IS YOU .....

.....In Eldridge a community populated by about 2,000 very special people. The people who live here are all mentally retarded (called Developmentally Disabled) men, women and children.

They live a relatively normal life. They go to movies and to church. They have dances and recreational activities. They have the own store and their own home, which is called a ward. They (or to be correct, the State) hire people, such as teachers, cooks and waiters, to take care of their basic needs.

WHY DO THEY NEED VOLUNTEERS?

For one thing you can't hire a friend. Friendship can only be made, and the main function of volunteers, regardless of their job, is to be a friend of the residents.

Also, the State operates on a budget and, like any budget, it limits the amount of staff that can be hired.

generally must be concerned with groups of residents, paper work and keeping chores. You, as a volunteer on the other hand, can work the whole time there with one resident or a small group of residents. This provides the individual attention which is invaluable in helping them grow and in giving them a sense of personal identity.

WILL YOU GET OUT OF VOLUNTEERING?

You won't get any miracles except those in your heart. What training and learning is accomplished with these people is an extremely long and laborious process involving years of patient work in most cases.

You will make a whole lot of brand new friends; and you will meet some of the kindest, most loving people in the world.

You will begin to know and better understand the life of the developmentally disabled person.

You will find that under that sometimes grimed exterior there lives a human being who loves and appreciates much the things you do.

And finally, you will find that being a volunteer will enrich your life just as much as it will benefit the residents.

CAN YOU DO?

The reverse of this brochure is a short list of some of the 100 volunteer jobs currently available.

If you are interested in becoming a part of our expanding volunteer program detach the attached form and mail it to us, or call us at Volunteer Services, Sonoma State University (707)996-1011, ext. 213, for an appointment.

Entertainers of all types are needed to work on units as their time allows.

Music Assistant to work with small groups or one-to-one, using music to teach self help skills such as combing hair, brushing teeth, and with language stimulation such as story telling, reading poems, playing songs. This would require at least 1 hour daily.

They will also work one-to-one with small groups of residents to help them learn to work the equipment independently. You must be patient and able to relate well with our handicapped residents. # DeManche wins

Some 379 supporters showed up at the polls to cast votes for their favorite Associated Student Body (ASB) student government candidates.

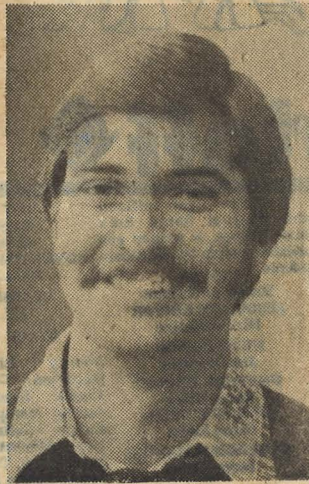

With an overwhelming tally of 229 votes, Jim DeManche took the office of ASB president away from incumbent Jerry Babineau, who received 137 votes.

Lydia Hall gets the office of executive vice-president with 180 votes. With three candidates running for vice president, none were able to get the necessary two-thirds of the total votes cast. So there will be a run-off for the top two next week. They are Lynn Vonderfecht with 129 votes, and Jack Hamilton with 125 votes.

The new recording secretary, Corey Wright, won by a margin of 76 votes.

Debbie Lievsay won the corresponding secretaries seat with a total of 224 votes.

The five elected sophomore representatives are David Alberti, Esther Garel, Rocky Higgins, Debbie Lanphear and Kathy Valim.

Inflation: ASB cards next?

by Jim Davidson

The CSA (College Student Assembly) is currently debating whether or not to make an increase in the price of ASB cards starting next semester.

Last semester's $9 student body card entitles the owner to be an official member of the ASB. The member is entitled to vote, get a parking discount, and various other discounts to school-related events.

There hasn't been an increase in the price of the card since 1970.

With rising costs, the student government is finding it difficult to operate its budget and meet the demands of various organizations on campus who rely on CSA for financial aid.

Price increases ranging from 50 cents to $1 are being discussed next Monday by CSA officials.

Night polls suggested for evening students

Recently the College Student Assembly (CSA) made a push to show night students that somebody cared about them. They proved they cared by putting a constitutional amendment on the ballot in yesterday's election to permit night students to take part in student government.

CSA seems to have overlooked one simple change that could involve a night students more in student government.

Night students can vote in student elections but they must do it between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. if they are voting early, or between 10 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. on the day of the election.

I've always thought that night students are night students because they work (or are in some other way busy) during the day. And considering how difficult it is to get day students to vote it would be hard to expect night students to take off from work or make a special trip to school just to vote.

The simple solution would be to set up a voting booth by the Bear's Den on the Monday and Tuesday nights prior to the election. One immediate benefit would be a slight increase in the meager number of ballots cast.

CANCELLED BECAUSE OF ELECTIONS -- 5/18/77 day these competitors have been waiting for all year — none any more anxiously than Terry Good, daughter of Marvin and Jean Good of Sebastopol.

Terry, 25, is a perfect example of how the Special Olympics — the event itself and the training leading up to the big day — has helped build a positive self-image and a healthier body.

Terry was “dangerously fragile” prior to becoming involved in athletic training at the Lomitas Center in Santa Rosa three years ago.

“Terry was prey to the slightest bug and people used to say she would be blown away by a breath of air,” her mother said.

Although she has a hole in her heart, Terry is very active today. She anchors the school's relay team, runs the 50 yard dash, is a 130-plus average bowler, plays basketball and soccer.

Terry was unable to participate in the Special Olympics here last year because of an injured ankle. She hurt it when she stepped in a hole while on a 20-mile walk. The year before (1975) Terry went all the way to the state Special Olympic finals at UCLA.

“It all started for Terry when Jeff Shaver took over as sports activities advisor at the Lomitas Center three years ago,” Jean Good said. “Her physical stamina has changed so much. She got pneumonia last year but licked it right away. She couldn't have done that before. She's in very good condition now.”

Terry has been a real thrill for us,” Lomitas Center Director Rae Pivonka said. “It was a real surprise for us to find she could be so competitive.”

“I really felt bad about missing it (Special Olympics) last year. It's near to win,” Terry said. “I can remember winning my first ribbon. I was really excited. I remember thinking, ‘hey, I did it.’ It took awhile to get back down to the ground.”

The mentally retarded are the lonesome ends of our society. At home, in school, in the community they are always near the sidelines. Watching the action. Never allowed in the huddle.

Sadly, the ball is never thrown to them, even though, with great willingness, they are ready to do their best. Simply because society regards them as different, the mentally retarded have traditionally been kept out of the game.

The mentally retarded and physically handicapped will have their day, Saturday, when the annual Special Olympics will be held at Bailey Field on the Santa Rosa Junior College campus.

Over 800 competitors will be on the field when the Games get underway at 9 a.m. with a special parade with Snoopy serving as the grand marshal.

Events are scheduled in track and field, the softball and bean bag throws, wheelchair race, volleyball toss, mat roll, pulley weightlifting and wrestling. Swimming events were held in Napa last week.

JC President Still Running

Henry David Thoreau believed a person's senses wake up with the sun. SRJC President Dr. Roy Mikalson lives this philosophy. He rises early each morning and runs three to five miles up and down hills before going to work. His work keeps him running, too. He is not only the college president but also Superintendant of the Sonoma County Junior College District. The latter position has become the "more demanding of the two in recent years," he says.

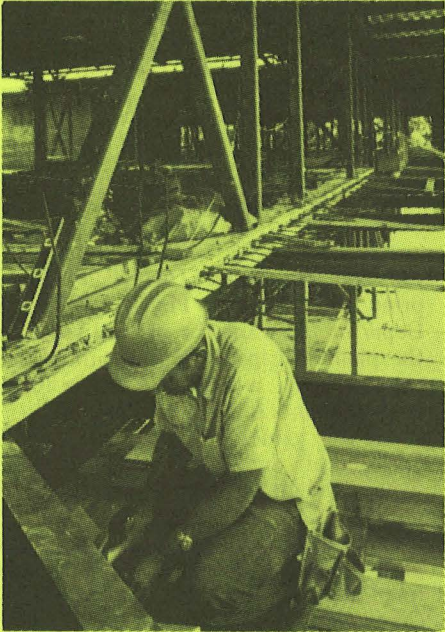

SRJC President Dr. Roy Mikalson

As president, Dr. Mikalson works with the deans in coordinating the overall campus, oversees the expenditure of the $16 million budget and "several million more for construction," and meets bi-weekly with the Board of Trustees to make decisions concerning the school (the meetings are held on Mondays at 7:30 pm in Pioneer Hall and are open to the public). In addition to these tasks, he interviews all those applying for certificated positions on campus and attends various sports events, plays, concerts, graduation ceremonies and other campus activities. As Superintendant of the District work and in politics, attends public functions, and does a lot of paperwork. In the evening, to finish off his busy day, Dr. Mikalson runs again — the second part of his daily seven miles.

Emeritus Hall Construction Progresses

Student Art Exhibit

by Paul Conroy

Day and evening art students will reveal their works in separate, consecutive shows at the SRJC art gallery.

The day program exhibit begins May 25 and runs through June 1. To conclude this semester's art exhibits, the evening division will display their works June 6 - 13.

Examples of students' efforts in jewelry, painting, pottery, and fabric art will be displayed.

"The student show is a chance for people to see what is going on in the studio-art classes, a chance to find out if they would like to take a class," said Art Department Director John Watrous.

Gallery hours are 12 noon to 4 pm Monday through Friday, and 1 - 4 pm Saturday and Sunday. Evening hours are Monday through Thursday, 6:30 - 9:00 pm.

Wheeling and Dealing

As this Night Owl issue goes to print the Adaptive Physical Education Department awaits the official verdict on the planned trip to the California Wheelchair Games, a series of olympic-style athletic events for the handicapped.

The games are to be held at the College of San Diego May 19 - 22. Events include swimming, track and field, weight lifting and ping-pong. The San Diego games are a regional competition prior to the National Events scheduled for June 16 - 19 at De Anza College in Cupertino.

The Associated Student Body has already allotted funds to cover one half the expense of sending nine students to the games, and the Adaptive P.E. Department is diligently trying to raise the remaining funds from the community.

At the Board of Trustees meeting of April 27, official recognition of the Wheelers and the Adaptive P.E. students as a school-sanctioned competitive group was circuitously denied. Dr. Mikalson and the Board were primarily concerned over insurance coverage and questions of SRJC's liability for the students.

The problem has been referred to the county counsel. In the absence of any definitive ruling from that agency, final approval of the trip is up to Dr. Mikalson.

The nine students who will be most immediately effected by the decision are Sharon Ryerson, Kate Lowenstein, Jinx Kirby, Carl Westerberg, Rich Goings, J.D. Jensen, Mike DeMartin, Phil Morgan, and Tim Woodvill.

SRT Soars on Both Wings

by Jean Durham

SRT is warming up for summer. The second design conference was held recently to polish up the technical side of production plans.

Frank Zwolinski, who heads the Summer Repertory Theatre, says, "It's amazing how smoothly all these people from such diverse backgrounds mesh." Zwolinski, along with Bob Rom, business manager, and Stephanie Young, production manager, expects a successful season.

SRT is composed of two wings: the Repertory Ensemble and the Children's Theater.

The Repertory Ensemble will present Cabaret, A Little Night Music, The Visit, The Hostage, and Arms and the Man.

The Children's Wing will do: The Elves and the Shoemakers, Sorcerer's Apprentice, Tribe, Snow White and the Seven Dwarves, and other tales from the Brothers Grimm.

Unique and special is A Little Night Music, by Stephen Sondheim. It is distinguished by having every piece of music in the play a waltz.

The Birth of a Class

by Paul Conroy

The curriculum of a junior college is developed primarily to prepare a student for a four year college or university. But an alternative has emerged—education training for the "working" and "vocational" world.

These classes evolve from both an interest of an expert to share his or her experience and a definable need in the community which has been established and can be met through the college.

Traditionally, the non-academic courses (including vocational and hand-craft endeavors) are originated in the Adult and Continuing Education Division. There the practical test of success and popularity makes it possible to offer some of them to the "regular" day school.

Individuals or professional groups may originate a class through a relatively simple process of gaining the required approval.

On our campus the concept of a new class is presented first to John Healy, dean of Adult and Continuing Education. "If a proposal is made to me [regarding a new class] I contact the department head the class is related to. If the idea is good we break it down to a formal proposal."

The class is next submitted to the Curriculum Committee. If found feasible it is then passed to the Board of Trustees to be officially accepted.

When asked if many course proposals are rejected, the Dean smiled and said, "A few."

He made it clear many considerations and a great deal of care are involved before a new course is established on campus.

Sailing into Summer School

by Peter Fisk

While sailing the seas of the spring semester one might peer at the horizon and (alas!) see Port June, end of the semester. Land ho!

For those who wish to sail the summer session, Port June is a mere spit of sand, a few days to get the "land legs" back before setting sail for a course or two in the direction of great Port August, (where, mysteriously, the rest of the crew who disembark in Port June shall already be).

The new schedule of summer courses will be available during the week of May 16 - 20.

Registration is free and will be held May 23 - June 17. Late registration will be held June 22 - 24. The last day to add a class is June 27.

Classes begin June 22 (except for some short courses starting July 5) and continue until early or mid-August, depending on the course.

Some new summer courses include: Anthro. 21--Myth, Magic and Folklore (3 units) for which the recommended prerequisite is Anthro. 2; day and night classes in Econ. 1A--Principles of Economics (3 units); Forestry 201--Timber Grading (2 units) to be held at Cloverdale; and Guidance 60 and 64 (1 unit each).

Students may redeem themselves from academic dismissal by taking these courses and be requalified for the fall semester.

New night classes at the Petaluma Center include Aero.60A, Business/Accounting 50, and English 1A.

Grab hold of a schedule as soon as you are able. There are hundreds of summer school course offerings and many are bound to fill your sails.

Anthology Available

Midnight Ink, the anthology published by English 790, Writers' Workshop, will go on sale at the end of May in the bookstore. This edition will feature fiction and nonfiction prose, poetry, and graphics produced by the class. The selling price of $2.00 makes this an exceptional bargain.

One Who Gets It Done

by Pat Hamilton

"That photograph was taken in the days before I knew it was all right to smile." Allene Hankla's thoughtfulness released me from an awkward moment as I tried to guess which young woman she was in a graduation picture she showed me. Today it is difficult to imagine the Assistant Dean of Adult and Continuing Education without a smile.

Hankla feels her recent promotion was "mostly a matter of the title catching up to the job." In the last eight years since she became Administrative Assistant to Jack Healy, Dean of Adult and Continuing Education, her duties have expanded considerably. Whenever something needed to be done, she took the initiative and did it. Of course, "it" became her job to do after that first time.

Assistant Dean Allene Hankla

The Assistant Dean doesn't keep "normal" office hours. Due to the demands of her job, Hankla can be found at work some mornings at eight and some evenings at ten. "The rest of the Administrative staff works during the day," she says. "We [Dean Healy and herself] have to be here then for meetings, conference, and the like. But we have to be here at night, too."

Hankla forseees continued steady, but limited, growth in the Adult and Continuing Education Division, judging from community interest over the past years. Enrollment in the evening division has more than doubled in the past eight years, and there are about four times as many course offerings as there were when she started at SRJC.

Hankla did express concern over the State's growing unwillingness to fund courses that do not qualify as vocational programs or as general education requirements. She feels those who have been most vocal in their criticism of non-academic courses have not taken the time to look seriously into the classes, to find out what they entail and what they have to offer those who are taking them.

"We do not offer 'Mickey Mouse' courses; they have true purpose and true value. Criticism of macrame classes, for example, is highly unjustified," Hankla stated. "These classes can open up occupational resources to older people. It is cheaper to provide macrame classes by which otherwise inactive people learn a skill which will help subsidize a fixed income than it is to lock them up in a nursing home."

Unless the people of the community make their voices heard to their elected representatives, cutbacks in the classes offered through the Adult and Continuing Education Division can become a reality. Says Hankla, "I think it would be doing a tremendous injustice to those people who have paid taxes for years and supported the college to cut back its Adult and Continuing Education services now that they can take advantage of these services."

Hankla's educational background is excellently suited for the job she is doing. She began college at Stephen F. Austin University in Texas, majoring in Home Economics and Science. When asked if those two areas were an unusual combination, she said, "No. In those days you had to have twelve units in Biology, nine in Chemistry, and three in Physics before you could go into a nutrition class."

In addition to her degree in Home Economics and Science, Hankla has a Masters in Secondary Education, and has fulfilled major requirements in Social Science, Counseling, and Educational Administration. She has also begun work on a Ed.D. in Community College Administration.

Hankla came to this area 25 years ago. Before joining the staff at SRJC she taught at Santa Rosa High School for 17 years.

This June, the Assistant Dean will be visiting her home town of San Augustine, Texas for her high school class's 40th year reunion, the first reunion the class has ever had. It comes as no surprise at all to find that a few months ago, Allene Hankla decided it was about time, and, as usual, "took the initiative to do 'it'."

Editorial

We published a questionnaire in last month's issue of the Night Owl. 4000 copies of that edition were distributed. We have received a grand total of 29 questionnaires from the evening college population. Of these, the majority was in favor of increased services for night students, especially from the ASB...22 of those responding felt evening instructors are "as effective as" day teachers. The other seven didn't have any opinion on the matter. With feedback like that those uppity part-timers will start thinking they really do deserve pro rata pay... I can't help but wonder what happened to the other 3,971 copies of the questionnaire. That's an awfully large "yes" vote for "I don't give a damn."...

I would like to say "thank you" to the advisor and editorial board of the Oak Leaf for including me, as co-editor of the Night Owl, in their recent trip to Los Angeles for the JACC Convention. It proved to be a very interesting and enjoyable experience...Add a note of congratulations on the "General Excellence" award received by the Oak Leaf... ASB elections are coming up. Those of you night students who have ASB cards, be sure to vote. This semester the ASB decides whether or not night students should be allowed to hold office...

When the Night Owl received a "Letter to the Editor" from ASB presidential candidate Jerry Babineau, the editorial staff decided it would be politic to ask his opponent, Jim DeManche, if he would care to submit a letter. Calling "a spade a spade," DeManche declined to spend his time writing even a short piece for the evening population, saying there just are not enough night students who can vote in the ASB elections to make it worth his while...DeManche is the ASB officer who proposed the constitutional amendment change to allow evening students to hold ASB office...Interesting how no one seems to have considered the possibility the ASB office should be open at night if an evening student is elected one day (or night, as the case may be)...It has been stated our hypothetical evening student ASB officer should be free during the day so s/he could come in to do the job...

May 2nd, Orville Schell, authority on Asian culture, lectured at Burbank Auditorium. He told of his experiences and observations while living in China. The talk was very informative and Schell a delight to listen to. Unfortunately, fewer than 100 people attended the engagement, a very poor showing from a college and/or a community the size of Santa Rosa...

759 students will be graduating this June. How many of those are evening college students, I can't say. No one can. There are no records kept which show how many evening school graduates there are or have been in the past...There is a good reason for this. Graduation from an evening school is often considered less valuable than is graduation from day school. The Administration of SRJC doesn't want Adult and Continuing Education students to be punished for the crime of attending school after dark... The possibility of shutting down the Women's Re-entry Program and starting a general Re-entry Program was under discussion a few days ago. One lovely black lady protested, "We don't want men in our women's center. They can have their own center. Separate but equal."...From the Bear Facts "Joke Book" (5-2-77), "Come take a new look at what Business Education offers women. The Women's Re-Entry Program, in cooperation with the Business Department, is sponsoring a series of seminars on programs offered at SRJC. Special attention will be given to encouraging women to pursue "non-traditional" careers and career training, however, men are also welcome. The focus of the first seminar will be on the Secretarial Program." They underlined it, I didn't... According to an Oak Leaf survey taken two weeks ago, the Night Owl isn't as well read as either the Bear Facts or the Oak Leaf, but "those who read the Night Owl are very enthusiastic about it."... Congratulations to those of you who are graduating. And we hope to see the rest of you "Night Owls" back here in the Fall. Have a good summer...

Pat Hamilton

A Letter to the Editor

Night Owl Editors:

I would like to take the opportunity to say a few words concerning Dr. Mikalson.

I have great respect for the man. He is very good in his field, that is, in Administration. But he doesn't really know students.

In the past year the situation has improved. A year ago he wouldn't listen to anything I, or any other student, said. Today, a student can talk with him, not just at him. But, more and more, he appears to be building a wall of bureaucracy around himself, making it harder for students to reach him.

It is important for students to be able to communicate with the Administration of SRJC. I would hate to see Dr. Mikalson cut himself off from the students entirely.

Sincerely,
Jerry Babineau

Dear Flabby Slanders

Dear Flabby,

I really enjoy your column. Your good advice has been used by this student many times, but really, Flabby, those letters must be fake, right?

Enjoys but Doubts

Dear E. & D.:

My feelings are hurt. Never, never do I make up any of my letters. My letters are too realistic to be anything but from real life. I'll let my next letter make my point.

Pained,
Flabby

Ms. Slanders:

My problem probably seems very simple to you, but to me it is a real bummer. You see...it started at the beginning of the semester. My best friend talked me into taking a chemistry course. Now, I'm no dummy, but it's a long road from basket weaving (Homecraft 723) to the hallowed halls of the science building...at any rate, "friend" assured me she would suit me with all the answers because, as she put it, "with my mind it's got to be a snap!" SNAP INDEED. Without so much as a snap of her little fingers, she neglecting to say a word to me, had dropped the class and woe is me--it's too late for me to do the same. Flabby help me!

Desperate

Dear Desperate,

Why not try the Governor? Maybe he'll give you a pardon.

Flab

CONFIDENTIAL TO: "Tired Students"
Have a fun, healthy, and enjoyable summer.

Young blood

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to the young adults of Montgomery and Piner High Schools and Santa Rosa Junior College.

More than 200 students donated blood to the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank in recent months. The young supporters of the blood bank arranged for visits by the bloodmobile unit to the schools named, and gave unselfishly of their time, energy and blood to make sure the visits were successful.

The blood bank serves a vital need in our community, and it takes volunteers such as the students from our schools to make sure there is enough blood and blood components on hand to meet needs.

Let the public speak

Students praised

EDITOR: Each year we at the Sonoma County Community Blood Bank face the task of providing enough blood and blood components for the patients of the Redwood Empire. As the population of our area continues to grow we too must continue to recruit new volunteer donors to meet our ever expanding blood needs.

This spring we have been most fortunate in receiving the enthusiastic support of high school and junior college students in our area. In the last few weeks over 200 young adults have participated in our blood-mobile visits to Montgomery and Piner High Schools and to Santa Rosa Junior College. Our youthful supporters organize bloodmobile visits, donate enthusiastically, and actively recruit others with unsurpassed and unique energies! On behalf of the blood bank staff and the board of directors, we would like to thank our newest and youngest blood donors, your community spirit is commendable. ## Policies cleared by council

by Alicia Viloria

All new or revised SRJC campus policies will soon have to be cleared by the College Council before being recommended to the board of trustees.

Council member Gene Canevari said that the formation of the council resulted from recommendations made by the sub-committee on administrative reorganization. The purpose of the council, he said, is to involve all parts of the campus community in policy-making decisions, thus creating more "power of opinion."

The council will consist of 12 members.

The Administrative Association will select three representatives to serve two year terms. The vice-president for academic affairs will hold a permanent seat on the council.

The Academic Senate (AS) will select three faculty representatives to serve two year terms. These representatives cannot currently be AS members. AS president will serve on the council throughout his or her term of office in the senate. Each faculty members will represent a different academic or occupational area.

The majority organization of classified employees will select two employee representatives to serve two year terms.

The college president will act as a resource person on the council, but will have no vote.

The new council will be the final review body for policy recommendations originating from campus-wide committees. It will review all proposed policies and make recommendations to the president.

If the president disagrees with the council's recommendation, he may refer the matter back to the council for further consideration. If council representatives again reach the same conclusion, they will return the recommendation to the president. He will then forward it to the board of trustees for consideration. The council's chairperson will represent the council before the board.

"I think it could become a very important and influential committee," said Canevari. "Because it has a chance to review or alter policy making decisions, then the committee could have a large impact on what the college does."

One of the council's first tasks will be to review the entire college committee structure to evaluate purpose, procedures, membership and authority in order to set it's own guidelines for reviewing recommendations of all such committees.

It will also review the scope of all committees to avoid duplication.

No cheers/ new logo: traditions changing

Ivy-covered SRJC experienced a little trembling right in the traditions this semester.

One of the earlier assaults was the removal of cheerleaders or "spirit squad" from the CSA's funding list. The majority of the group did not feel the girls were worth their high-priced uniforms and refused to provide them. Though ex-pom pommers screamed, begged and even resorted to tears, the CSA wouldn't budge.

Aghast! In a single swoop the CSA gave tradition a good strong jolt. No more would cute little girls in short skirts decorate the otherwise drab and sweaty gymnasium.

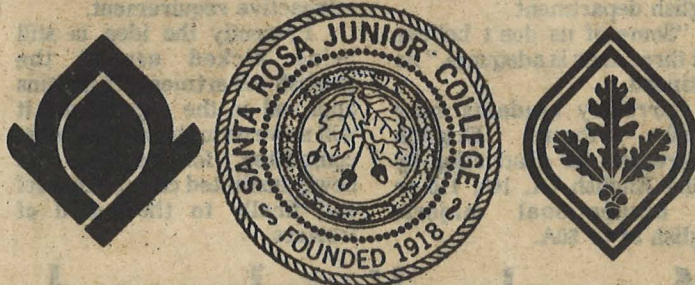

The faculty also remolded the order of things a little when they requested that, instead of naming the new liberal arts building after a board of trustee member, it stand in memory of past SJRC teachers. The board approved the request.

The most recent jostle with tradition actually began early in the fall semester. SJRC decided it was time to give its logo a little shot of modernization. It was one of those seals that had everything. It had pictures of oak leaves, and acorns, and the name of the school, and when the school was founded, and everything. So they shipped it and $2000 off to a designer to be revamped.

When it returned, it was not the same. The logo had become a very clean, efficient corporate mark. Gone were the quaint touches. Its appearance got mixed reactions. Some appreciated its sharp style and others winced at it. When brought up before the board they replied, "no go on logo." Some thought that was the end, others ignored the decision and continued to use the stationary.

But never fear, a new logo has appeared promising to please them all. At the reasonable price of nothing, a local designer mixed the two marks together and came up with —another one. It's a little modern and a little traditional. It looks a lot like a girl scout merit badge.

These shattering adjustments in the style and representation of SRJC can't be blamed on a radical student government, its been miles from that. Nor can the accusing finger be pointed at the board of trustees, they never change. These things just happen.

Hamilton wins run-off

by Jim Davidson

Despite an overcast day, 191 students turned out to vote in the SRJC runoff election for vice president. Jack Hamilton had a four vote edge, defeating Lynn Vonderfecht 97 votes to 93 votes.

In the May 18 election, Vonderfecht was the front runner over Hamilton by four votes. Because there was a third candidate, Don Hoeffs, the two had to face each other again.

Hamilton's election runs contrary to the apparent trend this semester of electing members of Christians On Campus (COC). Many of the newly elected Associated Student Body (ASB) officers are members of the campus religious organization. Defeated incumbent president Jerry Babineau, who campaigned for Hamilton, credited the club with getting his opponent, Jim DeManche, elected. Vonderfecht is a member of COC.

A member of the Oak Leaf staff, Hamilton is new to student government.

Narad awarded scholarship

by Linda Simmons

An Associated Student Body (ASB) scholarship will be given to Richard Alan Narad from the SRJC Executive Cabinet for being the "most involved student" on campus.

Previously, there were no written guidelines for students wishing to receive the scholarship, as the Executive Cabinet sent the money to the College's Scholarships Committee, who picked the winner from a hat of names of students eligible for scholarships given by SRJC.

This year the SRJC Executive Cabinet, wanting to be more involved in the choice of the winner, decided to form their own application papers to better sort out the prospective applicants. Judging is based primarily on extracurricular activities around the SRJC campus. The minimum requirement is a 2.5 grade point average.

The final decision required the approval of the ASB

Scholarship Committee and Gene Canevari, Student Activities Advisor. Members of committee were students Lydia Hall, Audrey Blakely, Santiago Tarantini, and David Harrington.

Narad is more than an exceptional student.

An active member in student government, he has served as a sophomore representative, member on the Elections Committee, and as InterClub Council Representative to the College Student Assembly.

Narad has also been involved in the Kent Hall Investigations Committee, CSA booth person at the Sonoma County Faire, on the SRJC Budget Committee, co-author of the Conference Funding Code, editor of the monthly Picayune Times Star Bulletin, Chairman of Student Handbook Ad-Hoc Committee, waiver worker, author or co-author of numerous code changes and legislation, worked for change in parking appeals procedure, and has ran unsuccessfully for ASB presidency.

As for being a participant for college committees, Narad has been very involved on the SJRC Parking Committee, Administrative Procedures Committee, College Committee, Student Affairs Committee, and the District Reorganization Ad-Hoc Committee.

Doyle Student Center plans

by Kathy Kinion

SRJC will spend $810,000 to remodel the Doyle Student Center with a four-phase construction plan which will begin in the spring semester of 1978.

The renovation plans include joining the cafeteria, faculty dining area, offices and sculpture building into one large, enclosed building.

According to Gene Canevari, dean of student activities, the fourphase master plan will begin with the remodeling of the main cafeteria area. This phase includes rebuilding the kitchen, installing portable walls for three smaller dining rooms within the main eating area, and "stepping down" the ceiling and suspending numerous cloth and plastic hangings from the ceiling for better acoustics.

Also included in this first phase will be the addition of a fenced-in student pation on the Elliott Ave. face north of the building, with glass doors opening out into it from the cafeteria.

In the second phase of the master plan, the faculty dining room will be enlarged to include space presently occupied by conference rooms and the Oak Leaf office.

In the third phase, a student lounge will be built where the sculpture classes, Career Center, Women's Center and the Campus Copy Center are

major facelift

presently housed. The patio area between the sculpture building and the cafeterial will be enclosed as part of the student lounge. Included in the lounge will be a student game room and several offices.

The fourth phase is the decoration of the outside of the Doyle Student Center building.

According to Canevari, the remodeling will be funded initially by a loan of approximately $700,000 from the district and an additional $100,000 which the book store cafeterial have already accumulated in net profits.

The district loan, which will enable the four phases of the remodeling plan to be done immediately rather than separately over a period of years, will be paid off at approximately $100,000 per year with money from the book store and cafeteria profits and the Student Facility Use Fee which was raised for next year from $2 to $3.

Angas/Miller speak at anti-radiation

Angas and Miller spoke at the anti-radiation meeting held at the Oak Leaf on June 8, 1977. The meeting was held in the evening and was attended by a large number of people. Angas and Miller both spoke at the meeting and discussed the dangers of radiation. They also discussed the need for more information and the importance of taking action to protect the environment. The meeting was a success and the speakers were well received by the audience.

Babineau

by Barbara Martin

"My plans have not changed at all," said Jerry Babineau after losing his bid for another semester as Associate Student Body (ASB) president.

Babineau still plans to graduate from SRJC 1978 and attend San Francisco State College (SFSC) to major in public administration.

He wants to remain active in student government but will not run for office during his first semester at SFSC. "First, I want to get the feel of the campus and see how hard the work load is," he said.

Why did Babineau lose the election?

"There were two reasons. One, I did not campaign as hard and two, I didn't bring my children and neighbors into the campaign," said Babineau.

The lame duck president received disapproval from his opponents in last year's race because he brought 14 youths in to carry his campaign signs.

"Using the children may have helped or it may not have. The reason I did it was to get my children interested in college and in what their father was doing. It made them proud of me and showed them that college can be fun," said Babineau.

In February, as the newly elected ASB president, Babineau stated, "I hope to be able to bring student government to the students and make them aware of student government activities."

Babineau hopes his efforts to interest students in ASB activities will show with an increase in upcoming ASB card sales.

Babineau attributes his interest in student government to his appreciation of an education and the 18 years he spent overseas. "I have been behind the Iron Curtain and have seen the fate of people in communist countries. If we don't want the United States to become a dictatorship then we must make an effort to straighten up the government. Change has to occur from within the system," he said.

He feels his opponent Jim DeManche could have had more experience in government before running for the ASB presidency. "I waited one week before turning in my petition, hoping that someone with experience would run against him. Nobody did or I wouldn't have run. He needs more background and I told him that at the time," said Babineau.

"He's eager and that's good. I feel he will do a fine job if he accepts help and suggestions from fellow cabinet members and doesn't try to carry the whole load on his shoulders," said the veteran ASB member.

Babineau plans to continue his involvement in community projects and will join SRJC's Alumni Association after graduation. "It bothered me to lose the election but not as much when you think of all the other things I have going for me. I will always hold this college dear to me. I am pleased with the support I've had and feel my term in office has been a rewarding experience."

DeManche

by Laurie J. Borges

Associated Student Body (ASB) President-elect Jim DeManche steps up from the office of ASB Vice-President, and begins to shoulder the responsibilities of the higher office when the semester ends in June.

DeManche won the recent ASB election over opponent lame duck president Jerry Babineau with a 229 to 137 victory.

"I think the students wanted a change in personality," says the black-haired, blue-eyed winner. "Babineau is very loud, very dominating, and very overruling. I kind of like to let people talk and say what is on their minds. I'm rather quiet."

DeManche felt that Babineau began to step on people during his term as president. "I'm not the dictator type person," he says. "I try to work with people." DeManche also thought that Babineau became too isolated. "I'll try to be as available as I can," he says.

DeManche considers himself "fairly conservative to a little liberal." His most important goal for next year is to outline new plans to see just how efficiently student government can work.

Getting representatives from each department in the school is one idea he intends to try

He thinks students are not interested in student government because of the small number of positions that can be filled. All students cannot get involved, and student government has a direct effect only on the ASB members. Giving each department a spokesman would create a wider variety of student interests and personalities.

"I'd like to see the JC Wheelers become a recognized part of the SJRC athletics department," DeManche says. He wants to get them the recognition they deserve, and the funding they need to continue in their sports activities. He will do this by talking to the athletics department, the board of trustees, and the dean of education.

DeManche believes that student government is very important. "Student government is the only representation that students have, and it is the only they can be recognized and listened to," he says.

As ASB Vice-President, DeManche organized the Easter Handicapped Walk-A-Thon which raised $325. He was a strong backer in changing the SRJC constitutional amendment which did not allow evening college students to vote.

"I just try to do the best job I can. I think a person's job is to find out just what his limitations are."

The only limitation he foresees in the future is his age of 20. He is one of the youngest officers involved with the Student Activities Office (SAO). Being the youngest, and president, can cause conflicts, although he feels he can work them out.

Lanphear is new mascot

by Mark Mitchell

For the first time in 11 years, SRJC held tryouts to select a new "Rosco," the Bear Cub mascot, instead of just appointing one.

The change in selection process was an Executive Cabinet ruling.

The five judges chose Debbie Lanphear to wear Rosco's bear costume next school year. Only one other student competed for the job. Judges Gene Canevari, student activities advisor, and his assistant, Dave Herrington, had explanations for the poor showing.

"We only advertised it for about a week in the Bear Facts so it was short notice," explained Canevari. Herrington said the mascot job is "not such a glorious position as some of the others on the spirit squad."

The mascot position is glorious to Lanphear. After filling in for outgoing mascot Naomi Ogden part of last season, the 19-year-old sophomore is looking forward to working a full year. Lanphear smiled, "I go to all the games and I like the little kids when they come around." Lanphear doesn't mind the bear suit's heat. "You just wait for a break to down a Coke," commented the newly installed Rosco.

Lanphear will attend a camp to heighten her poise and performance skills.

Rosco started his career at SRJC in 1949 when he won a name suggestion contest by the student body. Rosco attends Bear Cub sporting events and other school functions, such as elections and student bazaars.

"The next thing we're going to do is clean up that bear costume; it has lost its feet and arms," said Canevari. Herrington added, "We also have to get a rooster's cap to go with it."
