Beverly Won't Settle for Self-destruction

Unique Place

For 29 years, Beverly felt worthless and stupid. Abused as a child, dropped out of school in eighth grade, and married at 16 to a man who was a batterer, alcoholic, and drug dealer, Beverly escaped her feelings of fear, shame and anger by getting drunk or using drugs. When her husband was killed, she was left with four children to care for. Beverly needed

She came reluctantly into Unique Place, but by the end of her first month was totally overwhelmed by the unconditional acceptance, support and help she received. It took testing for Beverly to learn she was dyslexic. Now she is in remedial reading classes, working on her high school equivalency degree, and attending parenting classes so that she can be a better mother when she is reunited with her children.

Beverly is learning to put her life back together and now she believes she can do it.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

To: Prospective heros

From: SRJC Associated Students/United Way Committee

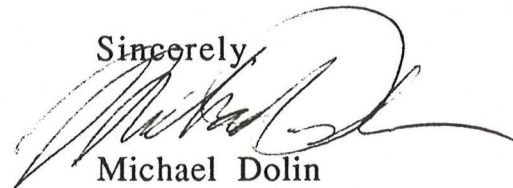

Welcome to the "Time to be a Hero" Volunteer/Fundraising project sponsored by the Santa Rosa Junior College Associated Students and The United Way. We would like to thank you in advance for participating in this community-wide event. We also hope that this letter will explain the process and clear up any questions you might have regarding the project.

This event is an opportunity for students to volunteer time at a non-profit organization and simultaneously solicit pledges for hours worked or donations to benefit the non-profit organization and the United Way.

Students who wish to be someone's hero will pick up a pledge sheet and meet with someone from the Volunteer center to coordinate hours to be worked and which organization the student will volunteer with during the next few months. The student will then solicit from the community pledges per hour volunteered. Upon completion of the pledge forms they will be turned in to the United Way via the SRJC Student Activities Office by November 30, 1990. No monies are to be collected by the volunteers. The United Way will send a letter and a bill to those who pledged money. Yes, All donations are tax deductible.

Once again, Thank you for being a hero we look forward to a great event. If you have any questions please contact Michael Dolin, Associated Student Program Chairperson at the SRJC Student Activities Office (527-4424) or The Volunteer Center (573-2363)

Sincerely,

Michael Dolin

NACA Far West Regional Conference
Los Angeles Airport Hilton
November 3 - 6, 1990

Dear School Delegate:

It is time to be "On the Road Again" for another exciting NACA Far West Regional Conference. On behalf of the entire Conference Committee I want to invite you to "Far West World Tour '90."

This year's conference is being held at the LAX Airport Hilton on November 3-6, and promises to be one of the most exciting conferences ever. You will have the choice of over 50 educational sessions ranging from nuts and bolts programming to student leadership to special "hot" topic issues. There will also be a special tract designed for staff members and also one designed for associate members.

In addition to Ed Sessions, you will also see 26 acts showcase their talents in one of our 7 showcase time slots, and you will get to meet the performers and their agents in our "World Trade Center" exhibit hall which is designed to help you do business and bring this entertainment to your campuses.

In addition to these events we will hold a special event on Sunday evening called "Hooray for Hollywood." This will be an opportunity for you, the school delegate, to display your talents. We are encouraging everyone to join us for dinner dressed as their favorite "star" and after dinner delegates will have the opportunity to perform in the Far West's first ever lip sync contest. This event will also involve our "Passport to the Stars" conference game and many prizes will be given away. The Conference will be topped off on Monday evening with the Programmes Awards Banquet, as usual the event promises to be a conference high light and at the end of the evening will include more dancing that will celebrate the end of our world tour.

The registration fee of $125 includes all conference material, a conference T-shirt, and 5 meals. The LAX Airport Hilton is located 5 minutes from LAX and offers free shuttles continuously from the airport. Conference room rates are $79 for a single, $89 for triple/quad, plus tax.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Randy Jensen". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal line extending from the end.

NACA Far West Regional Conference
Los Angeles Airport Hilton
November 3 - 6, 1990

Dear Community College Leader,

It is with great enthusiasm that I write to you about attending this year's National Association for Campus Activities (NACA) Far West Regional Conference in Los Angeles, November 3 through 5.

I'm sure those of you who have attended a NACA Far West Regional Conference share my enthusiasm. Conference benefits include staff professional development opportunities; opportunities for networking with other community college students; low cost entertainment choices; and over 50 educational sessions. More importantly you will walk away from the conference energized and with a brighter vision for your organization's future.

Briefly, I would like to address those of you who are at California Community Colleges. As many of you already know CCCSAA is hosting their annual conference the following weekend. For those of us with limited budgets this puts us in a difficult position. I would like to encourage you to send delegations to each. Both experiences are valuable ones. The NACA experience offers students the opportunity to explore transfer programs, share innovative programming ideas, develop leadership skills, and network with students throughout the Far West. In comparing conference registration fees, please note that NACA's registration fee includes five meals and a souvenir T-shirt.

This year a special reception is planned for community college students and staff. You'll have an opportunity to share success stories, express concerns and meet others who face the unique challenges of community colleges. An educational track had been designed to address the needs of community college delegates.

For those of you considering joining NACA, the regional conference is an ideal way to see the organization at its fullest and to explore the benefits of membership. NACA offers you the opportunity to attend one conference as a non-member school. I'm sure after experiencing the excitement of NACA, you'll want to make an investment in your organizations future by becoming a NACA member.

Once again, I'd like to invite you to join us and be a part of the excitement of the Far West Regional NACA Conference. As a community college you are important to NACA. Don't miss out on an opportunity to grow along with the organization.

Best wishes,

RECYCLING UPDATE

As of October 1st, the Recycling Program is under the direction of the Associated Students with the assistance of the Maintenance Department.

A coordinator position has also been set up and is supervised by the Associated Students, but is paid through the Maintenance Department - giving the coordinator access to campus vehicles for collection purposes. There are two major job duties of this position. One job duty entails the weekly collection of recyclables from bins around campus, as well as office paper from departments who do their own recycling. And the other job duty concerns the research and further implementation of the recycling program.

There cannot be any big time expansion without the Board of Trustees' approval of allowing the program to become an official part of the campus. Therefore, the purpose of researching the implementation possibilities is to accumulate accurate facts and figures to back the program and give the Board convincing evidence that the program is successful and that the campus should support the recycling program.

Currently, the campus recycles 100 lbs. of glass a week and 50 lbs. of aluminum. This figure is expected to increase. The idea is to keep the project as cost efficient as possible and to contribute to the environmental movement. So please support the recycling project by taking advantage of the white and blue barrels scattered about campus to dump your glass and aluminum in. Also, be on the look out for newspaper recycling racks in the cafeteria real soon!

DR. AGRELLA ON STUDENT ISSUES

ASB Today had a chance to talk with the newly-elected Superintendent of SRJC, Dr. Agrella, concerning student issues which he would like to see improved this school year. Dr. Agrella is very much in favor of the Early Calender plan for next year. He sees most schools moving toward this system if they haven't already. It also makes more sense for instructors and students to have their semester break coincide with the holidays. In addition, transfers can be better facilitated and studies more organized. Although vacation schedules may conflict with family members and others on the K-12 system, "the personal drawbacks are far outweighed by the benefits." The new "flex" days also need to be looked at as a way to aid faculty in improving teaching skills.

Dr. Agrella also leans toward two major concerns from students' perspective: (1) Quality and level of services offered by the JC for evening students and the satellite campuses, as well as the day time students. He feels that there should be a minimum level of services for all JC students. "No one should have to drive 25 miles to get a counselor's signature." (2) What happens to students after they leave the JC? Dr. Agrella plans to examine how well SRJC prepares students to transfer to other colleges or to directly enter the job market. Feedback from former students on these issues will be encouraged. Dr. Agrella would like to see SRJC students leaving the school with the skills to perform better than their co-workers and to be able to compete successfully.

Dr. Agrella concluded the interview by wishing to extend his thanks to the student body for being very kind and friendly in the last few months. He feels that "the JC student body is really built into the fabric of the college."

CSA LEADERSHIP RETREAT 1990

"Leadership needs to have a two way communication (transfer of meaning) to be fully effective." The College Student Assembly (CSA) resided together for the weekend of September 27th at the YMCA Camp at Point Bonita, amongst the historic bunkers, lookouts, and gun turrets that were installed during WWII. CSA arrived Friday afternoon, unpacked, and started in with Ice Breakers. The body of the retreat was the educational sessions. They ranged from an explanation of the working system at SRJC, to communication skills, and time management. In addition, special interest sessions were held to further facilitate smooth operations and understanding within the group. This weekend retreat was very valuable for all who attended.

DATELINE OF PAST EVENTS

WELCOME DAY & DANCE 9/7

The Associated Students sponsored Hot Dog Day in the coop patio during the noon hour. This event was held to thank ASB members for their membership and support. Administrators assisted the Associated Students in their efforts to satisfy the storm of hungry students with hot dogs, chili, and cold drinks.

The Welcome Dance was held that night and was a tremendous success! The theme of the dance was Mardi Gras and it took place outside on the coop lawn and lasted from 9-1am, with music provided by Metro Productions.

CLUB DAYS 9/12-9/13

It seemed like a carnival had come to SRJC in Mid September when a collection of colorful booths sprung up around the fountain in front of the coop. All of the hoopla was "Club Days!" Representatives from twenty clubs on campus filled the booths with information concerning their club activities and many students took advantage of the opportunity to join a club.

TAILGATE PARTY 9/21

The barbecue brought some people and the great music brought some people and a good time was had by all who came to the Associated Students' Tailgate Party in the Bailey Field parking lot. The crowd was treated to terrific music provided by the KXFX, the Fox, and ate delicious food prepared on an open barbecue. Free drinks were provided by the Alumni Association.

LOST AND FOUND AUCTION 10/3

"That which is lost can never be regained." Whoever said this never went to the ASB Lost and Found Auction! During the noon hour, a variety of items were up for grabs and many people took advantage of the bargain prices and helped to make this event a successful fundraiser.

PROJECT / FILM GRANTS 10/8-10/22

The Associated Students offers grants up to $300 to our members each semester. Grants have been given for such projects as Fine Arts and Electrical Engineering, as well as film and video. If you missed out this semester, be sure to apply next semester.

USED BOOK FAIRE 10/17

The worst part about coming back to school is buying books, right? Wrong! Because on this day, the Associated Students sponsored their annual Used Book Faire with a wide selection of books for only 10 cents each. The Faire drew a huge crowd of students between 10 and 2 that day and everyone enjoyed the chance to expand their mind without shrinking their pocketbook.

ICC UPDATE

Inter-Club Council would like to announce the addition of two new campus clubs for this Fall semester: Sign of the Times - a club for those with an interest in sign language, and Self Pride - a club for those with alternate lifestyles.

This semester, the clubs on campus are planning a semester load of activities: Self Pride is sponsoring Express Yourself Let's Dance on November 17th, from 9-1am in the cafeteria and a car wash on October 27th. Student Arts Guild (formerly the 4th Wall) is sponsoring the production, "Burn This" showing October 30th and November 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 and a production called Premier Shorts, the student film and video festival. Ski Club is planning a ski trip to Steamboat Springs, Colorado on December 15th - 22nd. Christian Student Ministries will have an information table in the coop every Tuesday from 12-1pm to better their club involvement. GAIA (Global Awareness in Action) is sponsoring a speaker to talk on issues concerning the Persian Gulf on Friday, November 2nd from 12-1pm in the coop. Check out the daily Bear Facts for all of the latest club information and meeting times and places.

DATELINE OF UPCOMING EVENTS

TIME TO BE A HERO 10/22-11/30

BLOOD DRIVE 11/2

On Friday, November 2nd from 10-2pm, the Associated Students and Blood Bank of the Redwoods are holding their annual blood drive in the Doyle Student Lounge. It's a great chance to help someone else and give the gift of life. Cookies and juice will be provided for those generous folks who give a little of what others really need.

NEW STUDENT TRUSTEE 11/13

Darin "Mave" Brown will be sworn in as the new Student Trustee at the November 13th Board Meeting. As Student Trustee, Mave will hold an advisory position on the Board of Trustees and will act as a student voice for all SRJC students. Any student concerns may be relayed to him through the Students Activities Office. Incumbent Al Maggini, 75, of Sonoma is being challenged in that trustee area race by Jim Muschietti, 43, also of Sonoma. Incumbent Larry Maggini, 63, of Santa Rosa is being challenged by Linda Wells, 43, of Santa Rosa. Incumbents Linda Keill, who represents Petaluma, and incumbent Bob Burdo of Sebastopol are running unopposed for the seven-member board.

The junior college district has 30,000 students taking classes at the main Santa Rosa campus, at the Petaluma satellite campus and at various places throughout Sonoma County. The college has 1,000 employees and a $65 million budget.

The college also has recently purchased the Eagan Center in Windsor and is building a permanent campus in Petaluma that will open in 1993.

Maggini has been on the board for 25 years, serving a number of years as president.

A financial consultant with Merrill Lynch in Santa Rosa, he is also on the boards of the Hanna

Boys Center and Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

Maggini said he knows of no issues in the campaign. As an incumbent, Maggini said he has to run on the reputation of Santa Rosa Junior College, which he said is excellent.

"We are a junior college, and we do everything we can within the limits of what the state allows us," Maggini said. "I have to run on what we've done, not on what my opponent has done. I want to run a positive note because the college is positive."

His challenger, Muschietti, is founder of Creative Careers Inc., which serves developmentally disabled adults. Muschietti said he decided the day and had brought her home. She and other children were being watched by a baby sitter when the girl wandered off again.

Firefighters were able to revive her and she was taken to Memorial Hospital and then flown to Children's Hospital in Oakland where she was kept on a life support system.

to run after his program had problems with the junior college.

Muschietti said his program had a contract for 18 months, for about $100,000, to teach developmentally disabled adults at program shops in Santa Rosa, Cotati and Sonoma. He said his contract was canceled, and he blames it on a dispute with the administrator handling the contract. He claims the college still owes him $18,000.

"For me the issue is accountability and responsiveness," Muschietti said.

Muschietti said he recognizes the college is one of the finest in the state, but there are innovative things they are not doing, such as teaching Spanish grammar to Hispanics so they can then understand English grammar; giving Hispanics credit for agriculture work to raise their self-esteem; and having students in community care programs, such as nursing, go out and work in the community for credit.

Bertolini, president and co-owner of Western Farm Supply in Santa Rosa, has been on the board since 1977.

Bertolini said there are always things to do at the college, like continuing integrating their work with high schools and with universities or expanding services for evening students, but they really need to "just continue the work we've been doing."

Alanna Wells has been a nurse for 22 years. She has worked for the past 10 years in management at Memorial Hospital. She stresses her background in management and working with budgets and union contracts.

"What I can do is bring newness to the board," Wells said.

Wells also said she has a strong health-care background, and the college has a strong health-care program.

"I think they have done a good job — the college has an excellent reputation. But they need to move more into the style of the '90s, with more participation of instructors and employees in general. I've talked to them and they want to be more involved," Wells said.

pressure for De Martini to resign.

"To my knowledge there was no discussion between the board and the superintendent requesting a resignation," he said.

Under the state's Education Code, however, school administrators must be notified if their contracts will not be renewed.

Vogel said while trustees never reached that point in light of De Martini's resignation, he said "It would have been difficult for me to extend it."

De Martini said no pressure was applied for him to resign and said "that's highly speculative" when of Proposition 136.

If passed, Proposition 136 would force cities and counties to win two-thirds voter approval of any tax increases.

"You can't rush this sort of thing through. That's not the way to do the public's business," Henry said.

The tax proposal surfaced when County Counsel Peter Klein attended a recent statewide county counsel's conference where the idea of raising revenues, in light of continuing state cutbacks on local funding, was discussed.

Klein said the measure he returned with is the same as Santa on a sharp curve, his vehicle suddenly veered right, jumped the curb, hit a speed-limit sign and struck John Allen, dragging him along the pavement.

Wagner claims his truck hit a pothole just before it went out of control.

Deputy Public Defender Jon Hinton, who was appointed to represent Wagner, asked for a copy of a previous complaint against his client charging him with murder.

District Attorney Gene Tunney said additional charges accusing Wagner of assault with a deadly weapon were added to the complaint after his office conducted further investigation into the man's driving just before the fatal accident.

Judge Cerena Wong continued the case until Monday for a probation report on Wagner's bail request. The judge said a preliminary hearing will be set after a plea to the charges is entered.

financial problems, she would prefer cutting the budget instead.

"I feel like a condemned man being offered a rope or a gun," she said.

County Auditor Dennis Huey strongly hinted Tuesday the county is in real financial trouble.

Henry said the county's $80 million budget isn't helped by further state funding cuts and the still growing $4 million operating debt on Mendocino County Community Hospital.

Should supervisors not take the tax shortcut prior to Nov. 6, Henry said she believes voters will support a tax increase themselves.

"What I can do is bring newness to the board," Wells said.

Wells also said she has a strong health-care background, and the college has a strong health-care program.

"I think they have done a good job — the college has an excellent reputation. But they need to move more into the style of the '90s, with more participation of instructors and employees in general. I've talked to them and they want to be more involved," Wells said.

on a sharp curve, his vehicle suddenly veered right, jumped the curb, hit a speed-limit sign and struck John Allen, dragging him along the pavement.

Wagner claims his truck hit a pothole just before it went out of control.

Deputy Public Defender Jon Hinton, who was appointed to represent Wagner, asked for a copy of a previous complaint against his client charging him with murder.

District Attorney Gene Tunney said additional charges accusing Wagner of assault with a deadly weapon were added to the complaint after his office conducted further investigation into the man's driving just before the fatal accident.

Judge Cerena Wong continued the case until Monday for a probation report on Wagner's bail request. The judge said a preliminary hearing will be set after a plea to the charges is entered.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. today at the Lakeport Christian Center. The family asks that donations be sent to the Hospice of Lake County or the Lakeport Christian Center.

If passed, Proposition 136 would force cities and counties to win two-thirds voter approval of any tax increases.

"You can't rush this sort of thing through. That's not the way to do the public's business," Henry said.

The tax proposal surfaced when County Counsel Peter Klein attended a recent statewide county counsel's conference where the idea of raising revenues, in light of continuing state cutbacks on local funding, was discussed.

Klein said the measure he returned with is the same as Santa

"I feel like a condemned man being offered a rope or a gun," she said.

County Auditor Dennis Huey strongly hinted Tuesday the county is in real financial trouble.

Henry said the county's $80 million budget isn't helped by further state funding cuts and the still growing $4 million operating debt on Mendocino County Community Hospital.

Should supervisors not take the tax shortcut prior to Nov. 6, Henry said she believes voters will support a tax increase themselves.

Two seats on SRJC board challenged

By BOB NORBERG
Staff Writer

Two trustees of the Santa Rosa Junior College District, which has the reputation of being one of the best junior colleges in the nation, are running on their record, while their challengers are stressing the need for innovation and accountability.

Incumbent Al Maggini, 75, of Sonoma is being challenged in that trustee area race by Jim Muschietti, 43, also of Sonoma. Incumbent Larry Bertolini, 63, of Santa Rosa is being challenged by Alanna Wells, 43, of Santa Rosa.

Incumbents Linda Keill, who represents Petaluma, and incumbent Bob Burdo of Sebastopol are running unopposed for the seven-member board.

The junior college district has 30,000 students taking classes at the main Santa Rosa campus, at the Petaluma satellite campus and at various places throughout Sonoma County. The college has 1,000 employees and a $65 million budget.

The college also has recently purchased the Egan Center in Windsor and is building a permanent campus in Petaluma that will open in 1993.

Maggini has been on the board for 25 years, serving a number of years as president.

A financial consultant with Merrill Lynch in Santa Rosa, he is also on the boards of the Hanna

Boys Center and Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

Maggini said he knows of no issues in the campaign. As an incumbent, Maggini said he has to run on the reputation of Santa Rosa Junior College, which he said is excellent.

"We are a junior college, and we do everything we can within the limits of what the state allows us," Maggini said. "I have to run on what we've done, not on what my opponent has done. I want to run a positive note because the college is positive."

His challenger, Muschietti, is founder of Creative Careers Inc., which serves developmentally disabled adults. Muschietti said he decided to run after his program had problems with the junior college.

Muschietti said his program had a contract for 18 months, for about $100,000, to teach developmentally disabled adults at program shops in Santa Rosa, Cotati and Sonoma. He said his contract was canceled, and he blames it on a dispute with the administrator handling the contract. He claims the college still owes him $18,000.

"For me the issue is accountability and responsiveness," Muschietti said.

Muschietti said he recognizes the college is one of the finest in the state, but there are innovative things they are not doing, such as teaching Spanish grammar to Hispanics so they can then understand English grammar; giving Hispanics credit for agriculture work to raise their self-esteem; and having students in community care programs, such as nursing, go out and work in the community for credit.

Bertolini, president and co-owner of Western Farm Supply in Santa Rosa, has been on the board since 1977.

Bertolini said there are always things to do at the college, like continuing integrating their work with high schools and with universities or expanding services for evening students, but they really need to "just continue the work we've been doing."

Alanna Wells has been a nurse for 22 years. She has worked for the past 10 years in management at Memorial Hospital. She stresses her background in management and working with budgets and union contracts.

"What I can do is bring newness to the board," Wells said.

Wells also said she has a strong health-care background, and the college has a strong health-care program.

"I think they have done a good job — the college has an excellent reputation. But they need to move more into the style of the '90s, with more participation of instructors and employees in general. I've talked to them and they want to be more involved," Wells said.

V. REPORTS

A. President: Mark reports that he is confident that the United Way will be successful, the more we can boost it through CSA the better. It's a good idea that the information about the fundraiser be presented to the Board in December. Mark then thanked everyone for the lunch with Dr. Agrella. He said that it went quite well and had discussed several issues with him. Health Occupations: Dr Agrella assured Mark that a minimum of two months notice would be given before any action is to be taken regarding the move to Windsor. At this time there is no indication of such a move. It should be noted that Mark has not yet been approached by anyone in favor of the move to Windsor. Student Payraise: Mark would like to get a proposal letter regarding the student payraise out soon. He continued by mentioning that he is proud of the people who got the NACA award nominations out in such a short time span. Mark concluded by welcoming Dena Benway to the Executive Cabinet as Sophomore Representative.

B. Advisors: Bob reiterated the success of getting the NACA nominations out. He then explained the several awards that were applied for and that winners will be awarded at the closing banquet at NACA. Bob then talked about the good image SRJC holds for the region at NACA, and then reminded the Cabinet of the NACA meeting after the Cabinet meeting today. Bob thought that the United Way luncheon today went well and that the student program is a fantastic idea. The Cabinet has to take into consideration that CSA will not meet two weeks in a row being November 5, and 12. Executive Cabinet will have to facilitate the needs taking into consideration that we will be conducting business for CSA at that time. It has been suggested to have a CSA sponsored Pizza Party upon return to get everyone reacquainted. Bob let the Cabinet know that the thinning of issues on the agenda is a natural thing this time of year due to the fact that things are more in action rather than just being created.

Ronda reminded the Cabinet of the Halloween Dance this Friday, and of the Alumni Basketball game on Saturday. She needs to hire someone to work tickets for Saturday night.

C. United Way: Mike reports that it seems everyone is enthusiastic about the fundraiser. Kickoff days will be Thursday and Friday at lunch with a loop tape presentation, posters, ribbons, and maybe even Rosco.

D. Halloween Dance: Dena Reports that there will be candy at the door of the dance. The Bookstore contributed a $10.00 gift certificate and there are other prizes such as yogurt gift certificates, haircuts, and Subway Sandwiches. Brian added that ICC has 4 to 5 clubs participating with booths at the dance.

VI. APPOINTMENTS

A. Sophomore Representative: Appointment of Sophomore Representative will be postponed until a later date.

VII. OLD BUSINESS

A. There was no old business at this time.

INTRODUCTION

The student member of the Board of Trustees of the Sonoma County Junior College District is the sole representative of the learner segment at the Board level, and the symbol for student inclusion at this level. This is a tremendous responsibility.

Ideally, with responsibility comes authority, but unfortunately this has rarely been the case when the subject in question is a student. As we move into an era of shared decision-making in the California Community College system and our own District, student leaders continue to have limited authority--albeit less limited than in previous years, but still limited--and are burdened with the enormous task of representing the overwhelming majority segment of our campus community.

This situation creates a cognitive deficit among students that becomes difficult to overcome. A sense of inadequacy has become so well ingrained in the minds of many students that when authority is finally accorded some may believe they are not worthy of performing in such a capacity.

In the 71 California community college districts, 22 students trustees have had the right to make and second motions and about half that number have been entitled to an advisory vote prior to the passage of the plan developed by the Board of Governors. That number is likely to increase this year as more and more boards come to the realization that in order for a district's governing board to accurately address student needs and to show that sincere attempts are being made toward being receptive to student input, some very elementary steps should be taken to assure students that the Board is willing to work with students for students.

It is with all of this in mind that the student leaders in this District were urged to come forward with this proposal.

AFFORDING THE STUDENT TRUSTEE AN ADVISORY VOTE AND THE RIGHT TO MAKE AND SECOND MOTIONS

As mentioned in the Board of Governors document entitled "Encouraging Greater Student Participation in Governance", a plan "developed to present a long-range vision of what student participation can be", it is the ultimate goal of that plan to "help build a system of governance that better meets the needs of all who have a stake in the future of community colleges." The plan goes on to outline the importance of student participation as:

- 1) a symbol of institutional identity
- 2) a means of student input and communication
- 3) a check upon assumptions by others about students

The document states that "the Board of Governors recognizes that students should be included in college, district, and system-wide policy formulation, and in the development of recommendations for action, in a manner appropriate to their status as adults, as learners, and as consumers who sustain the ultimate impact of developments in the community college system."

The initiative being proposed here today is intended to allow students to have "an opportunity for greater and more meaningful participation" in the developing of recommendations for action by the Board of Trustees of the Sonoma County Junior College District.

THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS' RECOMMENDATION:

As a symbol of institutional identity and as a means of fostering student participation and communication, the role of the student trustee on the district governing board should be strengthened by granting to him or her the rights and privileges accorded by law, such as the right to make and second motions and the right to receive compensation up to the prescribed limit (Education Code, Sections 72023.7 and 72425). The student trustee should also be given the right to have his or her advisory opinion on motions before the board reflected in the minutes.

In support of its recommendation, the Board of Governors raised the following points:

- 1) Students should know they are part of and belong to a community of learners, faculty, staff and administrators.
- 2) Involvement of students in governance promotes student retention and identification with the institution and its goals.
- 3) Ensuring greater participation for student would directly benefit both them and the institution by creating greater incentive to participate and rendering the collegial process itself more meaningful for all.
- 4) Providing the same rights and privileges recognizes the role of students as participants, as colleagues, and as status-holding members of the institution.

It is for the above-mentioned reasons that the students of the Sonoma County Junior College District request that the Student Trustee be given the right to an advisory vote and the right to make and second motions.

SERVICES AND PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

INTRODUCTION

The Services and Program Development Committee of the Student Services Dean's Advisory Council has had before it the task of reviewing the SRJC Student Services Organizational chart. The committee has completed this review and would like to forward its finding and recommendations.

There were a number of issues and concerns identified by the committee regarding the organization of Student Services, the relationship of Student Services to the overall campus administrative structure, and the ability of Student Services to provide quality services to a changing community and a growing student population. The committee decided that the following issues needed to be addressed:

- * The Student Services division needs representation to the Supt/President separate and distinct from Academic Affairs
- * Representation of Student Services at the Academic Affairs Council is organizationally inadequate.
- * There exists a need for greater administrative back-up in many of the Student Services areas.
- * The changing needs of the campus community require an organizational structure which:
 - 1) Enhances coordination between different Student Services offices.
 - 2) Provides for accountability and supervision
 - 3) Enables effective responses to student needs.
- * The current organization of Student Services does not provide interested individuals the opportunity for professional growth and mobility into and within managerial positions.

IDENTIFICATION OF SOLUTIONS

- Chief Student Services Officer reports directly to Supt. /President
- Design organizational structure that parallels Instructional Affairs
- Development of a Student Services administrative structure that allows the Chief Student Services Officer the opportunity to more fully participate in District-wide issues and the design and implementation of Student Services on a broader scale
- Provide for adequate administrative backup in all Student Services areas
- Develop a new structure that allows for more decision making autonomy and subsequent accountability throughout all levels.
- Increase cross-communication channels between similar/like functions and areas.
- Design structure to respond more readily to the changing campus and community needs
- Provide a system and structure for improved upward mobility and professional development

SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS/CHANGES

- Create Vice President of Student Services reporting directly to Supt./President
- Create Dean of Admissions and Records
- Create Dean of Counseling/Guidance and Support Services
- Create Assistant Dean of Student Financial Services
- Create Assistant Dean of Student Services
- Four full time Management positions and one 50% faculty assignment (Matriculation) report directly to the Vice-President of Student Services
- Create Director level management position in the Counseling/Guidance and Support Services area to supervise Articulation, School Relations, Transfer Center
- EOPS to be transferred to Student Financial Services
- Financial Aid, Scholarships, EOPS grouped as similar/like functions.
- Housing, Health Services, Student Activities grouped as similar/ like functions.

The Committee identified numerous service areas where Management positions are strongly encouraged to be developed.

Thorough discussion was conducted over a six week period by a committee of 10 people representing most service areas in the Student Services arena. After thoughtful and challenged consideration of the perceived problem areas and identified possible solutions in concert with the researching of other SRJC and comparable districts organizational charts, the following Student Services Chart is proposed.

V. REPORTS

A. President: Mark has submitted a proposal to obtain 5 "D" lot parking spaces as there is obviously no one using the spaces at this time. Re: College Council- there is in the works a creation of a Classified Staffing Committee consisting of two faculty, three classified staff and one student. Perhaps there should be consideration in having another student to add balance to the decision making for this committee. Mark has just been notified of the Cal SACC meeting for this Friday, since this is such short notice he expressed his feeling that the Cal SACC is still a very poorly operated organization. His support for Cal SACC is rapidly deteriorating due to this. Continuing on Mark mentioned that he spoke with Ken Holback regarding the student lounge in Barnett Hall, the issue seems to be resurfacing and Executive Cabinet should be aware of that. Letter writing could be in order to get the ball rolling. The Board Meeting on Tuesday night went well as Mave Brown was sworn in as new Student Trustee. Dr. Agrella is in support of the Advisory voting powers, as well as the power to make and second motions for the Student Trustee. AS presented a watch to Mr. Bertolini in thanks for his support to students. The College Calendar was finally passed, and a report on the retreat was presented by M. Scott.

B. Advisors: Bob suggested to the Executive Cabinet to share what they had learned from NACA to CSA next meeting. Ronda reports that the final football game is Friday. The basketball ticket crew deadline will be tomorrow. The first game for that will be Tuesday at 6 p.m.

C. Student Services Reorganization: Bob reports that this issue will greatly affect AS. The Student services department has not grown in correlation with the growth of the other college departments, (business and administration). Bob asked the Cabinet to please review the packet he has handed out and become familiar with it's content . If there are any questions please feel free to ask him.

VI. APPOINTMENTS

A. Staff Diversity:

It was moved to appoint Monique Epps to the College Wide Staff Diversity Committee .

M/S/C

B. Committees Commissioner: There was a discussion of the progress of the Committees Commissioner.

C. Sophomore and Freshman Reps: There was a discussion of the CSA Representative positions.

D. Entertainment Commissioner: There was a discussion of the progress of the Entertainment Commissioner.

VII. OLD BUSINESS

A. None

VIII. NEW BUSINESS

A. Student Trustee Policy: Mave Brown presented to the Executive Cabinet the proposal containing The Board of Governors' Recommendation to allow the Student Trustee the right to an Advisory vote, and to make and second motions. The Executive Cabinet discussed the importance of this issue in the hope of improving student representation on the board.

It was moved for AS to endorse the new Student Trustee policy revision as presented by Darin "Mave" Brown.

M/S/C

B. Student Nurse Association Dues: Nadja Giusti of SRJC Nursing came before the Executive Cabinet to ask for funds for students to join the National Student Nurses' Association. She explained the several benefits members receive and how in turn it would benefit the SRJC as a whole. It was decided that this issue will be presented to CSA for approval.

C. Basketball Request: Coach Tom Mitchell and the tri-captitans of the SRJC basketball team presented a budget with a request of funds to take 3 additional members of the team to a prestigious tournament at Cypress College. Apparently the current budget for the team allowed expenditures for 15 staff and players but fundraisers had helped offset the additional cost. Now that the team is flying to a tournament, additional monies are desperately needed to have the whole team travel rather than leaving 3 behind.

It was moved to allocate $554.00 out of Designated Surplus to send the 3 members of the SRJC basketball team to the Cypress Tournament.

M/S/C

D. Staffing Committee:

It was moved that Executive Cabinet support the representation of two students on the College Wide Staffing Committee.

M/S/C

IX. ANNOUNCEMENTS

A. Communication: There was an open discussion about the communication and feedback from the CSA members. Several ideas were thrown out and discussed of how a process of one on one communication can be developed between Exec Cab and CSA. There were some good conclusions that will be worked on and discussed further in the near future.

At the Chief Ins. Conference I was talking to Bernardine Fong (Foothill) about a conference at Foothill on Mar 1, 91: "Learning Through Service--
A Comm Coll Conf on Community and Public Service." The blurb says

A conference will provide a unique opportunity to learn about community and public service for faculty, staff, and students of community colleges throughout Northern California. This one day conference is designed to --increase awareness of five major community issues: homelessness, literacy, health, human abuse, the environment

--promote effective teaching and learning projects linked to community and public service and

--find ways in which campuses can facilitate active student faculty involvement in community and public service.

Keynote speakers will include Donald Kennedy from STanford, CEcil Williams (unconfirmed) and John Vasconcellos.

They are in the planning stages and are hoping to have co-sponsor colleges, who would encourage people to come, and also help plan the thing.

Given United Way, Human Race, community involvement courses, etc. etc.: is there interest out there in our participation??

Deukmejian vetoes stall some reforms; Prop. 98 funds keep AB 1725 on track

Master Plan for Higher Education now on hold.

At least nine bills affecting community colleges fell victim to Gov. Deukmejian's over-worked veto pen at the end of September. In almost every case, the governor cited fiscal restraint as the reason for his vetoes.

Deukmejian's veto of a package of bills designed to implement the state's Master Plan for Higher Education has temporarily placed parts of the reform agenda on the back burner. Among the vetoed Master Plan measures was SB 507, which guaranteed a place for community college transfer students in the state's four-year universities by requiring the CSU system to maintain its upper division enrollment at 60 percent of its undergraduate enrollment. The bill also would have made the UC increase its upper division enrollment by one percentage point each year through 1994-95, until it reaches 60 percent. In addition, SB 507 expanded the articulation agreements between the community colleges, UC and CSU.

"CCA, along with all other community college faculty and management groups, supported SB 507. Even though there was no fiscal note attached to SB 507, the governor unfortunately took the narrow view that implementing the bill would create 'expectations that may cause undue pressure' on the general fund," said CCA President Clair Parsh.

Among the other vetoed Master Plan measures were AB

462, the omnibus bill on Master Plan recommendations, and AB 3993 on student equity.

Prop. 98 hard at work

For the second time in the two years since it was passed, CTA's Proposition 98 has saved community college districts from having to cut their budgets to help the state balance its books. The 40+ percent funding guarantee under Prop. 98 allowed the funding of all on-going operations in the community college system for 1990-91, including a 4.66 percent cost-of-living adjustment and an added $4.7 million for enrollment growth (another 2.43 percent).

Proposition 98 money also triggered the Phase II reforms of AB 1725, just as it did with Phase I over a year ago. Phase II funding called for a second $70 million infusion. When calculations showed only $63 million was available, CTA and other K-12 lobbyists agreed to a one-time only transfer of $7 million from K-12 funds.

"In an era of $3.6 billion deficits, finding $140 million for community college reform would have been unthinkable without Prop. 98," says CCA President Parsh.

CCA fighting tax collection fee

CTA and CCA, along with the Education Coalition that helped pass Prop. 98, are fighting the new law that allows counties to charge community colleges and school districts a stiff fee for collecting property taxes.

"This is an end run around Proposition 98 because it allows other government entities to nibble at school funds protected by Prop. 98," says CCA Executive Director Diane Crow.

To block counties from collecting the fees, the coalition has established a statewide Education Legal Fund to litigate the issue.

As community college representatives on the Prop. 98 Education Coalition, CCA President Clair Parsh and Executive Director Crow ensured that community colleges were included in the coalition's coordinated action against paying the collection fees to counties. "Community college districts should not pay these fees. It does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1991. In the meantime, the coalition may win injunctive relief," says Crow, who praises the chancellor's office for following this strategy.

Statewide, it is estimated that under the new law community colleges will have to pay $20 million to counties for tax collection services.

SSU, SRJC men win titles

The men's basketball teams from Sonoma State and Santa Rosa Junior College both won tournaments Saturday night.

Sonoma State won its second game of the season, and in doing so won the Humboldt State Tip-Off Classic by defeating Humboldt State 51-47 at Arcata.

SRJC won its second tournament of the season with an 87-84 double-overtime victory over Ventura in the Cypress Tournament.

"I'm pleasantly surprised how well we're playing," said SSU coach Dick Walker.

The Cossacks' Creedence Perkins, chosen the tournament's most valuable player, led all scorers with 15 points and had 10 rebounds. Derek Bell added 14 points and DeShawn Pullard 11 for Sonoma State.

Merl Adams led the Lumberjacks with 12 points and Michael Krause added 10.

After jumping out to a 6-0 lead, SSU began rushing its shots and trailed at the half, 27-20.

"We talked it over at halftime," said Walker. "We can't beat this team playing like they want us to play. So we went back out and played to our tempo."

The Cossacks took the lead for good at 35-34 with 13:07 to play.

"It's nice to win on the road against a conference team on their home court," said Walker.

The loss ended Humboldt's 16-game home winning streak.

SSU meets Azusa Pacific at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Azusa.

Sheridan Silver scored 25 points, including a 3-pointer at the buzzer to send the game into overtime, as Santa Rosa JC remained undefeated.

Kevin Koch added 18 points and was named the tournament's best defensive player as the Bear Cubs improved to 5-0.

Ventura's Lester Neal, selected the tournament's most valuable player, scored 31 points. He was going for 32 at the free-throw line with four seconds left and the Bear Cubs ahead 85-84, but a lane violation cost him a chance to tie.

■ ROUNDUP

■ SRJC women's basketball

The Bear Cubs won the consolation championship of the SRJC Invitational Tournament with a 51-35 victory over Hartnell College.

Merritt College defeated Lassen College 65-57 in the championship game.

Janelle Russo scored 15 points and Jenny Schaal had eight rebounds for Santa Rosa JC.

Kristen Tuckness led Hartnell with 14 points.

"We played a miserable first half," said Bear Cubs coach Caren Franci. "It's tough playing at noon and I think the girls were disappointed they weren't playing for the championship."

Merritt's Inga Marciulionis (wife of the Golden State Warriors' Sarunas Marciulionis) was chosen the most valuable player. Other all-tournament selections were Tadia Dendy (Merritt), Kelly Kerns (Redwoods), LeJuana Johnson (Contra Costa) and Cherie Hogg and Tiffany Shaw (Lassen).

■ SRJC men's soccer

Santa Rosa, after leading 2-0, battled Chabot College to a 2-2 overtime tie but lost a best-of-five shootout, 3-2, in the NorCal playoffs at Chabot in Hayward.

Jason Roberts beat three men and scored from 30 yards out at the 62nd-minute mark to put SRJC ahead. "He hit it with everything he had," said coach Dwayne Shaffer. "He really pinged it."

Three minutes later Heinrich Deters beat two Gladiators and crossed the ball to Jason West, who tried to head the ball in, but the shot was blocked. Kevin Conover followed up, trapped the ball and hit a half-volley into the net for the Bear Cubs' second score.

With 20 minutes remaining in regulation, Chabot's Humberto Silva tried a shot that hit the upper crossbar and Sean Cornelius followed with a shot into the net from 12 yards out.

A few minutes later Chabot was awarded a free kick just outside the penalty box. Silva finished the free try with a header from 8 yards out.

After two scoreless overtime periods, the game went to a shootout.

Trailing 2-1, Santa Rosa's Kenny Kane scored to tie the shootout at 2-2, but Chabot had one shot remaining. Art Portocarrero scored the winning goal.

Santa Rosa, ranked 11th in the state, finished its season at 12-6-2.

■ SRJC cross country

The Bear Cubs' Paula Reading finished 14th in the women's state championships at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut. Reading ran the 3-mile course in 18 minutes, 52 seconds.

SRJC finished seventh as a team. El Camino won the title.

The Bear Cubs did not place as a team in the men's division, but Andy Price finished 56th in the individual race.

■ SSU cross country

Sonoma State's Mike Stone finished seven in the NCAA Division II championships and became the first Cossack cross-country runner to win All-America honors in the men's division at Arcata.

Stone recorded his fastest time ever, running the 10-kilometer distance in 30 minutes, 3 seconds. Winner Doug Hansen of South Dakota won the race for the second year in a row.

Edinboro (Pa.) College won the team title with 50 points. Sonoma State was 11th with 252.

■ TOC golf

Paul Horwath birdied five straight holes during an up-and-down round to take the first-round lead in the 13th annual Tournament of Champions at Fountaingrove Country Club.

Horwath, representing Santa Rosa Golf and Country Club, birdied the sixth through 10th holes. He added another birdie but also had five bogeys during his 1-under-par round.

The 71 gives Horwath a one-stroke lead going into today's final round at Windsor Golf Club starting at 9:04 a.m.

Proposal to College Student Assembly

On Dec. 9-11 the Santa Rosa Junior College Karate Club, the Association for Shotokan Karate and the Cultural Home Institute will be hosting a cultural exchange between the United States and Japan. The Japanese High School Championship Karate Team will visit Santa Rosa and present a Karate Demonstration in conjunction with SRJC Karate Club members and members of the Association for Shotokan Karate. The demonstration is scheduled to be held in Neuman Auditorium Monday, December 10th at 7:30 p.m.

The Japanese team and officials are due to arrive on Sunday, December 9, tour the campus on Monday December 10th and demonstrate in the evening.

An important part of karate training is courtesy and the practice of manners. To allow the team an opportunity to practice courtesy towards us, their director has requested that the visit be conducted formally. This will in turn provide us (karate students and SRJC student representatives) with an opportunity to practice courtesy towards them. In this way, through courtesy towards others, karate hopes to improve relationships between people of the world.

We would like assistance in the following areas:

1. Providing a representative from the Student Association or College Student Assembly to be present at the official greeting of the guests on their arrival in Santa Rosa.

2. A small gift to be given to the team or team members (7) to commemorate their visit to our campus.

3. Assistance with a campus tour on Monday, December 10th.

4. Assistance with the introductory ceremonies at the demonstration and attendance at the party given in their behave following the demonstration. (9:30 p.m. at Willowside Hall).

Thank You.

Tips on Gender Equity

Santa Rosa Junior College is committed to providing equal access of both sexes in all programs.

TIPS:

Remember to use humor in the classroom but use it with forethought. Do not use "humorous" images or statements that demean women such as jokes about housewives or blonds.

Remember not to address men or women of your opposite sex as "honey, darling, sweetie, sugar."

Try not to impose a question that asks for a response where one person speaks for the whole such as "what do men think" or "what do women want in that situation."

Do not discourage students to investigate non-traditional careers. (Refer them to a counselor).

Remember that LANGUAGE REFLECTS OUR ATTITUDES. AS WE CHANGE OUR ATTITUDES, WE CHANGE OUR LANGUAGE. Inclusive language includes everyone, exclusive language excludes some people. The ultimate goal is to speak of people as persons irrespective of their sex.

Remember that people are beginning to realize that non-sexist language is more than just a token gesture of good will to gender. It is a matter of accurate communication. The NON-SEXIST WORDFINDER suggest tips on the use of language.

- Use the third person whenever possible. (they, their, them, we, us, our)
- Business people can replace business man or business woman.
- Sales rep or sales associate and replace salesman.
- Work force can replace man power.
- Work hours can replace man hours.
- Trade worker, beginner, trainee, skilled crafts worker can replace journeyman.

By definition, sex is the biological status of a person or persons. Gender is the cultural notion of what it is to be a woman or a man.

SRJC students dig into gulf crisis

Teach-in espouses anti-war message

By CLARK MASON
Staff Writer

Strong anti-war sentiment coupled with distrust of U.S. motives were the prevailing attitudes at Santa Rosa Junior College Tuesday as about 250 students turned out for a "teach-in" on the Persian Gulf crisis.

"Our generation has never experienced the repercussions of war," said Trisha Costello, an organizer of the event. She told her fellow students "we don't know what we're getting into right now."

Costello said they should ask themselves if the motive behind the large American military build-up in the Persian Gulf is to have a peace-keeping force to protect freedom, or to secure a grip on oil reserves.

"... I don't believe in killing trying to prove someone is right."

STUDENT SHIRLEEN BAZZANO

The speakers that followed her, such as Petaluma peace activist Peggy Noton, expressed little doubt American soldiers are in the Persian Gulf "to protect our oil-dependent lifestyle" and they argued that it is not worth the loss of lives to keep down the price of gasoline.

The students who sat on the lawn for more than two hours during the teach-in seemed largely receptive to the message.

"It makes me think more of the entire process and what the government is doing," said Maikaaloo Clarke, 19, of Rohnert Park. "It hasn't quite dawned on people that there is an emergency situation going on, one that is going to affect us personally."

"It didn't dawn on me until I realized friends are going to be there," she said, explaining that some of her peers enlisted in the armed forces primarily for the education subsidy and other fringe benefits, only to realize they are being sent to the Middle East. Clarke said the reasons America fought in World War II were very evident, "it's difficult to understand the concepts and what the results will be" if the United States goes to war against Iraq.

One of those who signed a petition calling for the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from the Middle East was 19-year-old Shirleen Bazzano of Santa Rosa.

The United States and Iraq, she said, "should sit down and talk... I don't believe in killing trying to prove someone is right."

Bazzano acknowledged uncertainty, however, over how to discourage aggression by Iraqi president Saddam Hussein. Although students in the quad seemed mostly receptive to the anti-war message, there was one dissenting comment made by a passing student who said the United States should "nuke" Iraq.

And inside the nearby cafeteria, Sinh Lieu, 20, an electrical engineering student, said he was too busy to go to the teach-in. But he said he supports President Bush's deployment of American troops because it is necessary to set an example against Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

Lieu, who came from Vietnam five years ago, said sacrifices are necessary for peace.

Some speakers at the teach-in attempted to draw parallels between the Vietnam War and events in the Middle East — particularly what they described as manipulation and lies on the part of the U.S. government to justify foreign intervention.

SRJC history instructor Martin Bennett told teach-in participants if the United States goes to war in the Middle East, it will be a needless national tragedy and could lead to a lengthy "quagmire."

He maintained that the deployment of American troops is "illegal" based on constitutional principles and represents a continuing centralization of power in the executive branch.

See SRJC, Page B3

He argued that the United States cannot expect other countries to adhere to international law when the U.S. has a persistent record of violations in the form of secret wars conducted by the CIA.

He called on the students to "reject the petro-military view of life that Bush calls on us to defend."

Instructor Jeanette Ben Farhat sketched some of the reasons Saddam Hussein has — reasons some Arabs support — to justify the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

She said that too often the United States unjustly attempts to portray Arabs as madmen and their politics and people as completely irrational.

The failure of understanding leads to the militaristic approach on the part of the United States, she said.

Ben Farhat said if the United States were to win a war against Iraq it could be more troubling than if we lose. "Who will fill the power vacuum once we get rid of Saddam?" she asked. "Will we step in and play peacekeeper?"

The defeat of Iraq, she said, could set off a power struggle and lead to a blood bath.

Many students signed a petition addressed to President Bush and outgoing Congressman Doug Bosco, D-Sebastopol, to "stop aggression in the Middle East." It called for a reduction in U.S. troops and redirecting money from military ventures to social and environmental programs at home.

The petition also urged the government to cut off oil dependency and develop alternative energy.

The petition was a joint one between SRJC students and Sonoma State University students who are planning their own rally and teach-in on Friday from noon to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TO: All SRJC Faculty and Staff
FROM: Robert F. Agrella
President
SUBJECT: Upcoming College-Wide Meetings

I would like to invite all Santa Rosa Junior College faculty and staff to two important college-wide meetings that will take place during the next few weeks.

The first will be an opportunity to hear Karen Sue Grosz, the current faculty representative on the California Community College Board of Governors, speak on shared governance issues. Ms. Grosz is the former Academic Senate President at Santa Monica and former Statewide Academic Senate President. She is currently working on her Ph.D. at UCLA where she is writing her dissertation on participative decision making.

Karen Sue Grosz will be addressing a college-wide meeting on Wednesday, November 28, 1990
from 3:00-4:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge

The second is a follow-up meeting to the Konocti Leadership Retreat entitled "Transition and Community" that was held October 11-13.

On December 7th from 2:00-4:00 p.m. in Newman Auditorium a review of the reports and recommendations that resulted from the retreat will be presented. These reports and recommendations will be discussed in the context of our recent Accreditation Team visit and current efforts toward strategic planning. Finally, some specific directions for the future in the context of shared governance will be outlined. Copies of the written report on the Konocti Leadership Retreat are available from department chairs, administrators, managers and the Presidents of SCOPE, AFA and AFT, and in the Library.

I look forward to seeing as many of you as possible at these two meetings.

ENCOURAGING GREATER STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN GOVERNANCE

Second Reading, Action Scheduled

Background

As part of a series of actions to be undertaken in creating a new structure for community college governance, Assembly Bill 1725 (Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988) charges the Board of Governors with the responsibility for establishing:

" . . . minimum standards governing procedures established by governing boards in community college districts to ensure faculty, staff, and students the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards . . ."
[Education Code, Section 70901(b)(1)(E)]

The reform legislation also charges district governing boards with the responsibility of establishing "procedures not inconsistent with minimum standards established by the Board of Governors . . ." to implement the roles of faculty, staff, and students in governance. [Education Code, Section 70902(b)(7)]

As part of that implementation activity, the Board is to develop, in cooperation with district and student representatives, a plan for encouraging greater student participation in appropriate aspects of campus, district, and systemwide governance (Section 61, AB 1725).

This agenda item consists of three proposals intended to meet both the Board's obligation to develop a plan for encouraging student participation in governance and a minimum standard regulation for local procedures. It is comprised of a set of actions to be undertaken by the Board of Governors and the Chancellor's Office, a set of initiatives to be commended by the Board to district governing boards, and a regulation establishing minimum standards on student participation in district and college governance.

The proposals, developed in conjunction with the members of the Council of Student Body Governments (CSBG) and the members of the Council of Chief Student Services Officers (CCSSO), were introduced into Consultation May 4, 1990.

Analysis

The proposed plan for encouraging greater student participation in governance incorporates statements on shared governance and collegiality that reflect policy set forth in "Shared Governance in the California Community Colleges," adopted by the Board of Governors at its July 1990 meeting. In addition, it identifies a framework of goals for planning that should be addressed at the State and local levels. The goals are:

- Improving and enhancing access to governance mechanisms.
- Improving accountability.
- Improving the quality and effectiveness of representation.
- Improving communication and coordination.

In the context of these goals, specific initiatives are proposed that together provide an inter-linked system of shared governance mechanisms. While each initiative has intrinsic value, the full benefit and impact of the initiatives are linked to their simultaneous application.

The first set of initiatives are to be implemented by the Board of Governors and the Chancellor's Office to encourage and ensure student participation in community college governance at the State level. In its leadership role, it is only fitting that the Board set an example of good practice for participation.

A second set of initiatives, to be commended by the Board to district governing boards, reiterates for local consideration matters similar to those implemented at the State level. These initiatives are intended to provide guidance and direction that local governing boards may choose to follow as they develop their own mechanisms for encouraging greater student participation in governance.

The third part of this package is a new regulation that would require each district governing board to adopt policies and procedures to provide students the opportunity to participate effectively in district and college governance. The scope of student involvement is to include participation in the formulation and development of policies and procedures, as well as in those processes for jointly developing recommendations for action, that have or will have a significant effect on students. The regulation also defines those areas that have "significant effect on students." Prior to taking action on such matters, the district governing board will be required to provide students with the opportunity to participate in the development of such policies, procedures, or recommendations.

The draft plan and regulation in this agenda item were reviewed by the Board's Student Services and Academic Policy Committees, and by the full Board at its July 1990 meeting.

The item has been revised since then to address concerns raised in Consultation regarding the proposed regulation. The wording of the regulation has been refined to provide greater precision, clarify its intent, and to better define the nature and scope of student participation.

Recommended Action

That the Board of Governors approve the plan and the regulation change set forth in the Attachment and adopt the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, acting under the authority of Section 70901(d) of the Education Code, delegates authority to the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges to adopt, on behalf of the Board, the regulation that has previously been reviewed and approved by the Board, and which is set forth in the Attachment.

In accordance with the delegation of this authority, the Chancellor shall make provisions for holding a public hearing regarding the adoption of the regulation, including provisions for notice of the hearing to the general public as prescribed by Section 206 of the Rules and Standing Orders of the Board of Governors. The Chancellor shall make copies of the text of the proposed regulation, as endorsed, available to the public as required by Section 206. The Chancellor shall have the authority to hear and consider testimony and written comments regarding this regulation. The Chancellor shall adopt the regulation as endorsed by the Board in this resolution, only if, in the Chancellor's opinion, no substantive changes are necessary, as determined on the basis of any written or oral testimony offered.

Pursuant to Section 208 of the Rules and Standing Orders of the Board of Governors, this regulation shall become effective 30 days after adoption by the Chancellor unless, within that 30-day period, at least two-thirds of the community college district governing boards vote in open session to disapprove the regulation. Written verification of governing board disapproval must state the basis for the disapproval and include the text of any related governing board resolution. Verification of disapproval must be sent to the Board of Governors, postmarked no later than 30 days after the regulations are adopted by the Chancellor.

A Plan for Student Participation in Governance

Introduction

Assembly Bill 1725 (Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988) enacted a new structure for community college governance by establishing the California Community Colleges as a system, by delineating the roles of the Board of Governors and district governing boards, and by strengthening the roles of faculty, staff, and students in governance.

In delineating the functions of the new system, AB 1725 charges the Board of Governors with responsibility for establishing:

" . . . minimum standards governing procedures established by governing boards of community college districts to ensure faculty, staff, and students the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards . . ."

[Education Code, Section 70901(b)(1)(E)]

The reform legislation also charges district governing boards with the responsibility of establishing "procedures not inconsistent with minimum standards established by the Board of Governors . . ." to implement the roles of faculty, staff, and students in governance. [Education Code, Section 70902(b)(7)]

As part of these responsibilities, AB 1725 requires that the Board, by January 1, 1990, develop, in cooperation with district and student representatives, a plan for encouraging greater student participation in appropriate aspects of campus, district, and systemwide governance (Section 61, AB 1725).

This item consists of three proposals intended to meet both the Board's obligation to develop a plan for encouraging student participation in governance and a minimum standard regulation for local procedures regarding such participation. It is comprised of (1) a set of actions to be undertaken by the Board of Governors and the Chancellor's Office, (2) a set of initiatives to be commended by the Board to local governing boards, and (3) an initial regulation establishing minimum standards governing local procedures related to student participation.

The plan that follows has been developed by incorporating recommendations proposed primarily by members of the Council of Student Body Governments and the Council of Chief Student Services Officers, while simultaneously maintaining consistency with the "Strengthening Academic Senates" and the "Shared Governance in the California Community Colleges," companion documents adopted by the Board of Governors at its July 1990 meeting.

The Need for Planning Student Participation

The primary goal of this plan is to present a long-range vision of what student participation in governance can be, and to engender widespread commitment to providing meaningful and educational opportunities to students at both the State and local levels. The Board of Governors is charged specifically with developing a plan for encouraging greater student participation in governance at the campus, district and statewide levels (Section 61, AB 1725, Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988).

The ultimate goal of that plan is to help build a system of governance that better meets the needs of all who have a stake in the future of the community colleges.

The proposals put forth in this plan present initiatives for increasing and enhancing opportunities for shared governance on the part of students. Board policy provides the conceptual cornerstones for the plan. Two prerequisites to its successful implementation are a spirit of cooperation and a commitment to the goals and principles that are to guide the development of shared governance.

Apart from the letter and the spirit of AB 1725, the Board believes student participation in governance at the statewide level is important in its own right: as a symbol of institutional identity, as a means of student input and communication, and as a check upon assumptions by others about students. This conviction has provided a major impetus for the inclusion of student representatives within various policymaking groups. Appropriate student participation in the development of policies and decisions is essential to a healthy educational system. It is the Board's intent to provide statewide leadership and direction, while encouraging and supporting local leadership and initiatives in cultivating the role of students as legitimate participants in a system of shared governance.

The Board of Governors recognizes that students should be included in college, district, and systemwide policy formulation, and in the development of recommendations for action, in a manner appropriate to their status as adults, as learners, and as consumers who sustain the ultimate impact of developments in the community college system. The Board also recognizes that their participation in such matters is expressly for a dual purpose – that of providing avenues for student advice and judgment on policy matters that affect them, and educational opportunities for students to learn about policy issues, collegiality, and shared decision making at both the local and systemwide levels.

The initiatives proposed in the plan are intended to move existing governance beyond that of limited participation to that in which students have an opportunity for greater and more meaningful participation in the formulation of policy, and in those processes for jointly developing recommendations for action, that have or will have significant effect upon them.

The initiatives empower students to freely exercise their governance skills, but require an equal level of involvement and commitment. They provide greater privileges and enhanced resources to students, but require a corresponding measure of responsiveness and accountability. They envision a better-organized and more inclusive system of governance, but call for achievement of a true community of interest.

A Framework for Planning

A review of existing mechanisms and practices of State and local governance, consultation discussions, and research on the general topic of student participation in governance led to the conclusion that fulfillment of certain conditions is requisite if students are to participate effectively. Those conditions include:

- A community of interest. Broadly stated, students share an interest in receiving a quality education. Methods for building a true community of interest are needed, including effective ways in which to communicate about and share responsibility for governance.
- Continuity of relationships. Even though individual members come and go, a continuity of relationships is established between faculty, staff, and administrative groups and other elements of an institution by virtue of their long-term, professional, and vested interests. This is not possible for students, either individually or as a body, because of their transience within the institution and system. However, a different form of continuity of relationships can be achieved. That continuity is maintained by a concept of sharing subscribed to by the faculty, staff, and administration; by the establishment of viable student structures and services; and by sufficient training and counseling of student leaders.
- A collective whole. Student bodies have not been successful in coalescing and focusing their separate perspectives and procedures to the extent required to provide strong direction and authority to a group of representatives, and to enable students to rely on the recommendations of those representatives. Given the amorphous character and immense size of the community college student population, this is difficult to attain yet nevertheless a necessity for effective participation of students in governance.
- Leadership and administrative support. Without well-trained, continuous leadership and established administrative support, a student body is unlikely to participate effectively in any form of governance.
- Vision. The final prerequisite to effective student participation is a sense of perspective and appropriate context, and a view to the institution's or system's longer-term future. This includes a sense of continuity, of going beyond immediate concerns, and of including considerations other than their own in formulating opinions and developing recommendations.

From this discussion, a number of themes emerge for encouraging greater participation of students in community college governance at the State and local levels. These themes are reflected in four general planning goals:

- Enhancing access to governance mechanisms.
- Improving accountability.
- Improving the quality and effectiveness of representation.
- Improving communication and coordination.

The goals provide a framework for planning that builds upon the strength of the present while encouraging innovations for the future.

Initiatives for Statewide Governance

The Board of Governors recognizes that students have substantial rights to participate in matters of governance, and that their participation can serve important educational, professional, and institutional goals. Therefore, in keeping with its role of providing leadership and direction, it is only fitting that the Board set an example of good practice by implementing comprehensive initiatives at the systemwide level for the participation of students in community college governance.

These initiatives provide for greater student participation at the statewide level. At the same time, the Board hopes they will enhance the meaning and depth of the initiatives it proposes for consideration by local governing boards, and will lead to further development of an interlinked system of shared governance.

The Board of Governors directs the Chancellor to initiate or maintain the practice of the following actions, which are presented in the context of the general planning goal to which they make the greatest contribution.

Enhancing Access to Governance Mechanisms

Student participation in the formulation of policy and the development of recommendations at the statewide level has flourished since the advent of the Chancellor's Consultation Process. Nevertheless, it is the intent of the Board that students be ensured a recognized and continuing role in the statewide arena of governance. Ensuring broad-based participation by students will encourage them to identify with the community college system and its goals. Inherent in the opportunity for meaningful student participation is the incentive for students to become more actively involved, and consequently make the collegial process itself more meaningful.

In short, ensuring and enhancing the opportunity for students to participate in governance provides the framework upon which to build a true community of state-wide interest.

Action One

To foster participation in governance, the Chancellor's Office will ensure student membership on statewide governance committees, task forces, and similar groups. The extent of student membership will be determined by each committee or group, but will be such as to ensure the opportunity for student influence in the deliberative process. Where issues of governance arise in other committees or groups, the Chancellor's Office will provide opportunity for student participation.

Action Two

To enhance participation in the development of policy and to improve the quality of decisions by committees and other groups concerned with governance, student representatives will be granted the rights and privileges due to all members.

Action Three

Approved travel and per diem costs incurred by student representatives participating in statewide governance activities under the auspices of the Chancellor's Office will be reimbursed by that office in accordance with State rates.

Action Four

The Chancellor's Office will make every effort to maximize the opportunity for student participation in statewide governance through reasonable accommodation of time and resources. To facilitate student attendance, prior commitments of all members will be given equal consideration in scheduling meetings. As resources permit, students will be provided support and assistance needed to fulfill their committee responsibilities.

Improving Accountability

The Board of Governors believes that shared responsibility is implicit in the concept of shared governance. Therefore, students should understand that their participation in governance carries with it a corresponding responsibility for accurately and fully representing the concerns and interests of the student body at large. Student representatives necessarily must be held accountable to an officially recognized student government entity.

Action Five

In order that the students may have a formal and effective vehicle for participating in the formation of statewide policy, the Board of Governors recognizes the Council of Student Body Governments as the official organization representing the state's community college students before the Board of Governors, Chancellor's Office, and other statewide organizations dealing with community college issues and concerns.

In appointing students to committees, task forces, and other governance groups formed under the auspices of the Chancellor's Office, the Chancellor will request nominations by and consult with the Council of Student Body Governments. Requests for student nominations to committees outside the purview of the Chancellor's Office also will be coordinated with the council. Achieving student equity and diversity will be a significant factor in student appointments and nominations.

Action Six

Students will be required to maintain the scholastic standards of their institutions while serving in a statewide governance capacity. Student representatives will be expected to work within established parameters of the governance process.

Improving Quality and Effectiveness of Representation

The Board of Governors believes that students, like any other participants in governance, need to be fully informed and knowledgeable about such matters if they are to make sound judgments and effectively represent their constituency. This maximizes their effectiveness, and imbues recognition and trust as stakeholders in shared governance.

Action Seven

The Chancellor's Office will ensure to students, in a timely manner, the availability of all pertinent documents and materials related to governance matters.

Action Eight

The Chancellor's Office will provide means to strengthen student knowledge and understanding of governance issues through the provision of the following:

- An orientation conducted at the beginning of each academic year for the purpose of building mutual trust and responsibility among the participants, and of preparing them for meaningful participation in the statewide governance process. The orientation will include key Chancellor's Office personnel who participate in governance activities involving students.

- Ongoing consultation services provided in a regular and timely manner with committee chairpersons, or their designees, or other equally effective means of sharing knowledge and expertise with students.

Improving Communication and Coordination

Of all the proposed State-level initiatives, this is perhaps the single most potent and productive for encouraging greater student participation.

The diversity of student needs and the complexity of the developing community college system have fueled the need for better efforts by the State to facilitate communication and planning between the State and local levels. New approaches are needed to cooperatively develop and maintain a system that makes governance at both levels more accessible and responsive to students.

Fundamental elements of successful student participation in governance are information, communication, and coordination. The three functions require coordinated development and implementation. A new infrastructure instituted at the statewide level is needed that provides a more cohesive and systematic way of developing and sustaining student participation in systemwide and local governance.

The statewide office of the Academic Senate offers a well established precedent. A similar office for campus student bodies would be responsible for overall coordination and communication to meet their needs and to strengthen their opportunities, their effectiveness at the local level, and their links to State-level governance. This would require significant effort in terms of support programs, effective use of resources, increased communication and coordination between local and State levels, and increased accountability for carrying out student responsibilities in governance.

The lack of funding for these activities presents a serious obstacle to the stability and potential success of the new student role in governance. Successful student participation at the systemwide level requires the ongoing support and involvement of professional staff in determining directions and priorities, improving coordination on a day-to-day basis, and conducting research and planning. Such support is essential if students are to take their proper role in governance.

Action Nine

The Chancellor's Office will seek State funds to:

- establish and equip a student development office, including facilities rental, postage, communication, computer equipment, supplies, and printing costs.

- establish a professional staff consisting of one executive director, one full-time clerical support staff, and one student intern.
- reimburse travel and meeting costs incurred by student representatives and professional staff for participation in advisory committees, task forces, and the Chancellor's Consultation Process; for participation in intersegmental meetings; for participation in community college organizations, and for conducting workshops and conferences.
- pay for printing, word processing, and mailing costs related to the establishment of publications to facilitate communication and to promote student participation in student elections.

Action Ten

The Chancellor's Office will undertake to establish and maintain State-administered services to assist students and local districts in recruiting and training students for participation in governance, staff training in student development, and review and planning for encouraging greater student participation in governance.

Program and staff development efforts should combine traditional and emerging delivery methods. Where appropriate, workshops, conferences, and technical assistance should be augmented by new technologies, such as teleconferencing and computer bulletin boards.

Commended Initiatives for Local Governance

This section elaborates upon each of the initiatives the Board of Governors commends to local boards for encouraging greater student participation in district and college governance. The proposed initiatives are intended to provide guidance and direction that local governing boards may choose to follow as they develop their own mechanisms for encouraging greater student participation.

The recommendations are presented in the context of the general planning goal to which they make the greatest contribution.

Enhancing Access to Governance Mechanisms

Whereas most colleges and districts provide for student membership on a limited number of governance committees, students have not had the opportunity to participate fully in the formulation of policies, as well as in those processes for jointly developing recommendations for action, that have or will have significant effect upon them; nor have they been accorded the same rights and privileges generally held by their fellow members.

Students should know they are part of and belong to a community of learners, faculty, staff, and administrators. Involvement of students in local governance promotes student retention and identification with the institution and its goals. Moreover, methods for building a true community of interest include effective methods of student governance and of communication among students. Ensuring greater participation for students would directly benefit both them and the institution by creating greater incentive to participate and rendering the collegial process itself more meaningful for all.

Providing the same rights and privileges recognizes the role of students as participants, as colleagues, and as status-holding members of the institution.

Recommendation 1

To foster participation in local governance, students should be accorded membership on district and college governance committees, task forces, and similar groups. The extent of student membership will be determined by each committee or group, but should be such as to ensure the opportunity for student influence in the deliberative process.

Recommendation 2

As a symbol of institutional identity and as a means of fostering student participation and communication, the role of the student trustee on the district governing board should be strengthened by granting to him or her the rights and privileges accorded by law, such as the right to make and second motions and the right to receive compensation up to the prescribed limit (Education Code, Sections 72023.7 and 72425). The student trustee should also be given the right to have his or her advisory opinion on motions before the board reflected in the minutes.

Recommendation 3

To provide opportunity to influence the deliberative process and encourage improved policies and recommendations, student members of the various district and college governance bodies other than the district governing board should be granted the same rights and privileges generally held by fellow members.

Recommendation 4

Every district and college should maximize the opportunity for student participation in governance through reasonable accommodation of time and resources. To facilitate student attendance, the prior commitments of all members of any given committee should receive equal consideration in scheduling meetings. Students should have ready access to campus resources to adequately carry out committee responsibilities (e.g., use of telephones and office equipment, and printing and distribution of pertinent materials).

Improving Accountability

Whereas their participation in governance is both appropriate and necessary, students must appreciate that they have a responsibility for entering effectively into the process. Full and accurate representation of constituent concerns and interests is the essence of effective student participation. Therefore, student representatives must be accountable to an officially recognized student government association or organization.

Recommendation 5

Each college should formally recognize the associated student organization or its equivalent, as provided by Education Code, Section 76060, as the official body representing the college's enrolled student population.

Recommendation 6

Student representatives who serve on district or college committees, task forces, or other governance bodies should be recommended, or where appropriate, appointed by the officially recognized associated student organization or its equivalent, as provided by Education Code, Section 76060. The representatives are to be fully accountable to that organization(s). Achieving student equity and diversity should be a significant factor in student appointments and nominations.

Recommendation 7

Students should maintain the scholastic standards of the college while serving in governance capacities.

Recommendation 8

Student representatives should be expected to work within the established parameters of the governance process.

Improving the Quality and Effectiveness of Representation

If they are to make sound policy judgments and effectively represent their constituency, student representatives need to be fully informed and knowledgeable about committee matters. This will maximize their effectiveness, and will inspire mutual respect and trust as colleagues in shared governance.

To the degree that faculty, staff, and administrators work to bring about effective student participation, students will find natural and appropriate roles within the total governance structure. Several conditions should be fulfilled by colleges and districts to support student responsibility for involvement in shared governance.

Recommendation 9

Every district and college should ensure to students, in a timely manner, the availability of pertinent documents and materials related to governance activities. Resources should include, but not be limited to, background materials, including copies of past minutes, meeting agendas, and related documents.

Recommendation 10

Districts and colleges should provide appropriate means to strengthen student knowledge and understanding of governance issues in order to increase student preparedness, to foster greater self-confidence in student leadership roles, and to enhance student credibility.

Appropriate means should include:

- inservice training and orientation conducted at the beginning of each academic year for the purpose of building trust, fostering teamwork, and preparing for meaningful participation in the governance process. Those planning to participate in campus and district governance should be involved.
- the provision of ongoing consultative services such as regular, timely meetings with committee chairpersons, the development of mentorships, or other alternative means of sharing with students, supported by both faculty and administration.

Recommendation 11

Institutional commitment should be made to providing the comprehensive student development needed to facilitate and support the governance work of students, and to provide a leadership-development program and training for student representatives. Student development and training should be provided by qualified staff.

At a minimum, a student leadership course should be available to students interested in governance.

Recommendation 12

Districts and colleges should, in both word and deed, recognize the importance of local student government. Therefore, they should respect the integrity of and provide appropriate support for elections initiated by an associated student organization or its equivalent to conduct elections for the purpose of assessing a student representation fee or a student body center building and operating fee, as accorded by law (Education Code, Sections 54801, 54803, 54805, 76060.5, and 72253).

Proposed Minimum Standards Regarding Student Role/Governance

Assembly Bill 1725 (Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988) enacted a new structure of community college governance by (1) creating the California Community Colleges as a system, (2) delineating the roles of the Board of Governors and district governing boards, and (3) taking initial steps to create a postsecondary governance structure through strengthening the role of faculty, staff and students.

With respect to student roles in governance, one of the ongoing responsibilities of the Board of Governors provided in the AB 1725 delineation of functions is to establish:

" . . . minimum standards governing procedures established by governing boards of community college districts to ensure faculty, staff, and students the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards . . ."
[Education Code, Section 70901(b)(1)(E)]

The delineation of functions goes on to charge the district governing boards to "establish procedures not inconsistent with minimum standards established by the Board of Governors" to implement these roles. (Education Code, Section 70902(b)(7))

This proposal consists of changes in Title 5 regulations to meet the Board's obligation to develop minimum standards regarding student roles in governance. The proposed changes are additions to existing minimum standards of the Board of Governors contained in Sections 51000-51023 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

This proposed section (1) requires the governing boards of community college districts to adopt policies and procedures to provide students the opportunity to participate in districts and college governance; (2) defines the terms and the scope of such participation; and (3) provides a vehicle for student representation and for the selection of students to participate in governance activities.

Revisions to Existing Title 5 Regulations

Chapter 1. Minimum Standards

Add Section 51025.

51025. Students.

(a) The governing board of a community college district shall adopt policies and procedures that provide students the opportunity to participate effectively in district and college governance. Among other matters, said policies and procedures shall include the following:

(1) Students shall be provided an opportunity to participate in formulation and development of district and college policies and procedures that have or will have a significant effect on students. This right includes the opportunity to participate in processes for jointly developing recommendations to the governing board regarding such policies and procedures.

(2) Except in unforeseeable, emergency situations the governing board shall not take action on a matter having a significant effect on students until it has provided students with an opportunity to participate in the formulation of the policy or procedure or the joint development of recommendations regarding the action.

(3) Governing board procedures shall ensure that at the district and college levels, recommendations and positions developed by students are given every reasonable consideration.

(4) For the purpose of this section, the governing board shall recognize each associated student organization or its equivalent within the district as provided by Education Code Section 76060, as the representative body of the students to offer opinions and to make recommendations to the administration of a college and to the governing board of a district with regard to district and college policies and procedures that have or will have a significant effect on students. The selection of student representatives to serve on college or district committees, task forces, or other governance groups shall be made, after consultation with designated parties, by the appropriate officially recognized associated student organization(s) within the district.

(b) For the purposes of this section, district and college policies and procedures that have or will have a "significant effect on students" includes the following:

- (1) Grading policies.
- (2) Codes of student conduct.
- (3) Academic disciplinary policies.
- (4) Curriculum development.
- (5) Courses or programs which should be initiated or discontinued.
- (6) Processes for institutional planning and budget development.
- (7) Standards and policies regarding student preparation and success.
- (8) Student services planning and development.
- (9) Student fees within the authority of the district to adopt.
- (10) Any other district and college policy, procedure or related matter that the district governing board determines will have a significant effect on students.

(c) The governing board shall give reasonable consideration to recommendations and positions developed by students regarding district and college policies and procedures pertaining to the hiring and evaluation of faculty, administration, and staff.

(d) Nothing in this subchapter shall be construed to impinge upon the due process rights of faculty, nor to detract from any negotiations or negotiated agreements between collective bargaining agents and district governing boards. It is the intent of the Board of Governors to respect agreements between academic senates and collective bargaining agents as to how they will consult, collaborate, share or delegate among themselves the responsibilities that are or may be delegated to academic senates pursuant to the regulations on academic senates contained in Sections 53200-53205 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

(e) The governing board of a community college district shall comply substantially with policies and procedures adopted in accordance with this section.

Parking Program Considerations

The purpose of the following suggestions is to stimulate discussion on a variety of possible methods to address and fund parking problem resolutions.

1. Raise fees to $40 per semester (legal maximum) for all students and staff drivers.
2. Raise Summer parking fees to $20 (legal maximum) for all student and staff drivers.
3. Designate a percentage of each semester or session fees for public transportation service.
---Discount/free ridership passes on City and County Transit.
4. Remaining portion of parking fees would support the following:
---Ride-share program
---Additional parking lots
---Van operation to external sites
---Parking lot operation and maintenance
5. Staff ride-share program designed to have 3 or more staff members share rides and receive severely reduced parking fees ($5 each per semester).
---Each would receive a same numbered permit to a specific lot.
---Should two or more permits show up in the same lot staff would be subject to parking violation and fees.
6. Student ride-share program on a volunteer ride-share coordination.
---Preferential parking for 3 or more carpoolers in one vehicle by reduced fee and controlled parking lot location.
---Each student would have a special ride-share i.d.
---Either a reduced semester fee ($5 each) or a free daily access.
7. Daily parking fee would be raised to $1.50 per day.
8. ASB Discount would continue at $7 per semester.

PRESIDENTIAL WISH LIST

December 4, 1990

Dear Officers of Executive Cabinet:

I have listed below five items which I feel should be priorities of the College Student Assembly. They are items which were not necessarily discussed at the retreat, mostly because we were unaware of these problems at the time. However, I feel that these challenges should be given strong consideration by the Cabinet between our final meeting and the next meeting in the Spring semester.

I realize that there will be other suggestions from yourselves and members of the Assembly, but at this time I would like you to review what I have listed. My hope is that at our next meeting on December 12, 1990, you will each come to Executive Cabinet with suggestions of your own, which may or may not be the same, and at that time we can prioritize them and make a recommendation to the Assembly when we meet again in the new year.

From: Nancy Warborn, Director

Re: Mission Statement Endorsement

I am very pleased to tell you that the Mission Statement for the Year 2000 was endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Foundation Board of Trustees at their October meeting. (The statement was on the agenda for both the May and July meetings, but action was delayed due to time constraints.) I've enclosed a copy of the statement. The Board made only one addition which is in the second paragraph: "culturally enlighten, intellectually stimulate and entertain the campus community."

I've written an article about the statement and its development for the January/February issue of Programming. The statement will also appear in the article. I'll send you a copy of the magazine when it is back from the printer. We'll also follow up with additional news coverage of the project in the March issue.

The statement has already been put to use! Bill Smedick, NACA vice chair for regions and director of student activities and the union at Johns Hopkins used the statement both for planning on his campus and in educational sessions he presented this fall.

Once again, let me thank you for your dedication to this project. Its been a long process, but the result was well worth it.

If I can be of assistance to you in the future, please call me.

Campus Activities Mission Statement for the Year 2000

The campus activities profession enhances and supports the academic missions of educational institutions because learning and personal development occur in every setting on the campus. Student involvement in and out of class increases student retention; student volunteering is a vehicle for developing skills while providing programs and services that improve the quality of campus and community life; and students' leadership abilities are developed and improved through participation in campus organizations and structured leadership development experiences.

Campus activities directly, visibly and purposefully supports the educational goals and mission of the institution, acclimates students to the campus, helps them identify with the institution and promotes a sense of community belonging. In support of this purpose, campus activities provides programs and services, alone and in collaboration with other administrative and academic units, that 1) culturally enlighten, intellectually stimulate and entertain the campus community; 2) promote student self-worth and dignity; 3) develop self-confidence; 4) help students become better prepared for life-long learning and increased organizational and social complexity; 5) teach students fiscal responsibility; 6) provide developmental experiences for students to help them take responsibility for program and service delivery; and 7) teach responsible citizenship and help students take responsible social action. Campus activities facilitates the design and delivery of programs that address the major topics/issues of the day. It brings the campus community together in activities outside the classroom in ways that will unite it and encourage the appreciation of diversity.

Campus activities offices link with the offices of pre-admissions, recruitment and enrollment management to support their efforts to recruit and retain students. It serves as an agent for student/faculty/administration interaction and promotes partnerships and collaboration with campus offices/departments.

In the year 2000, campus activities offices will serve an increasingly diverse student population. International populations on campus will have increased, including a greater population of immigrants. There will be a higher proportion of women on campus, and more older students, enrolling to obtain a degree because their job requires it, retired people and others returning for self-development, and those who need retraining for new careers. Populations of Latinos, and other traditionally recognized minority groups, will have increased along with non-residential students. There will be a distinct stratification of student populations, based on their economic resources, at many institutions. And in some institutions, there will be a larger population of graduate students served, and more student participants in assessment and other research.

Campus activities program and service delivery systems will continue to be varied. They will include major events, special interest lectures, training programs, workshops and retreats, cultural and multi-cultural programs, film and video programs, etc. In other words, there will be a continuation of both educational and traditional services. Computers will be necessities for administrative functions and processes, and computers and videos will be used for orientation, promotion, teaching and learning. At the same time, there will be increased pressure to personalize communication, and increased development of targeted communications to specific groups within the campus population. Visuals that advertise, promote and market will be increasingly important in order to attract the desired segment of the student population, and communication will occur through direct mailings, radio spots, videos, t.v., cassette tapes, local newspapers, and through methods like "town meetings," or "traveling administration" strategies to take decision makers to the people in efforts to build relationships.

Please post and attach to your classes.

Beer busts

The worst drug problem on college campuses was on display again this past weekend. Not crack or marijuana or heroin, but alcohol.

In Chico, Rancho Chico Days degenerated into beer-fueled rioting. Ten policemen were injured; 93 people were arrested.

The previous weekend, the scene was San Luis Obispo; the event was the Poly Royal Festival. More than 1,000 revelers vandalized cars, homes and businesses. In one incident, a crowd chanting "free beer, free beer" smashed the windows of a liquor store, and frightened employees inside threw out full bottles of champagne to keep the crowd at bay.

One can only imagine the kind of outrage that would have resulted had widespread illegal drugs use fueled these riots. But, since beer seemed to be the refreshment of choice, some might dismiss this all as just an overdose of spring fever. Unfortunately, it speaks to something much more serious — and should be treated as such with a crackdown on these events and prosecution of those involved in illegal acts.

Through all the rhetoric about fighting illegal drug use, it is easy to forget that the abuse of alcohol exacts a even higher toll — in lives wasted or prematurely ended.

It's a message that public schools and colleges have become more conscious of delivering to students. But based on the rampages in San Luis Obispo and Chico the past two weekends, many still aren't getting it.

Study Room : Let's Keep What We Ask For

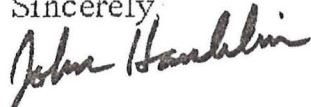

When I wrote the Study Room Resolution I was under the impression that I understood what the students wanted. I still believe I know what the students want and that is a room that the students can study and congregate in with food and drink. After a long discussion with Margaret Beck (the main student who brought this to our attention) this is the phrase we came up with. Now, in detail, these were our thoughts behind this phrase and the study room.

- 1) Want a room to get out of the cold and study in in the Barnett Hall area.
- 2) Want to be able to take concessions, bought in the Barnett Hall area, into the room.
- 3) Want a room where the older students don't feel alienated by the younger students.
- 4) Want a room with tables, chairs, plenty of light, and heating.
- 5) Want the room to be open during all the hours that the school is open.
- 6) my addition (carpet is ok).

In order to keep all of these wants Margaret and I decided that only the bare essentials should be put in this room. Why? Because in the past, the privilege to have a room available to the students at all hours or to allow food and drink in a room has been taken away for the reason of carelessness towards the furniture (this includes spilling coffee or crumbs on the carpet or couches). Even Margaret said, "We don't need carpet because the food and drink would only get spilled on it."

Finally, the students aren't looking for more than what they originally asked for. They aren't looking for hot and cold running water, they aren't looking for couches, all they want is a study room where they can take their food and drink into any time the school is open.

Sincerely,

John Hamblin

Re: Student Lounge Requests.

Curt, here is a letter for your records in regards to the proposed Student Lounge in the Barnett/Maggini Hall area.

At the ninth meeting of the College Student Assembly, April 2, 1990, the assembly carried a motion to endorse the resolution which I have attached. Although this resolution does not formally endorse the creation of a "Student Lounge", I believe that if one reads lines which I have marked with asterisks it is clearly implied that this was the intent of the students last Spring 1990.

As you know, I consider this a high priority item as it is the mission of the college to provide the means necessary for students to further their education. As it has been noticed by many factions on campus there is a need for a Student Lounge in that area.

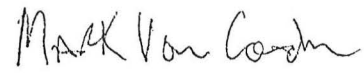

As we discussed I am including a list of several specifications that are important when envisioning the end result of such a lounge. Please keep in mind that C.S.A. in no way intends this area to be an electronic game room, but rather a place on the south-west end of campus for students to relax and study.

Generally, I would think that the lounge should include the following:

- 1) Enough square footage for thirty people to sit comfortably.
- 2) Preferably with at least a few windows, as we are not looking for a classroom atmosphere.
- 3) A warm room atmosphere. Carpet, warm paint color for the walls, and a couple wall pictures of the J.C. or something on that order.
- 4) Furnishings along the lines of the Doyle Student Lounge: Tables for four, table chairs, several comfortable lounge chairs, and a couple three person couches.
- 5) It would be nice to have hot and cold running water for students to make a cup of tea or instant coffee, as many students are there late on cold evenings.

I can't think of much else that would be needed, but other ideas on the part of the committee or yourself would be welcomed. I sincerely thank you for all your help, and the help of the committee to finally bring this issue to a decision. It will be well appreciated by the students in that area for years to come. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Mark K. Van Gorder
A.S. President

Attachment: as stated above.

STUDY ROOM RESOLUTION

Whereas, currently there are no available rooms for students to study and congregate with food and or drink in Barnett Hall.

* Whereas the space available in Lark Hall, Shuhaw Hall, the Doyle Student Lounge, the cafeteria and the library are not adequate due to distance from Barnett Hall, set purpose and other restrictions.

* Whereas classes are still being held when other facilities, such as the Doyle Student lounge and the cafeteria, are closed.

Whereas the cafeteria is the only place where food and drink is allowed

Whereas the only place where adequate space is always available is in the library which is located on the North-Eastern portion of campus.

Whereas there is an increased risk of bodily injury during nights and on poor weather days if students have to migrate to an adequate study area.

Let it be resolved that a room should be made available to occupy thirty students in Barnett Hall, during campus hours, for students to study and congregate with food and or drink.
